SEEK TO BAR PEACHES' ACT IN HOMESTEAD

FRANCES "PEACHES" HEENAN BROWNING

Ministers Demand That Theater Appearance of Browning's Ex-Wife Be Cancelled.

Facing a storm of protest by Homestead ministers and a one-man complaint to the Homestead Chamber of Commerce, Frances "Peaches" Browning, unheralded by "honking ganders" or "woofing daddies" arrived in Pittsburgh this morning with her mother and two yapping Pekinese pups, but strange to say, she refused to be photographed and only consented to an interview after much coaxing.

The only formal protest against "Peaches" appearance in a Homestead theater tonight came from the Rev. J. H. Douds. The Chamber of Commerce, after hearing his complaint, "preferred to do nothing about it." Other ministers in the borough have issued statements denouncing "Peaches," but nothing will be done in an official way until the Ministerial Association is re-organized at a meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Arriving here from Detroit to fulfill a three-night engagement at the Stahl Theater, Homestead, "Peaches" and her retinue slipped into the William Penn Hotel unobserved except for the clerk and a bell hop. "Ma" Heenan registered "Mrs. Catherine Heenan and daughter." "Peaches" uses "Daddy's" name only for theatrical billings.

It was the noon hour when the Sun-Tele representatives called.

"Peaches" was out, so the reporter waited for her in the lobby. He did not have to wait long. A

Today

Hopeful at 100.
The Companionate Monkey.
Mr. Tunney's Ideals.
Better Miracles.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1927).

MISS EMILY HOWLAND celebrates her one hundredth birthday, at Sherwood, a little village in New York State.

Engaged in educational work for eighty years, she was a teacher long before the country heard of Abraham Lincoln, or dreamed of a Civil War.

IN YOUTH and old age, Miss Howland has set a good example. She worked to abolish physical slavery for Negroes, and political slavery for women, when she was young. And now, celebrating her one hundredth birthday, she is full of hope for the future, and of optimism concerning the present. Young girls today are good girls, she says, and the world is progressing toward higher, better ideals.

Such a woman as Miss Emily Howland should live forever.

MR. HALDEMAN-JULIUS, a Kansas publisher of books, approves his young daughter's experiment in "companionate marriage." The girl, 18, will marry a 20-year-old boy, the two "will continue living their lives after marriage as they lived previously, until they determine whether they are entirely suited to each other." Until then they won't live together, at least not in the same house.

Exactly what the plan is seems uncertain. But other things are certain, including this:

Until they live together they cannot possibly know whether they are suited to each other or not.

COMPANIONATE marriage is as old as the human race and as old as the monkey race. All the monkeys live in companionate marriage, free to quit at any time, and they like it.

It took human beings thousands of centuries to establish marriage—a device by which providence and women, co-operating, are gradually teaching men to be decent.

It's a slow process, but that is no reason for getting discouraged and going back to old monkey days and ways.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE told Mr. Tunney that he looked more like a moving picture actor than a fighter. The President, perhaps, meant that Tunney looked less like a gorilla than some fighters.

Tunney looked like a fighter in France, wearing the Marines' uniform, while some other prize fighters were hiding under the bed or in safe camps at home teaching soldiers to box.

MR. TUNNEY, who is in the Naval Reserve, tells the youth of the world that the great things in life are "religion, loyalty, duty."

A good list. Youth will say to itself that a good "uppercut" will carry you farther on the road to prosperity, in our civilization, than any amount of religion, loyalty and duty.

Be loyal to your fellow man, do your duty, be religious and you'll be happy. Knock your fellow man out, and you'll be rich.

THE REV. DR. STRATON says we might now have miracles as wonderful as those of the olden times. He has seen a woman "virtually dead already" brought back to life by prayer.

MODERN miracles of the scientific kind are more wonderful than old miracles.

Men go in submarines under the water and in flying machines above it, instead of walking on it.

They prevent disease by common sense and curb it with inoculation, saving millions of lives

Paint Rum King Cold Killer

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTHOUSE, CINCINNATI, Nov. 21.—George Remus was portrayed as "the deliberate, cold-blooded murderer" of his wife, Imogene by Walter K. Sibbald, assistant phosecutor, in the opening statement of the state at the trial of Remus today.

Sibbald declared "Remus and his crowd" deliberately planned the slaying and that Remus, the former bootleg king, carried it out. Remus shot his wife in Eden Park on the morning of October 6, when she was on her way to court to divorce him.

A dramatic touch was given to the courtroom scene a few minutes before Sibbald began his opening statement at 11:53 a. m., when Ruth Remus, 19-year-old daughter of the slain Imogene Remus, entered the courtroom through a door leading to the judge's chamers. She was attired entirely in black and a heavy black veil covered half of her pale face.

She dabbed her eyes with a handkerchief as she looked at Remus, now defending himself on the charge of murder. It was the first time she had seen him since the morning of the tragedy. She was in the taxicab with her mother when Remus'

THAW IN RIOT AT NESBIT 'NIGHT' CLUB

HARRY K. THAW

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Harry K. Thaw returned to Broadway night life and the headlines today.

The slayer of Stanford White visited the night club just opened by Evelyn Nesbit, his former wife, and left in an uproar, leaving broken glasses and confusion behind.

Thaw, accompanied by Morgan Pendleton, his personal bodyguard, entered the club, the Chez Evelyn, at the height of the evening's entertainment. He was greeted cordially by Miss Nesbit, who spent some time at his table. As was his custom, he gathered a half dozen or more of the girl entertainers of the club around him.

Then Thaw and Pendleton got into an argument. Evelyn left the table. Two newspaper cameramen were present and set off flashlights to get a picture of the fun. Pendleton

BOMB CLAIRTON HOTEL, RAILROAD BRIDGE

A score or more families were shaken up and 12 persons narrowly escaped death or serious injury early yesterday morning when the hotel of John Sposato, 229 State street, Clairton, was bombed. The front of the building, a three-story brick, was blown out and a large three-story frame structure adjoining also was wrecked. Windows were shattered almost a half mile around.

In another bombing which also occurred yesterday morning, a bridge on a Pennsylvania Railroad spur leading to the Valley Coal Company's Kinlock mine, near Parnassus, was damaged. The blast was the second at the scene, the bridge having been badly damaged two weeks ago. A concrete pier was shattered yesterday.

HURLED FROM BEDS

Sposato, his wife, Mrs. Susie Sposato; six children, Frank, 14; Nick, 10; John, 10; Joseph, 4 months; Laura, 4, and Angelo, 2; and four boarders, Milwood Bush, Albrt Tucker, Thomas Allio and George Agatto, were sleeping on the second and third floors of the hotel when the Clairton bombing occurred. The bomb was placed between a screen and the front door of the place and the explosion demolished the whole first floor. A heavy mahogany bar in the restaurant was splintered; the front hall and stairs were wrecked and occupants of the building were hurled from their beds.

Train Kills Hiker on Way Home

By International News Service.

COATESVILLE, Pa., Nov. 21.—Hiking from New York to spend Thanksgiving Day with his parents, Harold E. McNeil, 29, of Pittsburgh, was killed instantly here when he was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train.

McNeil and a companion, Theodore Miller, of Johnstown, were starting to cross the railroad tracks to catch a freight train.

MINERS' PLEA IS HEARD

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—President Coolidge was strongly urged today by a delegation of officials of the American Federation of Labor and the United Mine Workers to call an immediate conference of miners and operators to end the present strike of bituminous coal workers in the Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia fields.

At the same time the delegation, headed by William Green, president of the federation, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, requested the chief executive to demand a congressional investigation of "an alleged conspiracy" on the part of large railroads of the country to depress the price of coal for fuel purposes.

Still a third request was made that President Coolidge use his good office in an effort to stop Federal and state courts from issuing further injunctions against the striking and home-evicted miners.

President Coolidge promised the delegation that he would con confer with Secretary Davis of the Labor Department to determine whether he could call a conference of miners and operators to settle their disputes.

MacNiders Walk Home From Ride In Airplane

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Hanford MacNider, assistant secretary of war, with Mrs. MacNider and Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, walked home from an airplane ride Sunday.

A three-motored Fokker plane in which they were returning to the Capital ran out of gasoline and made a forced landing in a cornfield a mile and a half from Bolling Field. They walked in. Nobody was injured.

KEARNS CALLS OFF SUIT AGAINST DEMPSEY

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 21.—Jack Kearns' $333,333.33 suit against Jack Dempsey came to an abrupt end in Federal Court today when Judge William Runyon granted the prize fight manager's motion for a voluntary non-suit.

This closes the books as far as any action on the part of Kearns against Dempsey in New Jersey is concerned.

There has been no settlement, however, according to the principals in the case, and Kearns announced that he would proceed against his former fighter in New Yorw courts, where an action is pending.

Equitable Repairs in Blast Area

The Equitable Gas Company today started its rehabilitation program in the blasted Manchester district. Windows in 50 homes, where the need was urgent, were replaced by the building maintenance department of the company.

The company will proceed to repair at its own expense the scores of homes hit by the blast.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH team today was selected to oppose the Stanford University Cardinals in the annual tournament of Roses, east-west football game, at Pasadena, next January 2.

Blakeslee added Pitt likely would accept the invitation if received.

$50,000 SENT AGENT

By JOHN PAGE
(Copyright, 1927, by the Washington Herald.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Mexican money for the propagation of Russia's red doctrine has been spent lavishly by President Calles not only in his own country and in the territory of his Central American neighbors, as shown by the Hearst papers in preceding articles of this series, but in Russia itself and China.

Orders drawn by the Mexican executive on his Treasury Department and published by The Sun-Telegraph elsewhere in facsimile today prove the world-wide scope of his pro-Bolshevist activities. Both orders were made payable to Basilio Badillo, the Mexican minister to Russia.

The larger sum, $100,000, was to be turned over to "Citizen Basil Livitnoff," designated by Calles as "secret agent of Mexico in Leningrad," for the carrying out of propaganda arrangements spoken of by Calles in a letter written by him to Minister Badillo. This letter was published by the Sun-Telegraph Saturday.

The smaller sum, $50,000, Minister Badillo was instructed to use for "propaganda expenses in favor of Mexico in China." In both instances, it will be noted from the text of

HOW MEXICO AIDED COMMUNISM IN RUSSIA AND CHINA

Further proof of Mexico's efforts to promote Bolshevism not only in Mexico and Central America, but also in the East is given in today's Sun Telegraph.

In today's article is shown how Calles spent lavishly sending money to a secret envoy in Russia to promote the Bolshevistic cause both in Russia itself and in China.

Facsimiles of Calles' orders for $150,000 on the National Treasury are reproduced from the original orders, signed by Calles himself, in the possession of the Hearst newspapers.

The order issued for money to be used in China was for the purpose of helping Russia organize a strong Red party in China, which, Calles hoped, would become all-powerful and add enormous population of Chi[illegible] the proposed union of Communist countries.

3 Die, Troops Out at Mines

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—First blood was shed in the I. W. W. coal strike in Colorado early today when state policemen fired on several hundred strikers who stormed the Columbine mine of the Rocky Mountain Fuel and Iron Company, 30 miles north of Denver.

Three strikers were known to have been killed and more than a score were injured. Strikers asserted that from 7 to 10 had been slain, but this could not be verified. Many of the state officers were injured.

Gov. W. H. Adams ordered out part of the Colorado National Guard and proclaimed martial law in the coal fields of Northern Colorado.

The state policemen turned a hail of bullets into the strikers after a hand to hand battle in which the officers were overwhelmed by the large crowd that swarmed into the mine property and ignored commands to halt.

There were some women sympathizers in the ranks of the strikers and at least two women were wounded.

One of the dead and several of the wounded were left on the mine property. The wounded were rushed to hospitals at Longmont and Boulder.

Several of the state officers also were taken to hospitals suffering from painful injuries.

One of the injured was a woman dressed in the clothing of a man.

Physicians at the hospital said that six strikers being treated there probably would die. Thirteen others were expected to survive their wo[illegible]

SUSPECT IS SHOT AS SCHENLEY "RAIDING BURGLAR"

ROBBERIES BELIEVED CLEARED

Solution of numerous attempted robberies in the Schenley Farms district was seen today in the arrest of William Morrisentony, 25, captured when he was shot in the leg by Patrolman Edward Reynolds in Parkman street.

Police believe Morrisentony, who gave his home as St. Louis, is the burglar who has been tampering with locks on Schenley Farms homes, boring holes and filling them with putty pending his return.

Seen this morning in the yard of M. J. Dowling at 4154 Bigelow boulevard, he answered Patrolman Reynolds' command to halt by firing at the officer. In the return fire the fugitive was wounded, but staggered to the rear of 215 Lytton avenue, where he was overcome and his gun, with its barrel jammed, was found near a burglar's kit.

In Homeopathic Hospital, Morrisentony for two hours refused to answer questions.

Police last night guarded the Bryant street home of the Rev. A. R. Robinson, Sixth United Presbyterian Church, after Mrs. Robinson found holes had been drilled in the sash near the lock and then filled with putty.

FIREMEN, POLICE MEET COUNCIL ON PAY RAISE

Representatives of the Fraternal Order of Police and the Firemen's Protective Association conferred today with members of council in an effort to get action on the police and firemen's pay raise ordinance.

The bill, providing a maximum increase of $480 annually, graduated over a period of three years, was presented last summer and is being held for consideration during budget making. Several compromise measures have been suggested.

Introduction of the ordinance followed the failure of police and firemen to obtain passage of state legislation to provide a referendum on the subject in Pittsburgh. John Heinz and Dennis Sullivan, representing the firemen, and Philip Kumpf and Harry Hyer, representing the police, are directing the campaign for the increase.

The latest request for a pay raise reached council today in a bill providing that the salaries of nine water works clerks be increased from $1,740 to $2,100 annually.

Captured "Taking Back Stolen Turkeys"

Things looked gloomy for Chester Pitzkowski, 17, of 1915 Mary street, when he appeared in Morals Court today, and it was testified that he had been found in possession of three dressed turkeys which had been stolen from the South Side plant of Armour & Co. The boy explained that the stolen birds had been given him by John Minauskis, 14, of 1815 Fox way, and that he was returning them to the owners.

"John took 'em and wanted to take them back, but was afraid," said Chester, "so I offered to face the music for him."

Chester was released and John was turned over to the officers of the Juvenile Court.

EAST LIBERTY "Y" PLANS FOR WINTER

Winter activities in the boys' division of the East Liberty Y. M. C. A., 122 Whitfield street, now are under way. Instead of a father-and-son "play nite" this year, banquets for the different older groups are planned. Next Monday the first of these scheduled in the auditorium of the "Y," mothers of the older boy members will serve the tables. The "newsies" Thanksgiving party is scheduled for next Wednesday evening.

William Hughes, Richard Hughes and William McClung are leaders in a plan to organize the "newsies" of the "Y" into an association that would have regular dues, athletics, social and club privileges, as well as restricted membership.

Judge Shook declined to permit Remus to Call Prosecutor Taft to the witness stand.

Pani Evades

The readers of The Sun-Telegraph will have noticed, by this time, that the Mexican Secretary of the Treasury, Alberto J. Pani, never signed the Treasury Department orders carrying out the wishes of President Calles in regard to the spending of Mexican money in anti-American measures or Bolshevist propaganda. Secretary Pani always evaded this responsibility, requiring his subordinates to sign the necessary orders. Senor Pani resigned his position as head of the Treasury Department last February. Pani's intimate friends attributed his resignation to long standing disagreement with Calles over the latter's reckless expenditures of treasury funds everywhere save at home, where they were most needed.

Early this year, and just prior to Pani's resignation from the Treasury Department, President Calles ordered him to have $50,000 telegraphed to the Mexican Fiscal Agent in New York for transfer to the Mexican Minister to Russia, "for propaganda expenses in favor of Mexico in China."

Calles in Plot

This was done just as the Chinese Nationalists were massing for the northward march on Shanghai, inspired largely by Russian Soviet agents, who played skillfully on Chinese patriotism and just resentment against the world powers for injuries suffered in the past. The Russian dream was to paint the Chinese Nationalists a vivid Russian Red, aid them to conquer the whole of China and add 400,000,000 Chinese to the Bolshevist cohorts for the "world struggle" against capitalism.

President Calles participated in this dream and was willing to spend Mexican money to translate it into reality. His order on the Mexican Treasury Department to transfer money to Russia for this purpose follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit:

You will please order the Citizen Treasurer General of the Nation to transfer by telegraph in care of the Financial Agent of Mexico in New York the sum of $50,000 (Fifty thousand dollars) to be delivered to Citizen Basilio Badillo, Minister of Mexico in Russia, for propaganda expenses in favor of Mexico in China.

Have Original

The Hearst papers, as usual, have the original of this order, bearing the hand-written signature of President Calles. It was given to them by anti-Bolshevist employes of the Mexican government.

This $50,000 gift was not the Mexican Executive's only contribution to the cause of unrest in China. He and members of his cabinet were present at the inaugural ceremonies of the Mexican branch of the Chinese Kuo Ming Tang in Mexico City, on Lopez street, October 25, 1926.

This revolutionary organization was supported warmly by Calles and his subordinates from the first day is opened for business. Its agents spread rapidly over the Mexican republic, soliciting and obtaining contributions to the Chinese revolutionary fund from merchants of that nationality everywhere. Frequently they found Chinese who were unsympathetic with their revolutionary ideals and unwilling to contribute to the Kuo Min Tang fund. Such were threatened with prompt expulsion from the country unless they came across. When it was found that Kuo Min Tang agents were making such threats with the knowledge and approval of Mexican officials, merchants and laundrymen fought with each other to get their names first on the lists of contributors.

(On Wednesday the Hearst papers will show the hand of Calles reaching over into England, meddling with the internal affairs of Great Britain during a recent critical period in her history.)

DEAD FOOTBALL HERO HONORED

Sharpsburg's football hero was laid to rest today. The whole town has mourned the death of Charles Marsico, 15, high school football captain, who died Friday as the result of an injury suffered in a game several weeks ago. The high school has been closed for the remainder of the week and the Thanksgiving game with Aspinwall has been canceled.

Yesterday hundreds of Sharpsburg students visited the Marsico home and practically the whole student body attended the funeral services at 9 o'clock this morning at the Madonna Jerusalem Roman Catholic Church. Interment was made in St. Mary's Cemetery.

buzzing of excited voices, gradually growing in intensity until it was almost a babble, brought the realization that something unusual was taking place.

Something was—"Peaches" and her mother were approaching—and how! Cream colored shoes and hose; a leopard skin coat; blue hat—a-a-a-ah! It was she.

"A reporter! Oh, mother, how terrible!" were her first remarks. "No, I have nothing to say. And I WON'T stand for another picture. Surely you have enough pictures of me already.

"I don't like publicity—I want to get away from it all and there's no use of you bothering me for an interview. Yes, this is the first time I have ever been in Pittsburgh and I don't care what your ministers say. I've never done anything wrong unless you call making a mistake in choosing a husband a terrible thing.

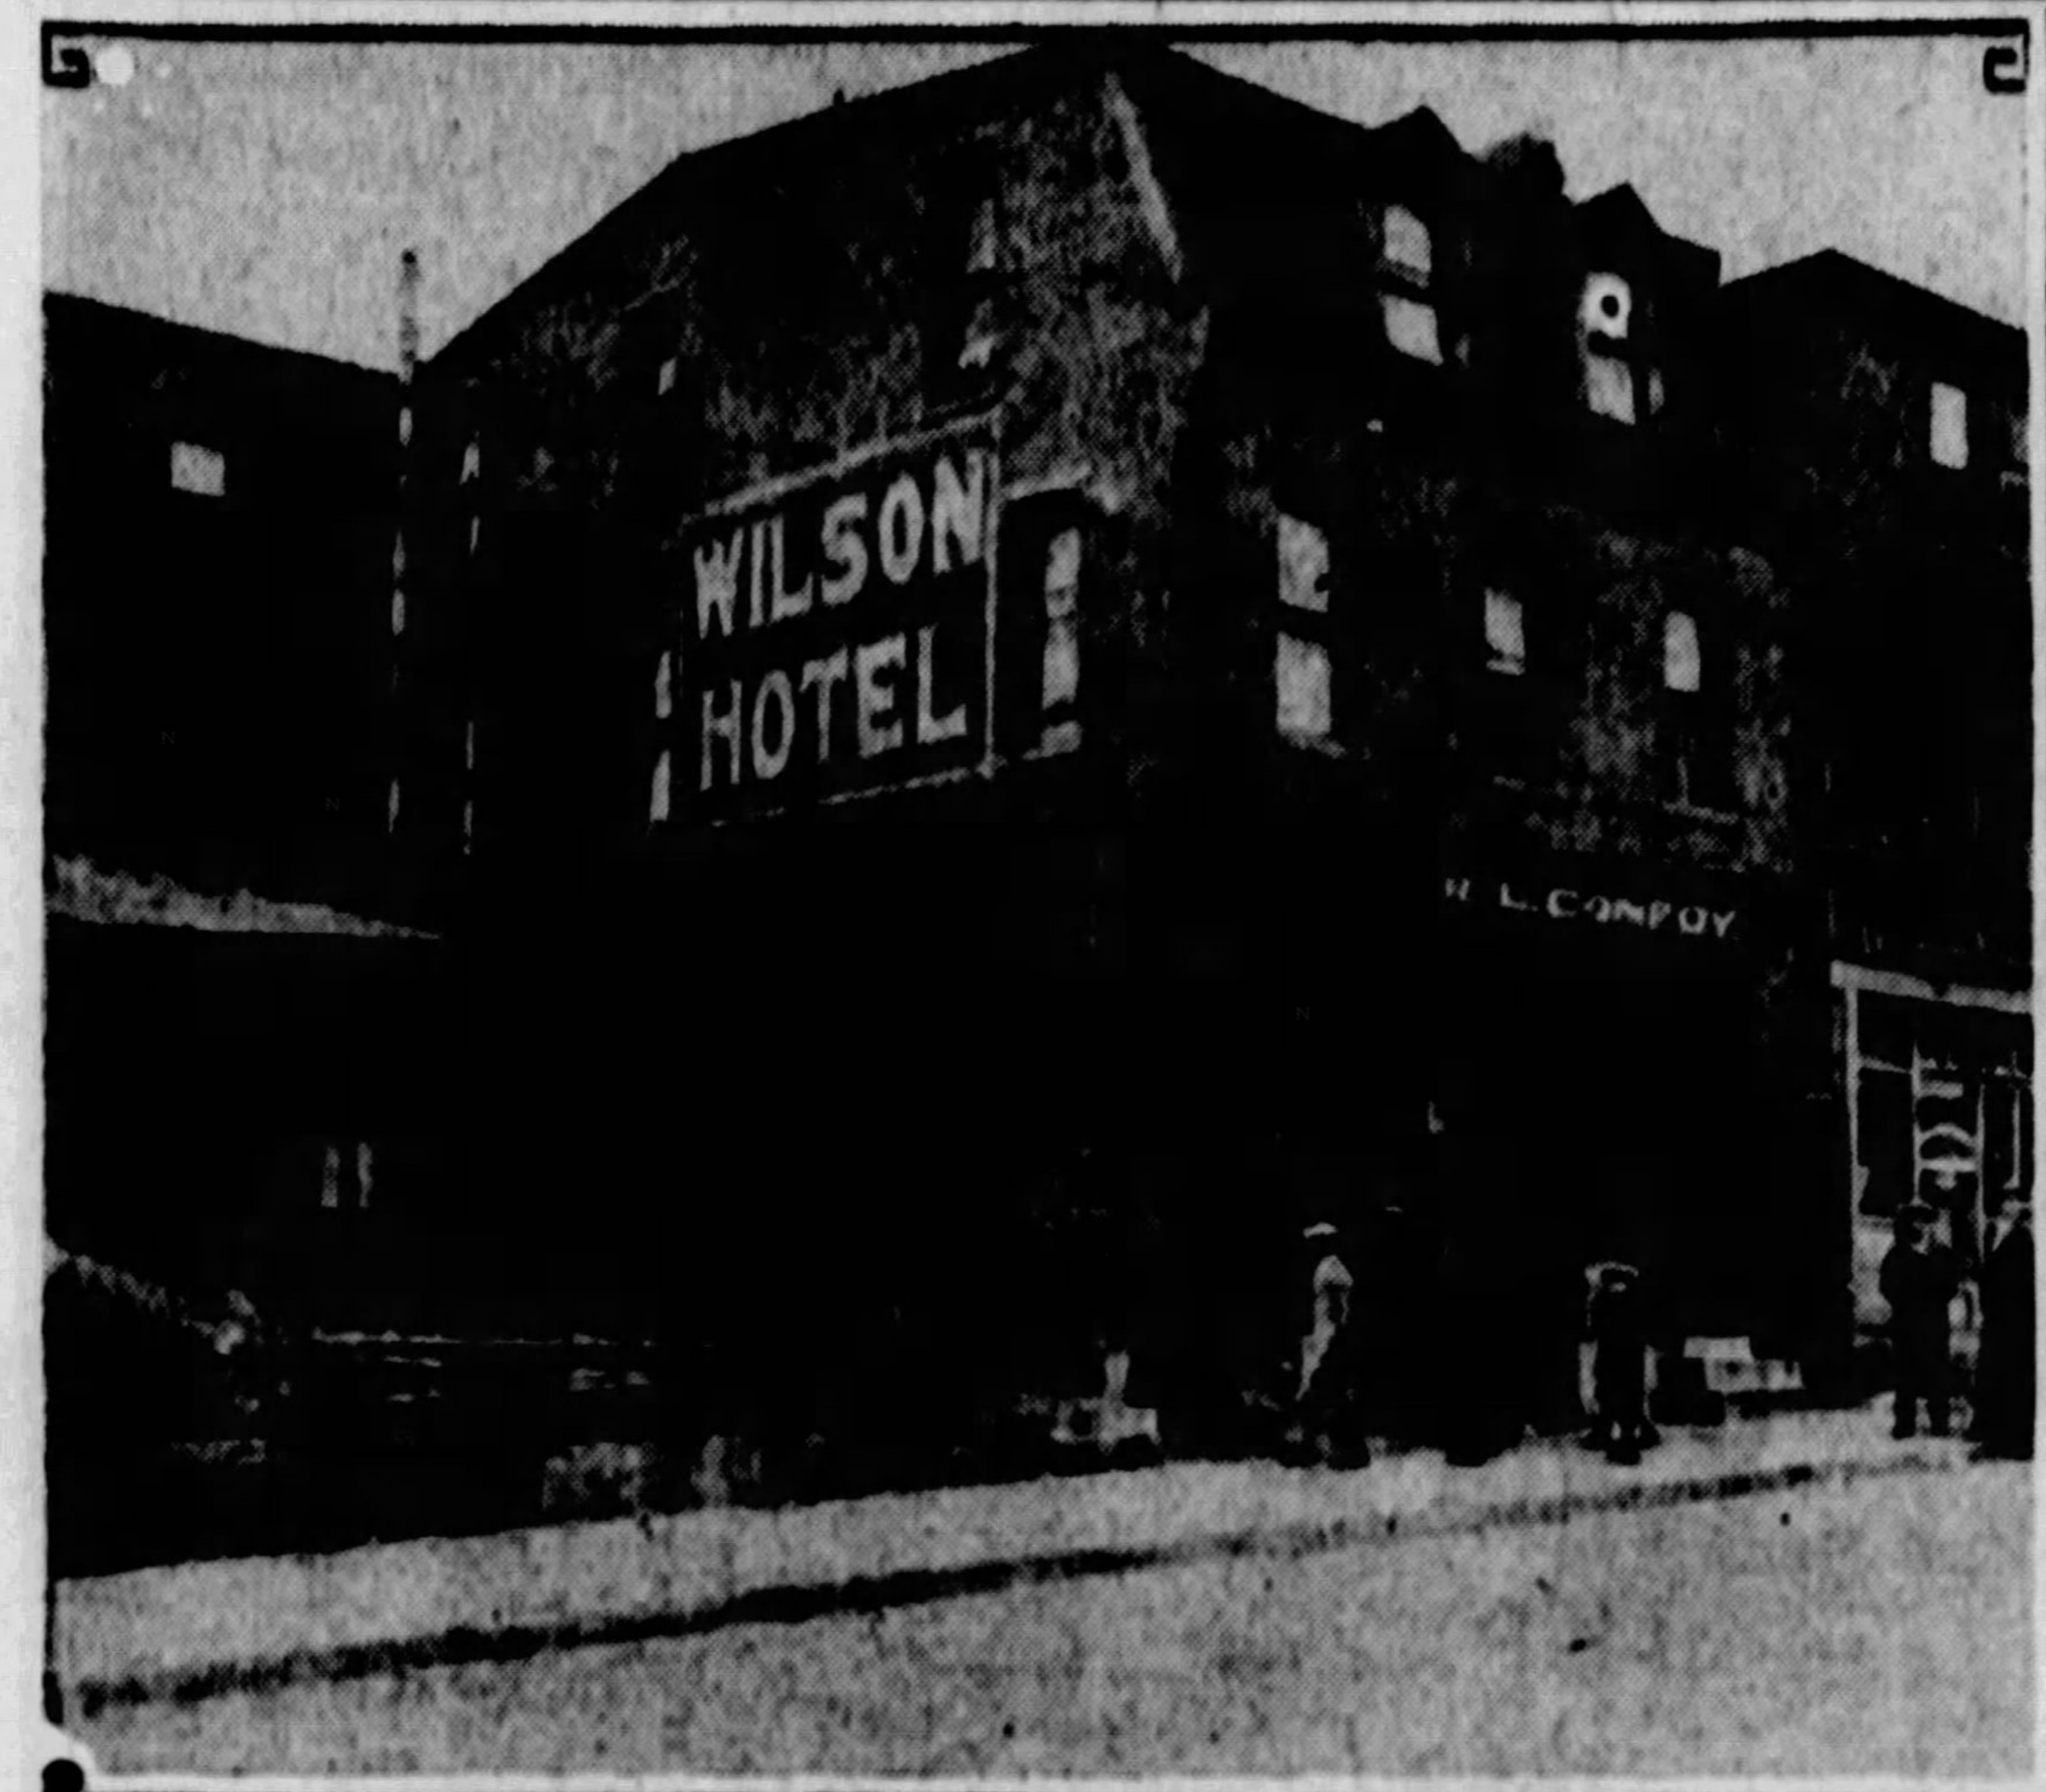
"I know they barred me from appearing in Pittsburgh and I refused to fill the Homestead engagement until they told me it was out of the city, and I wouldn't have to listen to your ministers. I don't see why they should pick on me just because I happened to have a husband who got so much publicity."

John Stahl, owner of the theater, declared that "Peaches" hadn't done anything wrong except that she had married "an old man" and said the performances would go on as scheduled. "Peaches" will appear tonight, tomorrow, Wednesday.

SEIZE GUNS AIMED FOR GANG KILLINGS

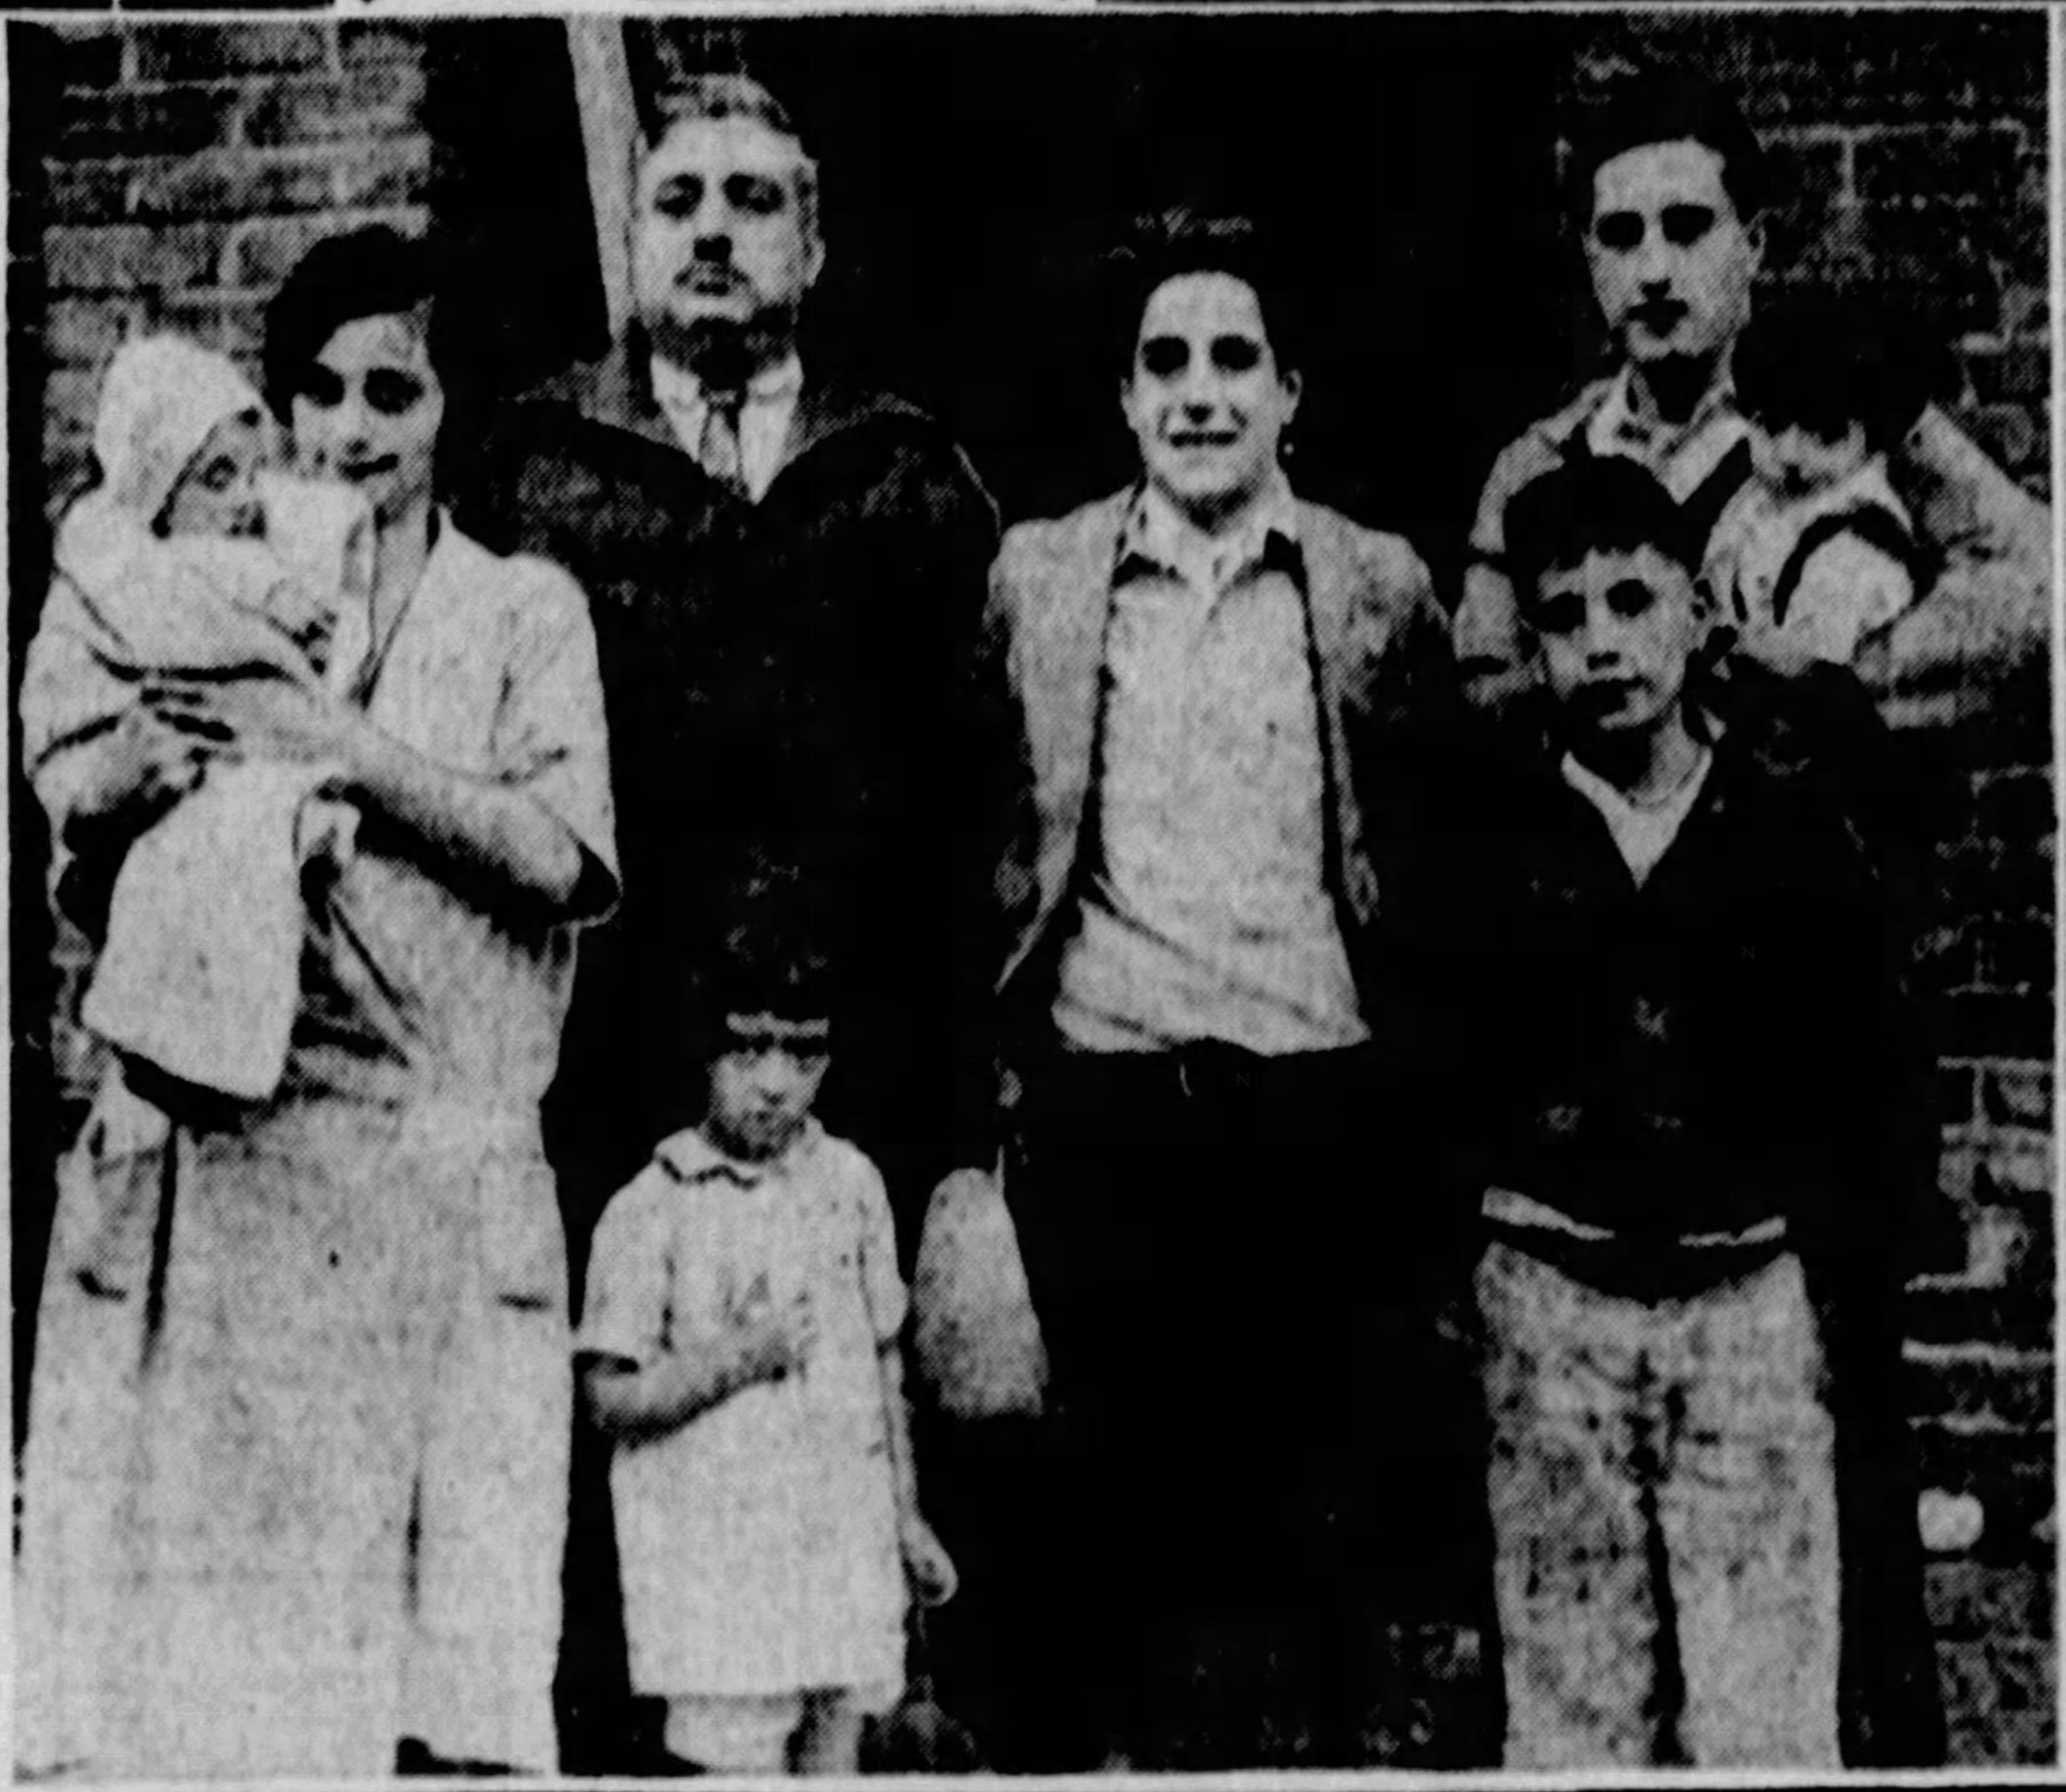
Gang Bomb Wrecks Hotel

WOMAN KILLED BY HIT-SKIP DRIVER



WRECKED BY BLAST

The hotel of John Sposato, 220 State street, Clairton and the large three-story frame building adjoining were badly damaged by a Blackhand bomb placed in the doorway of the hotel early yesterday morning. Twelve persons narrowly escaped death or serious injury and scores of nearby residents were shaken up.



FAMILY PUZZLED FOR MOTIVE

The family of Sposato cannot understand why anyone would try to harm him or any member of his household by blowing up their home. Left to right are—Mrs. Susie Sposato, wife, holding her youngest child, Joseph, four months; John Sposato and his sons by a former marriage, Frank, 14; Nick, 10; and John, 20, holding Angelo, 2. Laura, 4, is standing in front of her father.

WHERE BOMB LET GO

The hallway of the Sposato hotel, where the bomb was placed. The whole first floor was wrecked, but this part of the building probably suffered most.

MoreGrim Finds in Debris

The finding of a man's right arm amid debris at the scene of the North Side explosion yesterday will not raise the death list, morgue attaches say, as the limb is believed to belong to a body already found. It is believed that a steel ring on one of the fingers will enable relatives of Charles Eckley, of Leetsdale, to identify the arm as part of his body. Eckley, a victim of the blast, was buried two days ago.

Police on duty in the blast district were busy throughout the day in keeping the thousands of motorists, who tried to drive through the streets of the section, from stopping. Cars from Ohio and West Virginia, as well as thousands from Pennsylvania, blocked the streets and jammed traffic in the streets leading to the lower North Side. Police had stretched ropes and wooden barriers across the streets and kept motorists and pedestrians alike from hindering the relief work.

Edward A. Woods, chairman of the disaster relief committee of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Red Cross issued a statement yesterday telling of the work done by that organization during the week. Within a half hour after the blast a canteen had been opened and it was conducted until Saturday night. Food was delivered free of charge to families in the district and coffee and sandwiches served to the workmen, police and firemen by Boy Scouts and by 100 volunteer workers.

RUM ORPHAN WAITS FOR PARENTS

GIVE DAUGHTER, 14, LIQUOR

Magistrate A. D. Brandon held John Kalkowski, 41, and his wife, Rose, pending the recovery of their daughter, Mary, found in Aiken avenue at Penn avenue Sunday night in a state of collapse from alcoholic drinks, which the parents admitted giving her. When police went to the home later they found the parents in drunken sleep.

FRANK KALKOWSKI

His sister believed to be near death from drinking moonshine and his parents locked up on charges of drunkenness, Frank Kalkowski, 13, of 26 Maurice street, was the only sober member of the family Saturday night, police say. He is staying with neighbors until the other members of his family are turned loose by police.

CAR STALLS IN TRAIN'S PATH

Attempting to cross the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad in Homestead at a point where there was no highway, an automobile was wrecked today, three occupants were injured and escaped death only when police flagged a passenger train that was stopped within two feet of their stalled car. The men were arrested after their injuries were dressed and were released on forfeits for a hearing before Burgess John Cavanaugh on charges of violating a borough ordinance. They were Festus Dalton, 28, John Pitman, 19, and Albert Durrell, 20, all of Rankin. They did not explain to the police why they drove their automobile upon the railroad right of way.

GREENSBORO, FIRE HIT, ADDS NEW SAFEGUARD

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Greensboro, nearly wiped out by fire recently, today began installation of a $25,000 municipal water system which will provide adequate protection.

MAN DROWNED AT AMBRIDGE

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Nov. 21.—The body of Charles Shell, 55, of Ambridge, employed by the Pittsburgh Sand and Supply Company, was found in shallow water of the Ohio River beside a sand boat today. He is believed to have fallen in while attempting to board last night.

Pittsburgh Too Slow, So She Quit Hubby

"Pittsburgh was too slow for her, she told me, so she went back to New York," was the way Fred A. Seibel, 6383 Shakespeare street, presented his reason for seeking divorce from Clara Seibel today before Judge George V. Moore. They were married in New York in 1918. Seibel testified that sometime after the desertion in 1921 he visited his wife in New York, that it was 3:30 in the morning when she came home and that she could give no excuse for being out so late.

Not Vacant Now

Another house was stricken from the list of vacancies of Pittsburgh homes. Through the means of Sun-Tele rental ads, Mr. S——, — Cora St., rented his 4-room house. List your vacant properties in The Sun-Tele if you seek desirable tenants.

SEIZE GUNS SET FOR KILLING

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Al Capone, marked for an assassin's bullet in a new gang war outbreak, owed his life today, he said, to the arrest of five men police believe had been chosen as his executioners.

The Cicero underworld leader and Tony Lombardo, head of the Unione Siciliano, were to have been shot down by rifle fire on one of their daily visits to the loop headquarters of Michael (Hinky Dink) Kenna, former First Ward alderman.

Three guns, which police are sure were to have been used against Capone and Lombardo, were found mounted on stands in a room at the Atlantic Hotel, overlooking the Kenna quarters. The rifles were trained on the doorway of the cigar store Kenna operates, and binoculars were nearby, apparently to make sure of identification before the triggers were pressed.

Five men were arrested, and one of them, Angelo La Mantio, told police he had bought the rifles and rented the hotel room October 25.

La Mantio also told them, the police said, that he had rented a flat on Washington boulevard, across the street from Lombardo's home, and had placed in it the rifles and ammunition which police found in a surprise raid a fortnight ago.

SCHOOL HEADS LOSE FRAUD CASE APPEAL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The State Superior Court today upheld the conviction in the Luzerne county court of the former Hanover township school directors charged with defrauding the school district. The opinion of the Superior Court was handed down by Judge Gawthrop. It directs that the defendants present themselves to the lower court for fulfilment of the sentence of one to two years imposed by Judge Fuller, president judge of the Luzerne county court.

"Framed," Weinberg Says; Will Fight

Declaring that he has been framed and that he took no part in "faking" evidence, Abraham Weinberg, of New York, named with William L. King, resigned secretary of the Citizens League, in an indictment returned Friday, will return to Pittsburgh to fight the charges, according to word received here last night. King, Weinberg and Sol Rosenberg, were indicted on a charge of conspiracy to indict.

United States Attorney John D. Meyer said yesterday that there is no doubt but that the defendants "framed" by King are guilty of actual violation of state and Federal laws. He is taking no action against King.

A warrant for the arrest of King has been sent to Des Moines, Ia., his former home, and when he is taken into custody there, local authorities will be sent for him. A warrant also has been sent for Rosenberg in New York. The action of the grand jury in indicting the three crusaders has caused Director James M. Clark, of the Public Safety Department, to drop his demand for a grand jury investigation into the work of the league here and its financial standing.

They're Good, But Up-to-Date, at Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Waynesburg College undergraduates today resented the statement by President Paul R. Stewart that Waynesburg students are "old-fashioned," that the co-eds here do not openly smoke and that the boys do not drink to excess as in city colleges.

Exoneration from the habits of fast life was well enough, the students said, but for their prexy to call them "old-fashioned"—well, who ever heard of such a thing in Greene county?

MAN AND WIFE IN SUICIDE PACT

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 21.—After 20 years of devotion, Charles N. Neumann and his wife walked arm in arm into Green Lake here and stepped off into 30 feet of water to their deaths. This was the suicide theory of police today following recovery of their bodies. The couple clasped hands in death. Mrs. Neumann had been in ill health, it was learned.

HORNETS' NEST VERY MUCH ALIVE WHEN HUNG IN SHOP

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Nov. 21.—A big hornet's nest brought in from the woods and placed in a hardware store window, proved tenanted when the hornets were awakened by the heat. They took possession of the window and the proprietor is seeking in vain for volunteers to dislodge the pesky creatures with the long "spikes."

HIT AND RUN AUTO KILLS WOMAN

The victim of a "hit-and-run" motorist, Mrs. Bertha Boyer, 47, of 2113 Tustin street, died early today in the Mercy Hospital. She was run down by an automobile late last night while crossing Forbes street at Seneca street. At the hospital it was stated that death had been caused by a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Mrs. Frances Urbaneck, 45, of 1129 Ingham street, suffered a fractured skull when she was struck by an automobile driven by Louis J. House, Jr., 2907 Enlow street, while crossing Marshall avenue at Brighton road last night.

Paul Metzel, 30, of St. Thomas street, suffered a fractured skull when he was struck by a truck which overturned in California avenue, near the Robert McAfee Bridge. The truck is owned by Paul Schable, 23, of 1511 St. Paul street. Metzel is in St. John's Hospital.

COUNCIL GETS TROLLEY SAFETY PLATFORM BILL

An ordinance providing for the erection of a safety platform at Craft avenue and Forbes street was presented to council today at the request of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Should the ordinance be approved, the street at that point would be widened by moving back the sidewalk to a strip along the front of the company's property there.

SISTERS LOVE SAME MAN; BATTLE FOR HIM

Unusual Story of Girls' Fight For Man

Two girls, one of them, Ann, face the same life but look at it differently. The reason is love. Ann, writing to Beatrice Fairfax, told her story. Her sister also wrote her tale. The result is "The Lovelorn," which begins in the Sun-Telegraph next Friday. Pictures posed by Billy Irwin.

PICKED UP

Georgie was a trifle careless about certain things. She didn't mind—for instance—being "picked up" and going home in strange automobiles, as long as the strange drivers were good-looking. Ann, sensible and understanding, coming up on an instance, was shocked.

Pictures of Irwin Sisters

REAL STORY

Georgie, dashing, effervescent Georgie, writes her side to Beatrice Fairfax. You will see her living through the pages of "The Lovelorn," new serial which begins Friday in the Sun-Telegraph. These pictures were posed by Billy and Patsy Irwin, who played last week at the Penn Theater. "The Lovelorn" will be shown there beginning December 17.

instead of resurrecting a few. They talk and send music through the aid without wires.

THE new miracles are at least as spectacular as the old, and much more useful. Vaccination is worth more than all the miraculous cures of all the religions.

WHEN the virtuous fall out, the wicked smile. Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, who wants prohibition enforced because it is in the Constitution, also wants all Negroes to vote exactly as they please, because that is in the Constitution.

SENATOR GLASS, Democrat, from Virginia, favors enforcing the amendment on prohibition, but has his doubts on the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments referring to the colored brother.

Senator Glass says "the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments were adopted in 'the passion of the war,' and constitute an attempt to destroy white civilization." Those that don't believe in prohibition reply that prohibition also was voted in the excitement of a BIGGER war.

HOWEVER, prohibition is in the Constitution, and it is going to stay. Politicians tiptoe around it, many taking both sides, like the candidate for school teacher who told the old-fashioned board of trustees that when it came to the shape of the earth he taught "both flat and round."

HOW much in the way of revelation and confession would be necessary to obtain conviction in an oil scandal?

It is shown that jurymen were trailed by hired private detectives. A representative of the men accused, wanted as witness by the government, to tell how he helped buy government oil reserves with government bonds, runs away to Europe. His lawyer kindly deposits $100,000 in bonds for the government to seize in accordance with law, but says the witness wanted will not return.

YOU may think that would suffice in the way of "tacit confession" to put somebody, even a very rich man, in jail.

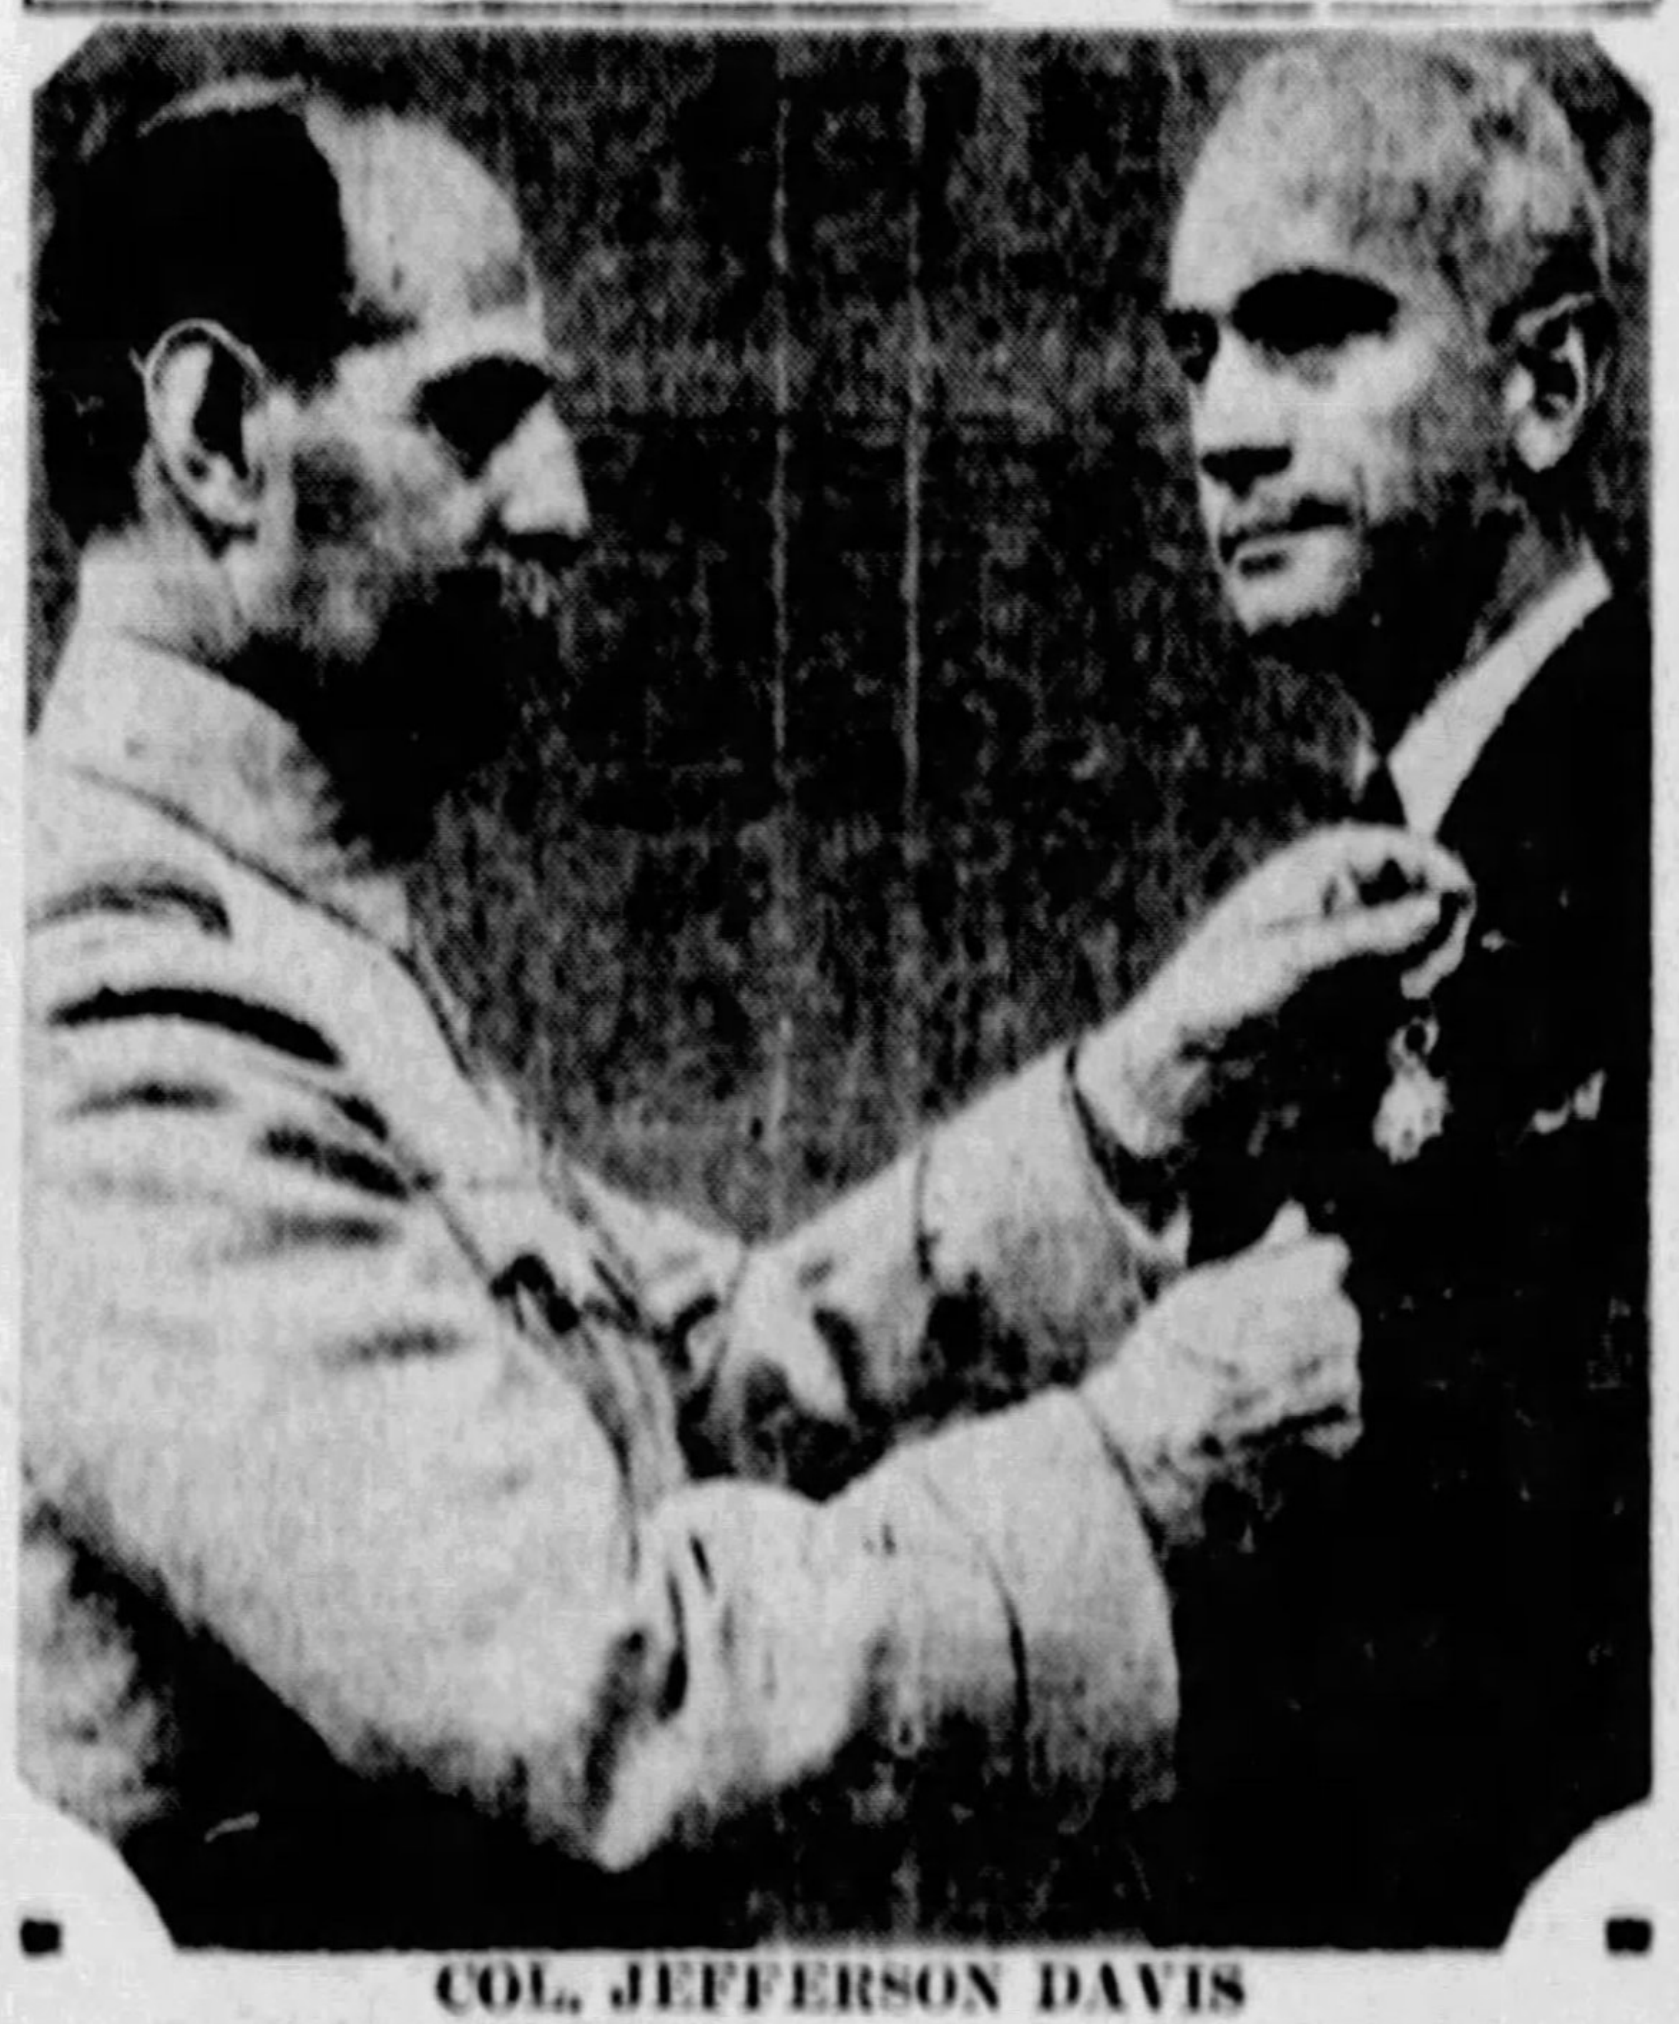
If you think so you do not know how justice works in a great democracy. If you steal ENOUGH this country does not put you in jail. It talks about putting you there, but does not do it.

NEWS of better times comes from Europe. The war is over for the present, anyhow. The use of electricity and knowledge of chemistry promise to do as much for Europe's industry now as steam did after the Napoleonic wars.

The value of the pound sterling recently has been the highest on record since 1914. The German mark is on a gold basis.

If all Europe should decide to stop fighting permanently, voluntarily putting soldiers and sailors to work, as Germany has been compelled to do, the world would go ahead rapidly.

HIGHEST HONOR



COL. JEFFERSON DAVIS

French have few higher honors than that bestowed upon Col. Jefferson Davis, of San Diego. Gen. George A. L. Dumont, military attache of the French embassy at Washington, pinned the Legion of Honor cross upon Col. Davis, the first American to be so honored in time of peace without the customary apprenticeship of six years as a legion chevalier.

MOCK BLOWUPS AT BRUCETON SAVE LIVES

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—A coal mine at Bruceton, Pa., near Pittsburgh, has been the scene of 100 coal dust explosions in the past year without a single casualty, the U. S. Bureau of Mines announced today. Virtually every day of the year an explosion of some character—dust, gas or unauthorized blasting material—wrecked the mine.

The explosions, however, probably saved the lives of hundreds of coal miners and a vast amount of property. The Bruceton operation, directed by the Bureau of Mines, is the only coal mine in the world used exclusively for scientific experimentation.

The blasts were real, but they were staged under the trained eyes of government scientists, who from them obtained data invaluable in preventing mine disasters and in conserving life and property.

"Powder My Back" Irene Rich's New Film

"Powder My Back," Irene Rich's next starring vehicle, to go into production in a few days, will have a cast peculiar in the fact that every member of it has at some time or other appeared in support of the star.

Audrey Ferris, Andre Beranger, Anders Randoff and Carroll Nye are featured.

Beranger has the role of a farcical press agent. One can hardly see how he can go wrong in his characterization inasmuch as Joseph Jackson, himself a former publicity man, wrote the adaption of Jerome Kingston's story, while the director, Roy Del Ruth, also a long time back in his varied career, wrote press notices for celebrities.

Jannings' Company Now Working Nights

Emil Jannings and his Paramount company making "The Last Command," a picture of the Russian revolution, are working "night shifts" these days.

In order to get atmospheric scenes after twilight, Joseph von Sternberg, who is directing, has called the company for seven o'clock each nights. Hundreds of extras, dressed in the costumes of Cossacks, Red soldiers and peasants, form the mobs for the sequence devoted to some of the street fighting in Moscow. Unusual lighting effects are being obtained, it is reported.

Fritz Feld, who played the Piper in "The Miracle" has been added to the cast, which includes William Powell and Evelyn Brent.

Janet Gaynor Wins Film Fame, Becomes Twenty-One and Seeks Big Increase In Pay Envelope

By DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.

A DISCONCERTING lassitude menaces flicker activities here, Rip Van Winkle's spirit is again on rampage, as a "between pictures" lull slow-motions the studios. This period usually begins the end of November or early December, and continues through the holidays.

But there is no inertia on the Fox lot, despite the seeming loss of its most outstanding feminine star, with the abrupt departure of Janet Gaynor. When Miss Gaynor signed with Fox, she was not yet of age. Recently, however, she celebrated her twenty-first birthday—or was in her eighteenth?—and became a free agent, with Attorney Milton Cohen her spokesman.

After Janet's sensational success in "Seventh Heaven," we understand the Fox folk raised her salary to $250 a week. Since she has starred in "Two Girls Wanted," direction of Al Green, and "Christilinda," direction of Frank Borzage. In the last named picture she again shared honors with Charlie Farrell.

Miss Gaynor was to have been starred in Jack Ford's next offering, "Hangman's House," but ere that film could be put under way she celebrated her "of age" birthday, and her Fox agreement became null and void. We hear Fox offered her $1,000 a week, but Miss Gaynor has not signed a new contract, and indications are that she will not.

Hence, Fox is searching for a girl to portray the Gaynor role in "Hangman's House," and there is talk that it will be awarded to Betty Bronson.

Prior to her going with Fox, Janet Gaynor was playing extra and bits. She possessed rich histrionic gifts. She made the most of her Fox opportunity and forged to the cinema heights in an amazing short time.

Perhaps Fox attitude is that Janet was given her chance to make good. That they gambled on her and won. That they might have lost.

Years ago, when the Goldwyn Company operated at Culver City, Jack Pickford starred in a screen version of John Fox, Jr.'s gorgeous Civil War romance, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." Richard Barthelmess will be the next to attempt this story, direction of Al Santell. May McAvoy has been borrowed from Warner Bros. to portray the charming role of Margaret.

Ran into Josef Von Sternberg yesterday, to learn he has completed his new Emil Jannings' picture, "The General," with Evelyn Brent and William Powell featured. The studio folk enthuse over it, and it is a consensus that Miss Brent gives one of the finest performances in the star's support seen in many a day.

Richard Wallace, the director, is returning from a week's sojourn in New York. On the same train is Adelaide Heilborne, scenarist. With her in the title of the next Dorothy Mackaill-Jack Mulhall film, "Lady Be Good." It is Miss Heilborne's job to back up this musical comedy title with a sturdy screen story before the train reaches Los Angeles. If she succeeds, Richard Wallace will direct.

Kitty (Mrs. George A.) Archainbaud gave a luncheon tea recently. Those attending included Mrs. Abe Lehr, Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn, Mrs. Douglas MacLean, Mrs. George Fitzmaurice, Doris Kenyon (Mrs. Milton Sills), Mrs. Fred Niblo, Mrs. Conway Tearle (Adele Rowland), Mrs. Gardner Sullivan and Constance Bennett.

ESCAPED EX-CONVICT CAUGHT AT SCRANTON

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 21.—Joseph P. Lasavitch, 27, of Scranton, an ex-convict, who sawed his way out of a cell in an immigration detention prison at Philadelphia Tuesday night, was captured here early today by Scranton police.

THEATERS OFFER VARIED BILLS

Tonight patrons of the Nixon will have the privilege of witnessing Ziegfeld's latest musical extravaganza, "Show Boat," said to be the biggest musical play ever produced. There will be matinees Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. At evening performances the curtain will rise at 8:15 o'clock because of the length of the show.

George White's "Scandals," will open in the Alvin tonight, playing matinees Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. With an enormous advance sale, indications are that Mr. White's latest production will break records in the Alvin. The principal players are Ann Pennington, Willie and Eugene Howard, Tom Patricola, Buster West, John West, Frances Williams, Williams Sisters, Rose Perfect, Jane Seis.

"The Spider," the novel mystery comedy-drama, which is unlike any other mystery play ever presented here, begins its second week in the Pitt tonight. It attracted large audiences nightly last week it seems certain its unusual type will make it a favorite again this week. William Courtenay heads the cast as a magician who becomes involved in a murder in the play.

Barto and Mann appear on the Keith-Albee vaudeville program in the Davis this week, billed as "The Laugh Kings." The screen features Sammy Cohen in "A Gay Retreat."

Performances in the various theaters of the Harris Amusement Company will begin at an earlier hour than usual Thanksgiving Day. The Harris will be opened at 11:30 a. m., and the performance, beginning at noon will run continuously until 11:30 p. m. The Sheridan Suare will open at 12:30 p. m., and the performance will run continuously until 11:30 p. m. The Palace and William Penn Theaters will open at 9:30 a. m.

Jackie Coogan's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "The Bugle Call," is the screen feature in Loew's Aldine. Claire Windsor and Herbert Rawlinson are in the principal supporting roles.

Miss America is appearing on the stage of the Grand this week. Charlie Murray is featured on the screen in "The Gorilla."

The Sahara is an important background of "The Garden of Allah," Rex Ingram's new picture, which was filmed entirely abroad for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Alice Terry and Ivan Petrovitch in the leading roles. It will be in the Penn this week.

Mike Sacks, comedian, whose methods are along legitimate lines, is with "High Flyers," this week's bill in the Academy.

Adolphe Menjou, in "A Gentleman of Paris," is on the screen in the Olympic this week. The Freeman Sisters are featured on the Vitaphone program.

DORIS NILES DANCERS HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Doris Niles and her company of dancers are to appear Thanksgiving night in Carnegie Music Hall, presenting "A Spanish Night" program, consisting of songs and dances of Spain and Spanish speaking countries. The attraction is under the local management of James Bortz, who also announces John McCormack for Thursday evening, December 1.

22-STORY FALL KILLS WORKER

Alighting on his head after falling 22 stories in the elevator shaft of the new Law and Finance Building, Fourth avenue and Cherry way, today, Antonio Perri, 35, a laborer, of 339 Dawson street, was instantly killed.

He was on the twenty-first floor loading brick into a wheelbarrow when he slipped and fell to the basement. The body was removed to the morgue.

HAD PIMPLES FOR TWO YEARS

Were Large and Festered. Cuticura Heals.

"I had pimples for about two years. They were so severe that I cried many a day and night. The pimples were large and festered and scaled over. They annoyed me so that I picked at them, causing them to spread all over my face until you could not put a pin head between them.

I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Glenola Cotten, 10 Laurel Ave., South Oil City, Pa. March 7, 1927.

Use Cuticura to heal skin troubles.

The New Trench Coat

Our buyers attending the recent mid-season Paris openings, found all smart Continental Europe wearing this swagger raincoat and rushed a shipment over.

Every Parisienne, beginning with the fashion-famed Jane Regny, wears a shower-proof Trench Coat for rain and similar inclemency, and it is sure to soon be as popular in America.

To be among the first to wear it in Pittsburgh, see the coats in The Misses' Shop—of shower-proof cotton gabardine in beige tones, with plaid lining, $19.50.

Popular Tweed Patterns Appear in Many Fabrics

The importance of tweeds in the present mode can hardly be overestimated. Consequently the fascinating blurred patterns that are achieved in woolen tweeds by the interweaving of vari-colored threads is being repeated in printed designs on silks, velvets, and even wash goods. And Horne's registers its thorough style consciousness in the completeness of its assortments of each of these.

Woolen Dress Tweeds, light in weight, 54-inch, $4.95 yard.
Tweed Printed Silks, with plain harmonizing backs, 39-inch, $3.95 yard.
Tweed Printed Velveteens, 35-inch, $3.95 yard.
Tweed-Printed Transparent Velvets, 39-inch, $12.50 yard.
Tweed-Printed Cotton Crepes, 35-inch, 75c yard. (Fourth Floor)

FAYETTE YOUTH'S MIND CLOUDED BY BLAST HERE

"HELLO, PITTSBURGH!"

LOIS DELANDER, "MISS AMERICA"

Here to fill a week's theatrical engagement, Lois Delander, Miss America of 1927, doesn't mind the smoke of Pittsburgh. She likes the city in fact, she says, especially its predominance of tall, dark men, her favorite type.

GAS EXPLOSION LEAVES HIM STRICKEN

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Nov. 21.—His mind clouded by the shock of Pittsburgh's tank explosion, William Cuppett, 21, son of C. H. Cuppett, supervising principal of the Washington township schools, is in a serious condition in his home here.

Young Cuppett, employed in Pittsburgh, was alighting from his automobile in lower Liberty avenue to enter a restaurant last Monday morning when the explosion occurred. He was knocked to the pavement, unconscious. He regained consciousness sufficiently to tell his boarding house address where he was taken before being brought home.

The attending physician says the young man's injuries consist almost entirely of shock. In his rational moments he recalls the violence of the blast, then lapses into delirium.

FORGET-ME-NOTS BLOOM ALONG LEECHBURG ROAD

KITTANNING, Pa., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Robert Curren, South Jefferson street, found a blooming forget-me-not plant along the Leechburg road after the recent cold wave.

Turkeys by Thousands Arrive at Wharf

Thousands of turkeys and other fowl to dress the Thanksgiving table arrived today in Pittsburgh from Charleston, W. Va., and other downriver points when the packet boat Senator Cordill docked at the Water street wharf market.

Turkeys sold at 48 and 50 cents a pound. Ducks were quoted at 30 cents, geese at 25 cents, chickens from 25 to 30 cents and eggs at 60 cents a dozen. Included in the shipment was a dozen 'possums.

In the 2,700 coops were 8,400 turkeys, 40,000 chickens, 5,000 ducks, 2,700 geese, and 10,500 dozen eggs. Four hundred pigs and 150 live calves also arrived on the boat.

N. CUMBERLAND BANK SHUT

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Nov. 21.—The First National Bank, the only financial house at New Cumberland, W. Va., was closed today by Federal Bank Examiner H. A. Graham, of Cleveland. Graham and John A. Brandon, president of the bank, refused to discuss the situation. Brandon's father, John E. Brandon, and son, John, Jr., also are officers of the bank.

DRIVE PLANNED BY CREDIT MEN

Plans will be launched in a few days for increasing the membership of the Credit Association of Western Pennsylvania from approximately 800 members to 1,000 members by May 1 next, executive manager L. I. MacQueen announced yesterday. President Sidney B. Congdon has appointed P. O. Eitel chairman of the membership committee to lead the drive, the purpose of which is to bring about increased co-operation among the jobbing, manufacturing, mercantile and banking interests of the districts, in the protection of credits generally.

A survey of the business situation as made by the organization throughout the district, West Virginia, and Eastern Ohio shows that in the agricultural sections there has been an improved tone generally in business as well as in some of the industrial districts.

"Electricity!—
The Tireless Servant of America's Prosperity"

Says Lewis E. Pierson
President of the United States
Chamber of Commerce

*"Many factors have contributed to the pre-eminent position of America's workers, but underlying everything else has been the fact that the American wage earner has had more horse power at his elbow than the worker of any other industrial nation."

WHILE the rest of the world wrestles with unrest and industrial strife, capital and labor in America work shoulder to shoulder on a basis that has resulted in higher standards of living than those enjoyed by any other people.

The most highly developed system of electric power equipment and facilities in the world has helped make this condition of affairs possible.

Because of the engineering skill and organizing ability which have gone into the expansion of America's power plants, there is available to American industry today more electrical energy than is produced in all the rest of the world combined.

Nearly a million miles of transmission and distribution lines supply American industry with more than thirty million horse power. Expressed in terms of man power this is equivalent to the potential service of 40 helpers for every worker in this country.

Increasing, as it does, the production capacity of the worker by forty fold, this great industrial force has improved the financial status of American labor approximately fifty percent in the last fifteen years, while at the same time, materially decreasing the cost of manufactured articles.

In the light of such achievement, it is obvious that the interests of American business and American family life will be served best by the careful preservation of the principle of individual initiative by which such accomplishments have been made possible.

Complete text of Mr. Pierson's address will be furnished upon request.*

MONITOR ST. LOT PURCHASED TO BUILD HOME

The United States Realty Company sold the Joseph Polito property, 50x 165 feet at 57 Monitor street, Fourteenth Ward, to an architect who is planning to build a house on it. The consideration was not disclosed.

A house on the east side of Wesley street, near Glenn street, Wilkinsburg, lot 33x165 feet, has been sold by Margaret H. Baxter to John Shiels at private terms.

I. H. McGill has sold to B. R. Hendrick 112x150 feet on the northwest side of Miami avenue, Mt. Lebanon, at private terms.

In Church avenue, near Guthrie street, McKees Rocks, Miles Bryan has sold to Clare B. McDermott 36 by 125 feet vacant at private terms.

SIX ARE GIVEN ATLANTA TERMS

Six defendants in the Federal District Court Saturday were sentenced to serve one year and a day in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., and seven others were fined, placed under parole or given light jail sentences by Judge R. M. Gibson.

Those sentenced to the penitentiary were Arnold Owsley, a Negro, who admitted stealing a mail pouch and two automobile tires at the Altoona Postoffice; Harry Wesley Parks, Earl Aguilar and Joseph Ostrowski, alias Earl Scott, for transporting stolen automobiles in interstate commerce; Leo Bednarko, violating the Harrison narcotic act, and James Merry, for unlawful possession of 28 slabs of tin stolen from an interstate shipment of freight on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad.

William Armstrong of Meadville, father of seven children, was placed on probation for two years, with Police Chief Hays of Meadville as probation officer, when he pleaded guilty to having transported Mary Coscia, 15, from Meadville to Cleveland. John Armsey and Elmer Coss were paroled two years each when they pleaded guilty to interstate transportation of stolen automobiles. Curtis White was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail for changing the date on a United States Adjusted Service certificate in order to obtain a loan at a McKeesport bank. Alexander A. V. Andahazy was sentenced one day to jail for sending obscene matter through the mail.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT MEN STAND FROM WOMEN

ALL THE "ladies" are dead, asserts a writer joyfully, and men will soon cease taking off their hats in draughty elevators.

The deladified girl who tells smoking-car stories between the puffs of her after-dinner cigarets is here to stay, according to this author.

All of which merely shows what women have "put over" on the men.

HELEN ROWLAND

Women can put ANYTHING over on men!

The man who once threatened to divorce his wife if she bobbed her hair now calmly discusses which sort of bob he likes best on the dear girl.

* * *

The man who used to look daggers across the room at his wife if she showed three inches of her ankle, now meekly requests her not to wear her skirts more than an inch above her knees.

* * *

The man who would not walk on the street with a "painted" woman, now plaintively begs his wife to "get the make-up on evenly" and holds her vanity case while she repairs her complexion.

* * *

The man who raved when his wife first had her eyebrows plucked now boasts that she looks like a flapper since she had her face lifted.

* * *

The man who wouldn't let his wife smoke a cigaret now borrows hers when she isn't looking.

The man who scoffed at bifurcated skirts now lends his wife his knickers when hers are at the tailor's.

The man who threatened to shoot his wife when she flirted with another man now buys her ticket to Paris or Reno and pays her alimony.

* * *

The man who wouldn't let his wife have her own bank account now lets her hold down a job and manage his fiances.

But the most astounding and audacious thing which women have ever put over on men is the LIPSTICK KISS.

* * *

Rouged cheeks, short skirts, bobbed hair and cigarets may be a girl's own business. But a man has a PERSONAL interest in her kisses and at least one vote in the matter.

* * *

Yet he does not revolt when she puts up a mouth covered with sticky red paste and expects him to appear thrilled at kissing it. He meekly shuts his eyes and "takes his medicine" without a protest!

* * *

All of which proves that men will stand ANYTHING from women the moment women stop talking and arguing and begin to ACT.

What a pity women do not stand together and demand love, honor, romance and loyalty from men! They could get ALL these if they held out for them. Women can put ANYTHING over on men!

And HOW!

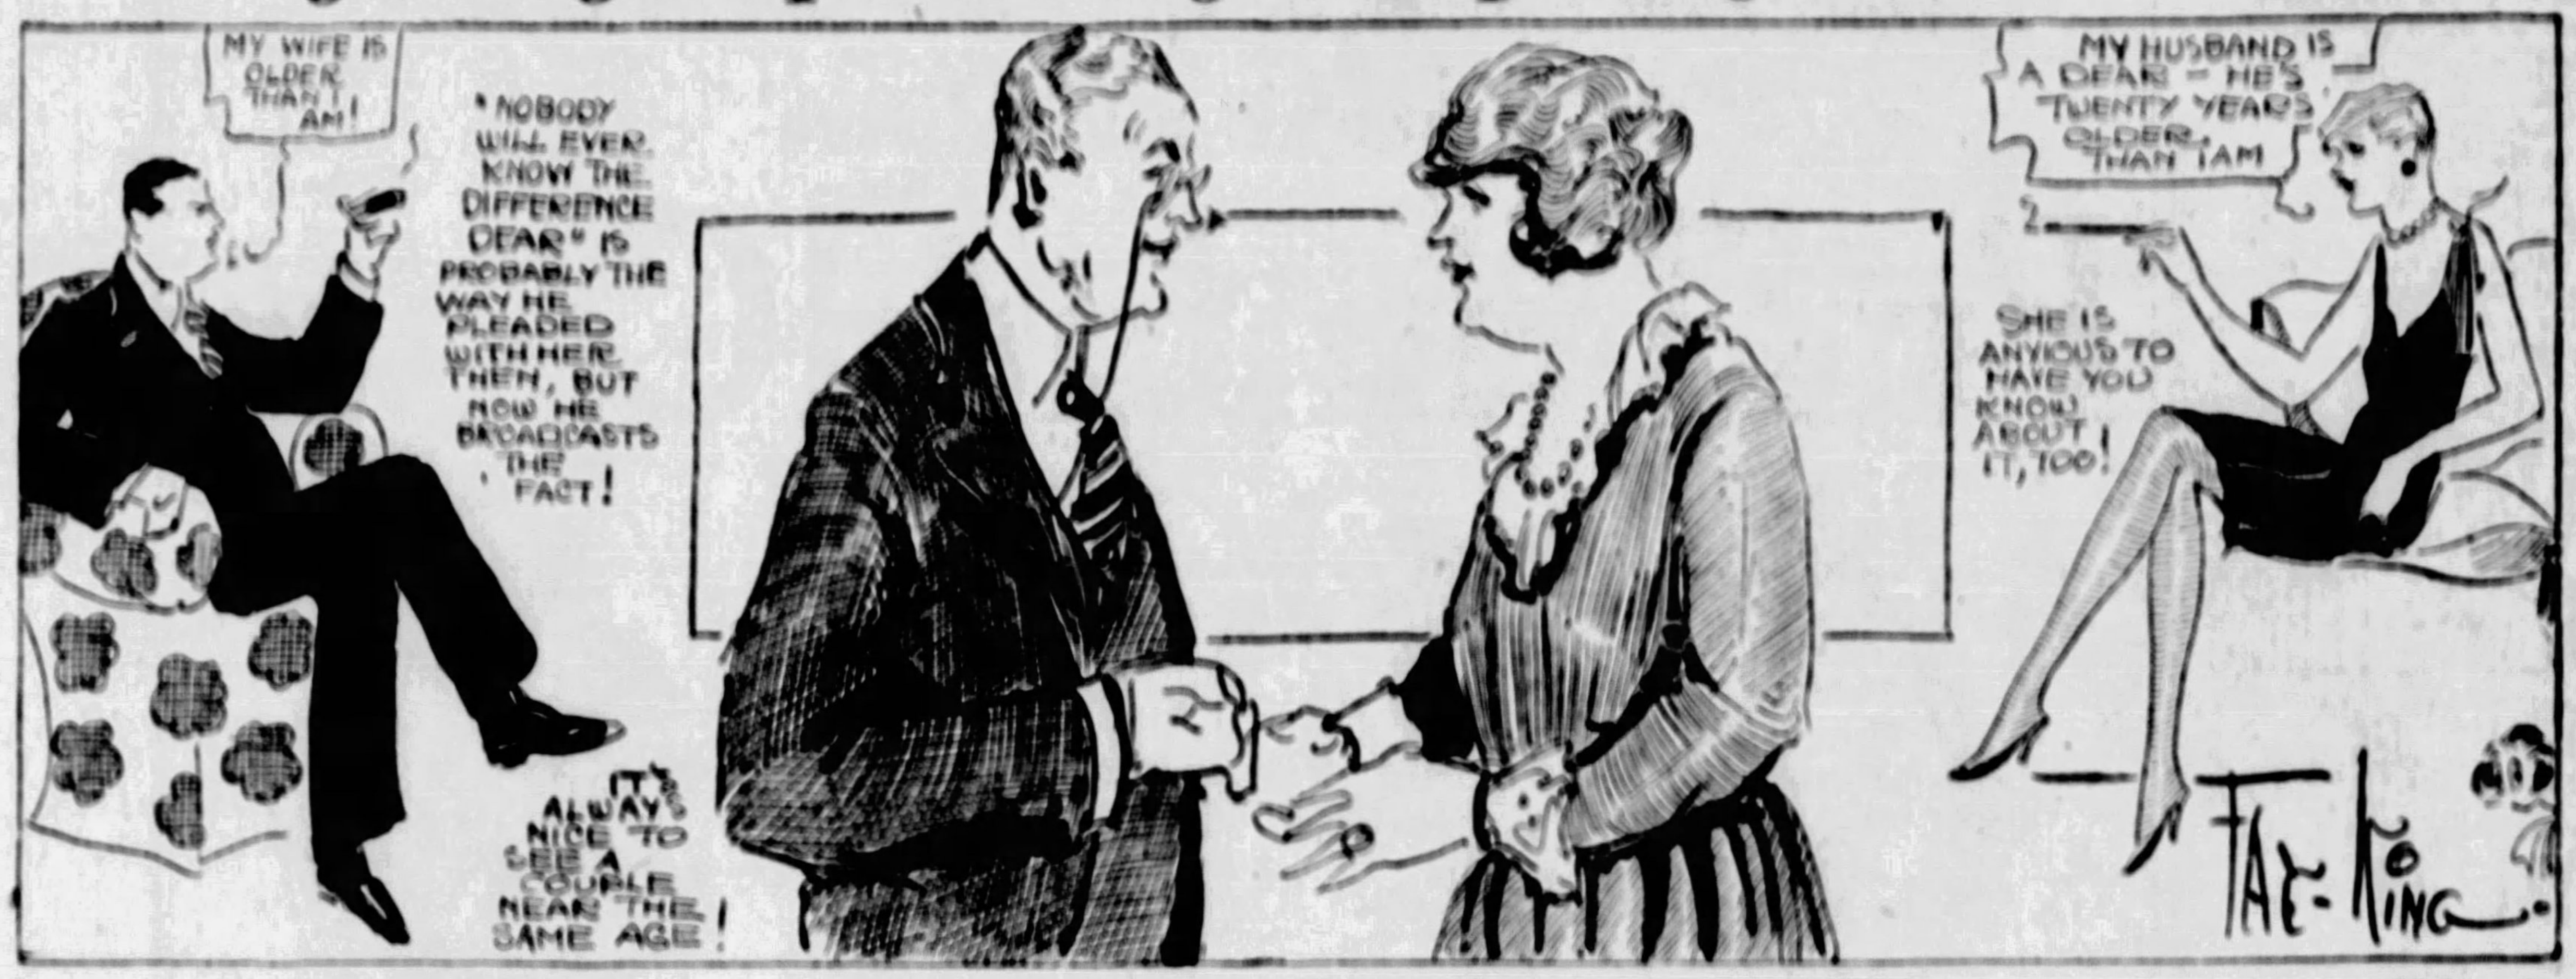
Fay King Deplores Age Disparity in Marriage



MY WIFE IS OLDER THAN I AM!
"NOBODY WILL EVER KNOW THE DIFFERENCE DEAR" IS PROBABLY THE WAY HE PLEADED WITH HER THEN, BUT NOW HE BROADCASTS THE FACT!
IT'S ALWAYS NICE TO SEE A COUPLE NEAR THE SAME AGE!
MY HUSBAND IS A DEAR — HE'S "TWENTY YEARS OLDER THAN I AM
SHE IS ANXIOUS TO HAVE YOU KNOW ABOUT IT, TOO!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING.

WHILE it is certainly not impossible for people to be happy and truly in love though there may be a vast difference in their ages, still it is always nicer to see couples near an age.

Youth should mate with youth.

A few years difference either way does not matter much, but when there is more than 10 years it is apt to make a great deal of difference later.

I have noticed that men married to women even a few years older are often ungallant enough to mention this fact when there is no reason why they should.

They probably courted the lady with much gusto, and when she hesitated because of even this slight difference in their ages, they declared that no one should ever know.

But now they go out of their conversational way to see that they do!

I have also noticed that the pretty young creature married to a doting husband so much older than herself also is ungracious enough to take the first occasion to inform you of it, though you may never meet her husband!

It is bound to be rather unromantic to be mistaken for one's husband's mother, or one's wife's father!

I think, since all these little angles have really a great deal to do with happiness, it is always best to take them into consideration.

Of course, there are exceptions to all rules. But why gamble on that chance of being the exception? It's much nicer to choose a mate nearer one's own age and grow older together.

Care of the Teeth an Aid to Longevity

IT IS becoming more and more the practice to put aside a few dollars every week. The savings banks, and particularly the building and loan associations, are making a worthy appeal for the saving of money. It isn't considered decent for one who is earning money, to neglect the duty of storing away a percentage of it.

DR. COPELAND

I have never been an advocate of miserly habits. What we call the "rainy day" comes to comparatively few persons. But if it does come, what a blessing it is to have something laid away against that evil day.

What are you doing about storing up health? Are you exhausting every day your intake of energy? Or are you a wise person, looking ahead a few years?

It is in my mind today to scold a little about your neglect of those precautions which will make your old age comfortable. They are things, too, which will add years to your life.

To spend a little money now may seem like wasting it. As a matter of fact, you are putting it in the bank. Extending your period of effective living makes you that more valuable in an economic sense.

Almost everybody knows that bad teeth are the cause of many ailments. Indigestion, Bright's disease, rheumatism, heart disease—all these are ailments which may be caused or made worse by diseased and decayed teeth.

I say almost everybody knows this. But what about your own teeth?

It isn't enough to know a thing in general terms. Apply your knowledge to yourself. Are your teeth perfect? Or have you a cavity or two, or sore gums?

What about your tonsils, or that running ear, the chronic leg ulcer, or the persistent heartburn and constipation? Is your sleep disturbed and are your dreams bad?

Muscles must be used, the lungs deeply inflated and the intestinal tract kept clean. You are storing up against the rainy day when you look after your organs.

A visit to the dentist and another to the eye expert will cost a few dollars. But they are dollars deposited in the Bank of Good Health. They are out at a high rate of compound interest.

Take no chances on unusual swelling, sores that don't heal and obscure symptoms, symptoms you cannot explain, but which persist for weeks and months.

"A stitch in time saves nine"—in health as well as garments. Don't neglect the little ailments. Put money in the bank by keeping fit all the time.

Answers to Health Queries

A. M. E.—Q. What should a girl of 19, 4 feet 11 inches tall weigh? How can the height be increased? What should a girl of 18, 5 feet 3 inches tall weigh?

2—Does smoking stunt the growth?

3—What can be done for oily hair?

A. You should weigh about 118 pounds. At your age it is difficult to increase the height to any extent. Join a gymnasium for special development exercises. She should weigh about 125 pounds.

2—If practiced at too early an age, it may interfere with the development.

3—Careful shampooing and rinsing and the use of a good hair tonic should bring about results. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

delicious fruit fritters

DEEP FRIED WITHOUT SMOKE OR ODOR

SOME time when you have company for dinner, or when you wish to give your family a delicious treat, serve one of these delightful fruit fritters as an entree.

Deep fried in Crisco they retain all of the delicious, natural fruit flavor and are never greasy. And remember, too, that when you use Crisco in frying you are never troubled with smoke or unpleasant odors in your kitchen. Crisco does not smoke at proper frying temperature.

Lots of Other Good Things, Too

Crisco is by no means limited to frying. I find that with Crisco I can make light, tender cakes, fluffy biscuits, flaky pie crust and lots of other good things too. It is the only shortening and cooking fat I need have in the house.

Apple Fritters

1 cup flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 egg
5 or 6 tart apples

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add milk and well beaten egg. Mix well. Pare and core apples. Cut in sections. Dip each piece of apple in the batter and fry in deep hot Crisco (340 to 375 degrees F.) until brown. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Banana Fritters

Peel bananas. Cut through lengthwise and again in pieces 1½ to 2 inches long. Follow recipe for Apple Fritters.

Pineapple Fritters

Cut pineapple in suitable sized pieces. Follow recipe for Apple Fritters.

Peach or Apricot Fritters

Cut halves of peach or apricot in quarters. Follow recipe for Apple Fritters.

Orange Fritters

Separate sections of orange. Follow recipe for Apple Fritters.

To test your cooking fat—taste it. Crisco's sweet flavor will astonish you.

TRAIL OF LOOT TRAPS ONE IN ROBBERY

A trail of candy wrappers led to the solution of a North Side store robbery and the arrest of one of the burglars early today, police announced.

In West Park, at 3 a. m., Patrolman Thomas English approached two strangers. They fled, firing at him, and he returned the fire. A few minutes later police learned a store in the park, Bell Brothers' confectionery, had been robbed, a $250 radio and many boxes of candy stolen.

Tin foil, used to wrap candy, was strewn about the park. Police followed what seemed a trail. It led to the 200 block in West North avenue, then ended.

At 206 West North avenue a light was burning in the third floor rear of a rooming house. There police found Earl Collins, 29, with the radio and a confession. Police expect to arrest his pal.

'50' COMMITTEE MEETS TODAY

A meeting of the Committee of Fifty, appointed two years ago on the advisability of a community fund for Pittsburgh, will be held late today in the William Penn Hotel, according to William B. Schiller, chairman, to give final consideration to a report and recommendations presented by a sub-committee on form of organization, of which William S. Moorhead is chairman. If the report and recommendations are accepted it is anticipated that a plan for an organization similar to the Community Chest of Cincinnati, or the Community Fund of Cleveland, will shortly be presented to the charitable and philanthropic organizations of Pittsburgh. Under this plan a joint annual campaign would be held to secure contributions for the maintenance of all agencies that are approved for membership, to take the place of independent campaigns, as at present.

The members of the Committee of Fifty who will meet this afternoon are: William B. Schiller, Mrs. William Frew, Lawrence E. Sands, G. G. Coolidge, Louis J. Affelder, Rev. Maitland Alexander, Horace F. Baker, Dr. L. B. Bernstein, Charles W. Brown, J. D. Callery, John F. Casey, Miss Isabelle Chalfant, Dr. Edward N. Clopper, Rev. J. F. R. Corcoran, Mrs. Harry Darlington, Mrs. A. N. Diehl, Joseph Dilworth, Col. J. P. Drake, Leon Falk, Rev. S. H. Goldenson, Miss Eleanor Hanson, Mrs. J. R. Herman, Howard Heinz, Mrs. Franklin C. Irish, Rev. Percy G. Kammerer, Edgar J. Kaufmann, Mrs. John W. Lawrence, Irvin F. Lehman, James H. Lockhart, H. Lee Mason, Jr., R. K. Mellon, W. L. Mellon, W. L. Monro, W. S. Moorhead, Rev. L. A. DEAF NOW TO HEAR SERVICES AT CHURCH

The St. Peter's German Evangelical Lutheran church, Collins avenue and Station street, has now made it possible for all deaf persons who attend the services to hear perfectly. A device has been installed, making it possible for those who are deaf to listen and fully participate in the services.

The device is an instrument which picks up all parts of the service, words and music alike, and conveys it by wire to ear phones in different parts of the auditorium so that persons, who for years have been deafened can hear with ease and comfort. The device is manufactured by the Dictograph Products Corporation of New York.

LET CONTRACTS FOR $1,300,000 KILNS

The letting of contracts for four direct-fired tunnel kilns has just been announced by Harbison-Walker Refractories Company. Including steel and concrete buildings and necessary equipment, this involves an expenditure of approximately $1,300,000.

All four of the new kilns will be identical in type and size, two to be built at the Templeton, Pa., plant and two at Clearfield, Pa. They will be used in burning fire clay brick only. Each kiln will be slightly over 444 feet long and will have a daily capacity of 35,000 9-inch brick.

DR. ANDERSON TO TALK TONIGHT AT CARNEGIE

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Two Interesting Engagement Announcements Add a Note of Piquancy to Social News

ADDING a note of piquancy to the news of the social world this week, which includes debuts, teas and the Woman's Industrial Exchange Christmas sale, are two engagements of more than usual interest.

Mrs. Frederick W. Winter of Beechwood boulevard entertained at a luncheon today in her home to announce the engagement of her daughter, Eleanor Lovelace Winter, to John Birge, son of the Nathan Root Birges of Schenectady, New York. Covers were laid for 16.

Eleanor, who attended Rosemary Hall and later Smith College, came out several seasons ago while she was still a student.

Another engagement just made known by the Clarence P. Byrnes of Sewickley is that of their daughter Martha Barrett Byrnes, to Calvin Wells, son of the Benjamin Welles of Bryn Mawr, Pa.

The first of the four debutantes of this week to make her bow to society is Margaret Brainard, daughter of the Edward Heaton Brainards of Woodland road. The "coming out" party, being given this afternoon by Mrs. Brainard in the family home on Woodland road, is in the form of the traditional tea.

Mrs. Brainard and her debutante daughter are receiving together in the reception room of the home. Masses of ferns and palms and southern smilax together with fall flowers, which decorate the residence, form the background for the receiving party.

The debutante is charming in an exquisite frock of pale green velvet. She is carrying a Colonial bouquet. Bronze velvet is worn by Mrs. Brainard.

Throughout the home, in addition to the many gift bouquets of the debutante, are fall flowers arranged in vases and standards with bronze and white chrysanthemums predominating.

Tea is being served both in the dining room of the home and the sun parlor. In the dining room the tea table is lighted by slender green tapers in candelabra. Exquisite Venetian glass and white chrysanthemums also are used for the tea table.

Mrs. Brainard has as aides her sister, Mrs. W. Harry Brown, Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. Howard Hale McClintic, Mrs. Lawrence Allderdice, Mrs. William B. Rodgers, Mrs. Charles A. Painter, Jr., Mrs. Richard M. Jennings, Mrs. Ira Fitch Brainard, Mrs. Thomas M. McKennan, Mrs. John M. Freeman, Mrs. James J. Brainard, Mrs. John L. Porter and Mrs. John P. Knable.

The debutante will have as her aides Mary McClung, Juliet Hillman, Frances Fitzgerald, Florence Wainwright, Anne King Scott, Marjorie Babcock, Virginia Johnston, Florence Carroll, Anne Louise Marshall, all sister buds, and Jane Allderdice and Mrs. William Bacon Schiller, Jr. Mrs. Schiller, you will recall, was Molly Miller, daughter of Frederic Walsingham Miller, before her marriage on June 11. She came out a season or so ago.

Margaret is to be much feted this season. Among the affairs planned for her is a ball her aunt, Mrs. W. Harry Brown, will give for her sometime in December.

A particularly interesting luncheon given today by Mrs. Christopher C. Sandels of Aylesboro avenue in the Pittsburgh Golf Club is in honor of two of the season's buds, Mary Louise Johnson, daughter of Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, and Mary McClung, daughter of the Samuel Alfred McClungs. Covers will be laid for 30, with the guests including some of the debutantes of this season and of last. Fall flowers will decorate the luncheon table.

APPEARING ON PROGRAM

Miss Marilla Kohary will present piano solos at the concert to be given tomorrow night in Carnegie Music Hall by the Tuesday Musical Club.

MISS MARILLA KOHARY

Despite the brilliancy of the season at home, a few Pittsburgh folk have already left the city. Mrs. Thomas Clifton Jenkins, of Morewood avenue, is spending the autumn season at the Hotel Plaza, New York. She will return to the city after Thanksgiving. Mrs. Jenkins' daughter, Elizabeth, who came out a season or so ago and who is now a student at Smith College, and her younger daughter, Clara Dorothea Jenkins, who is a student at Bryn Mawr College, are expected home for the Christmas holidays.

* * *

The second son of the John Davidson McCords, of Sewickley, to be married within the month is John Davidson McCord, Jr. The James W. Barbers, of Morewood avenue, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Marguerite M. Barber, to Mr. McCord, which took place Wednesday.

A feature of the Christmas sale being held today by the Woman's Industrial Exchange in the marquee, erected by the R. B. Mellons for the wedding of their daughter Sarah, will be a group of debutantes who will serve as models for negligees. Mary Louise Johnson, Anne King Scott, Florence Carroll, Juliet Lea Hillman, Anne Louise Marshall, Marjorie Babcock and Mary Childs have consented to be models with this "show" scheduled for 3 o'clock in order that the buds may be through in time to attend Margaret Brainard's coming out tea.

Additional aides for the table of edibles, of which Mrs. William B. Trainor is chairman, are Mrs. Alexander M. Speer, Mrs. William G. Clyde, Mrs. Augustus K. Oliver, Mrs. William McKennan Reed, Mary Childs, Alice Childs, Jane Foster and Wilhelmina Balken.

As a climax for the day's activities will be a dinner dance, with Mrs. Dorwin J. Donnelly as chairman, assisted by Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. Thomas M. Jones III, Mrs. H. Lee, Mrs. Edwin Hodge, Mrs. Herbert May, Mrs. Theodore Smith, Mrs. Edward J. Lewis, Mrs. Walter S. Heron and Mrs. Thomas C. Wurts.

Miss Catherine and Miss Mercedes Maloney will give the rehearsal dinner this evening in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club for their sister, Mary Dorothea Maloney, whose marriage to George Franklin McSorley will take place tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in St. Paul's Cathedral.

A number of entertainments have been given for Miss Maloney during the last week. On Tuesday Mrs. C. P. Mayer of Bridgeville entertained at a bridge luncheon in the Duquesne Club, followed by a theater party; Thursday afternoon Mrs. H. Clair Staley entertained in her home at a bridge tea; Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. Arthur McSorley entertained with a dinner dance in the Pittsburgh Country Club; Friday evening Miss Ursula and Miss Katherine Reilly and John C. Reilly entertained the bridal party with a dinner dance in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club; Saturday afternoon Miss Mary Grace House entertained with a bridge luncheon in the Hotel Schenley; Saturday evening Miss Virginia McSorley entertained with a theater party, followed by a supper at the University Club. Sunday evening Mrs. M. F. Maloney, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Eva Burns, aunt of the bride, entertained at a tea in their home.

Miss Maloney has asked her sister, Miss Catherine Maloney, to be maid of honor, and Miss Virginia McSorley and Miss Mercedes Maloney to be bridesmaids. Mary Eva Maloney, small sister of the bride, will be flower girl. John McSorley, Jr., will be his brother's best man, and W. Arthur McSorley, Robert S. McSorley, John C. Reilly, Albert F. Daschbach, all of this city; Paul C. Romweber of Batesville, Ind., and Hugh C. Boyle of Johnstown will be ushers.

A card party for the benefit of the Help of Christian School will be held Monday night November 28, in the Church hall, Meadow street. Miss Anna Fusco is chairman.

* * *

The William J. Griffiths, of the Bellefield dwellings, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Elizabeth, to Jack Wible Lyon, son of the Walter Lyons, of Sewickley.

Our Lady of Mercy Sodality of St. Peter's Catholic Church, North Side, will hold a card party tomorrow night in St. Peter's School Hall. Miss Elizabeth Grady, president of the sodality, 's general chairman.

REIZENSTEIN'S fine service plates and single dozens for various courses are so wonderful this year—like the Pittsburgh Postman who hiked to Philadelphia for his vacation—they just revel in their vocation.

There is an ultimate distinction in the elegance of fine table services—a distinction that selections from Reizenstein's usually achieve.

Millicent Tries It Again

BABE'S WAIL SAVES PARENTS, OVERCOME BY GAS

Girl, 14, Found Drunk; Parents Jailed

SHY

At the left is Millicent Rogers, oil heiress, who has just contracted matrimony with Arturo Peralta Ramos, lucky young Argentine. The photo is one of the best extant of Millicent, who is camera shy.

MARRIAGE PARTS THEM

Millicent as her public will readily remember, served a matrimonial apprenticeship with Count Salm von Hoogstraaten, shown above with their son Peter.

CANNY

Col. H. H. Rogers, Millicent's father, has bestowed $30,000 a year on her. No more, he warns.

LITTLE "PETE" AGAIN

Here is another view of little Peter. By arrangement he is to live with his mother.

LUCKY

At right is Millicent's new husband, who is credited with being one of the luckiest young men in Argentina. Lottery winnings of $150,000 started him on the road to night life fame in Paris, and won him social standing that gave him entrance to Millicent's social circle.

REMUS JURY SELECTION COMPLETED

HOLD FATE OF FORMER RUM BARON

Three women and nine men hold the fate of George Remus, once King of Ohio bootleggers and now accused of slaying his second wife, Imogene, for an alleged affair with Franklin Dodge, Jr., the prohibition agent who wrecked his rum ring and sent him to Atlanta penitentiary. Left to right are, Joseph Schwab, John Troutman, F. W. Oberschmidt, Henry Huitink, Mathews S. Normile, Sr., Robert E. Hosford, Frank Oelgate, Henry Sandheger, Josephine Mueller, Court Baliff James E. Clark, oJseph Lambert, Mrs. Anna Ricking, Mrs. Ruth Cross and Henry Byrd. Oelgate is the "extra" juror, an Ohio institution.

BABE'S CRY SAVES GAS VICTIMS

The cries of a nine-day-old boy saved his parents from probable death in their modest home at 1227 Marvista street early today.

Mrs. Annie Winter, 1233 Columbus avenue, calling upon her son and daughter-in-law, Bert C. Winter, 20, and Ethel Winter, 18, found the door to their apartment locked and heard the cries of Robert John, the infant.

With the aid of neighbors, she forced a rear door and found the parents overcome in bed from carbon monoxide gas thrown off by a flueless stove in the adjoining kitchen. The child, covered with blankets, had escaped the fumes.

It required physicians an hour to revive the young mother, who was reported in serious condition. The father recovered rapidly.

Colleges Ready For School Now, Observes Will

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 21.—The football season is about over. Education never had a more financial year. School will commence now. Successful colleges will start laying plans for new stadiums; unsuccessful ones will start hunting a new coach; cheer leaders will join the Rotary luncheons for hog-calling contests.

WILL ROGERS

Heroes have been cheered that will never do anything to be cheered again. We are trying to arrange a post-season game between Harvard and the motion picture leading men.

Yours,
WILL.

Bandits in Stolen Auto Stage Three Holdups

Three highwaymen operating in a stolen automobile, committed two robberies on the North Side within an hour last night and a short time later forced an automobile off the Freeport road near Tarentum and robbed two occupants of the machine. The license number was reported to the police by all of the victims and in each case it was the same machine.

The first victim was Frank Mogus, of 2426 Pittview avenue. Mogus was walking alone on Troy Hill road, when two armed men alighted from an automobile that had pulled up to the curb. Mogus was robbed of $19.

Mogus took the license number of the car and reported the robbery to North Side police. Police say the machine had been reported as stolen from St. Francis Hospital at 10 o'clock. The owner is F. G. Martin, of 116 Fifth avenue.

A short time later A. P. McGurdy, of 8 Elve street, was robbed of $19 while walking in Pennsylvania avenue. The robbery was committed in a similar manner, two men stepping from the automobile with revolvers, while the third bandit remained at the wheel of the machine.

Early this morning an automobile driven by William Elliott of Natrona Heights was forced off the Freeport road by an automobile bearing three men, two of whom stepped to the roadway with revolvers and forced Elliott and John Williams, of Brackenridge, to get out of their machine. Williams was robbed of $20 and Elliott lost his watch and $17. County detectives were notified and they say the machine is the same as used in the North Side holdups.

Missing

KENT C. WASHBURN

Efforts are being made to locate Kent C. Washburn, who disappeared from his home at 1101 Ridge avenue, North Side, November 7. The residence was badly damaged by the gas blast last Monday and his wife needs the assistance of her husband. Mrs. Louisa Washburn, 80, of Delphos, O., mother of the missing man, yesterday asked Pittsburgh police to take up the search.

THIEF FIGHTS BACK

Where Patrolman Reynolds struggled with his prisoner. In several homes in Tennyson avenue district holes were bored in wooden sashes and filled with putty. After the holes were filled, the thief at his leisure, entered the home. A gun with which the burglar fired several shots at Reynolds was found in the shrubbery.

AID IN ARREST

Dies In Cell

Thomas Francis, 60, believed to be an employe of the Manchester Boat Club, at the foot of Franklin street, died in a cell in the Center Avenue Police Station last night. He had been arrested at Kirkpatrick street and Center avenue several hours before on a drunkenness charge. Before being placed in a cell Francis had been taken to the Passavant Hospital for treatment.

SHOOTS MILLVALE MAN WHILE SHOWING HIM GUN

While Frank Gubich, 306 Elm street, Millvale, was showing a shotgun to William Sutter, 20, of 529 Madison avenue, and two companions last evening in the Gubich home, the gun was discharged and Sutter was shot in the right thigh. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital. County detectives investigated and reported the shooting accidental.

GIRL DRUNK, PARENTS JAILED

John Kalkowski, 41, of 26 Maurice street, forsook his long morning [illegible] and his wife her potato-peeling [illegible] a downtown hotel today to rest for a [illegible] behind prison bars until their daughter, Mary, 14, "recovers [illegible] hangover" in Pittsburgh Hospital.

John admitted to Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court that when Mary was found unconscious in Aiken, near Penn avenue, last night, it was from effects of moonshine given her at home. When police went to the home later they found the man, his wife and a 12-year-old son "in a drunken sleep," they testified, with three empty moonshine bottles nearby.

The husband and father declared that he has been out of work for two months. The wife supports the family. Magistrate Brandon ordered them held pending the girl's recovery. Her condition, it was said at the hospital, is not serious.

Too Modest for Public Display, In Jail Now

By hook or crook, Bruno Capelli, 18, of Vickroy street, was determined to have his picture taken, and he had a photograph made a week ago at the Garapolo Photograph Studio, 902 Fifth avenue.

Without enough money to pay the photographer and unable to endure seeing the picture on display, Capelli last night broke the window and stole the picture, police say.

He was captured after a chase in which several shots were fired by police. He was held in Central Police Station.

IT NEVER PAYS

By GILBERT ROGERS

Dan Shevlin Gives Margie An Opportunity to Save Jerry Evesham's Life

HE LIT a cigaret, His coolness was astonishing. In this room, with two women who hated him and who he knew hated him, he talked as imperturbably as if he had just been introduced, He talked easily, uninterrupted, about the new plays, the difficulties of traffic, the latest newspaper scandal. But the strain was too much for Margie, She could not stand it any longer. She rose suddenly and turned to the door,

"Leaving me?" Shevlin inquired, as he broke off abruptly.

She answered him with a look of blazing contempt,

"Oh, well," he went on, "if my call here is looked upon as an intrusion . . ." He wandered towards the hall, 'But I had rather hoped you might be able to prevent a tragedy. A young fellow in the tropics—I believe you know him —seems to be in some danger—rather serious danger—" His voice trailed off, He wandered on into the hall, made an elaborate pretense of going to the door.

Turning, his eyes met Margie with an ironic look. She weakened, wavered, and gave up.

"Oh, don't go—don't go. I'll see you alone. I'll see you now. Carlotta—"

But Carlotta had gone almost before she spoke. Dan Shevlin came back into the room. His manner was harder, brisker. He rubbed his hands together.

"Margie," he said, "I've got about as much chance of making you like me, as I have of climbing Mount Everest. I'm not such a fool as to think I ever could make you like me. But as I once told you, I never give up, and there are ways—other ways—"

"I'm not interested," she said angrily. "Please—please come to the point! What have you done? Oh, what have you done?"

"Nothing yet, I've started something, but it's something that can be stopped. Suppose I make it very clear? You were once the means of giving me a little influence over Adrian Martin. I scared Adrian Martin—he was willing to give me anything to hold my tongue. But for once I didn't want money. I can get that—later on. Instead I've had Adrian Martin send this Evesham boy off on a fool mission in the Black River country. Meanwhile he's wired his native agent in the sea port to send a party after the boy three days from now, and —get rid of him! Do you understand? He's in the jungle, and alone, and there'll be a gang after him with orders to kill. And there's no law in the country to stop them."

"Oh," Margie gasped. "Oh—you—this isn't true!"

"It's as true as I stand here."

"You mean you'll be responsible, you'll be willing to cause his death—his murder? That's all it is—murder! Why, I'll get the police—I'll tell them now."

"I thought you'd say that," Shevlin murmured. "My dear girl, use your head. What good would that do to Evesham? Even if you are believed, he'll be dead and flung into the swamp in any case."

"I'll tell the police down there—I'll wire them—send warning."

Shevlin laughed. "To that bunch of crooks? Why, you wouldn't know whom to wire to, and if you did, you'd find him in Adrian Martin's pay."

"The American consul—"

"What could he do? Those natives would be very polite to him, but they'd do just as they wanted. And he and you couldn't prove anything. Why even the courts are run entirely on a bribe system. My dear Margie, you could make a lot of trouble for all of us, but that wouldn't save Evesham's life. The boy himself is in the jungle by this time—you can't reach him, himself. I tell you this thing has been well thought out! I thought it out myself in fact!"

Margie's eyes were wild. "But why—why are you doing this terrible thing? For God's sake—" Her head swam, and she fought to keep from fainting.

And now Shevlin smiled gently and deliberately. "Dear Margie," he murmured, "I didn't say that this couldn't be stopped. It can be stopped in just one way."

"How?" she gasped. "Don't torture me like this!"

"If Adrian Martin were to send a code message to his agent canceling the first order, why, apart from a few snakes, crocodiles and nomadic Indians, your friend Mr. Evesham would be in no danger."

"If Adrian Martin—"

"Exactly. And Adrian Martin will send that message if I tell him!"

"Oh," said Margie dully, "I see, I see . . ."

"I thought you would, Margie, I was sure you would!"

"You're going to make Adrian Martin send that message!" said Margie quietly.

"I hope so."

She looked at him with a slow, fearful glance, thinking that he was like a monster, like nothing human.

"You have great influence with me," he said softly. "I think you might be able to make me do anything you wanted—even this."

A little cry burst from her, though she was struggling desperately for self-control.

"You see," he murmured, "I decided that you would be willing to make a greater sacrifice for someone you . . . liked, than for yourself. I tried the latter and failed—you remember how. This time I don't expect to fail. You know where my apartment is—do you want to dine with me there tonight?. Tomorrow morning we'll go to Adrian Martin together and have him send that wire. What do you say?"

"You utter beast—you beast!" she cried out,

He shook his head. "Well, think it over. You've got just three days. After that it will be too late. The party will have started from the seaport, and not even Adrian Martin can stop the thing then."

"Oh, get out of here—get out of here!" Margie cried. "Do you hear—get out of here!" She stood choking, inarticulate, on the verge of hysteria.

"Au revoir!" said Dan Shevlin.

CHAPTER XLVI.

FOR a moment Margie stood quite motionless. There was a confused singing and murmuring in her ears, as if the sea were drumming not far away.

But the sea was not here, she was in Carlotta Brooke's apartment and she was only feeling faint and sick. Sick—she must be sick . . .

Slowly, in a tide, came realization. Dan Shevlin's sardonic face seemed to rise before her eyes, his words echoed again in her ears.

Jerry would be killed in far away South America, struck down in the jungle, shot in the back most likely, by the bandits who were in Adrian Martin's pay. And only she could save him—at the price of everything!

She had always feared Dan Shevlin, but she had never thought him capable of this, never believed anyone could be so diabolically clever, so diabolically cruel. From the moment he had discovered her love for Jerry, the depth and the force of that burning thing, he had never rested. He had forced Adrian Martin as if with a whip. With uncanny shrewdness he had realized this was the one and only road to his desires.

Margie was dry-eyed now, but she was trembling. She looked up. Carlotta had stolen back into the room, was looking at her anxiously, wonderingly. Then Margie's self-control snapped. A sob rose in her throat, then another and another, and she was shaking hysterically in Carlotta's arms. She did not know what she said, but she must have told enough for Carlotta to guess the rest.

The older woman was very quiet. Her fingers touched Margie's hair tenderly.

"Don't—don't dear. It will be all right. I promise you it will be all right."

At the surety of those tones, Margie tried to check herself.

"But—but what can I do?"

"I'm going to help you. You don't think I'm not going to do everything? . . ."

"Carlotta . . ."

Carlotta's face had a certain grimness. Into her expression that so often mingled petulance with compliance there seemed to come now something that was strong and determined. Her eyes looked into space. Then she said:

"I don't care what hold Dan Shevlin has on Adrian Martin. I don't care what it is. I'm going to see Adrian Martin—you'd better come with me. We'll make him stop! Oh, I won't hesitate to do anything—anything!"

Margie tried to pour out something of the gratitude that surged through her, aching her like a physical thing. She had so often taken the initiative, but now she was leaning for help on Carlotta and Carlotta was not failing her.

"Long distance to Newport. Put it through quickly, please."

"You mean over the phone?" Margie began. "You're going to ask him—"

"I only want to let him know we're on our way. We haven't much time to lose. I don't want to miss him."

Fifteen minutes—crawling slowly, while Margie sat, thinking, and trying not to think, deadly afraid. . . .

Then the tinkle of the phone, and Carlotta was there.

What, he's not there? . . . When will Mr. Martin be there? . . . He's left for the season? . . . Well, I must get in touch with him at once. This is an old friend, a personal friend, do you understand? And it's terribly important. Where can I find him? . . . You don't know? That's ridiculous! Ridiculous! I tell you this is an old friend . . ."

Margie's fingers gripped the arms of her chair, and like a wave, despair came slowly over her. She did not need to hear Carlotta's fierce insistence, her pleading. She knew by instinct that Adrian Martin's whereabouts would not be revealed.

But when Carlotta angrily dropped the receiver into place and rose to her feet, she looked baffled, but not beaten.

"I've got to think. . . . If we should go to Newport, try to force them to tell us? . . . But, no, they may not really know where he is. He may have left no word. Besides Shevlin would probably see to that. He never misses a point."

It was as if she talked to herself, and sought for an answer. Presently she made up her mind.

"We've got to find Martin—we've got to! Well, there's only one way—I'll go to Dan Shevlin. I'll find out somehow."

"But he—he won't tell you!" Margie exclaimed.

"No, but perhaps I can find out. I don't know. I'll try everything. I may find some way. I'm going to do this, Margie. Don't be afraid. I'm going now. Better lie down—rest if you can."

"Oh, I can't. I can't! It's wonderful of you to help me like this, but come back soon! I can't stand being alone tonight, Carlotta—I'm all to pieces, I really am. . . . Jerry down there—and—"

"You must stop thinking, worrying—do you hear?" Carlotta spoke with a voice of command, but put her cool, soft fingers on Margie's brow, hurried away to bring her bromides, came back to scold her, to soothe her. And then she was gone.

But as if in an apathy, Margie sat without moving. Carlotta had brought her books, magazines. But they lay in a little pile, unopened. She was waiting, waiting. How could Carlotta possibly hope to find Adrian Martin's whereabouts? Why, that would be the last thing Shevlin would be willing to reveal! He would realize that if they could reach Martin, they might somehow force him to go back on his word. There was no hope, none at all.

Nevertheless, every nerve in her body seemed to jump with a kind of terrible anxiety when, hours later, she heard the click of the door and Carlotta's footsteps coming down the hall.

She thought to herself. "It's now—it's coming now. Oh, I know what it must be like to be accused of murder and see the jury filing back to announce their verdict."

Her eyes explored Carlotta's face, and Carlotta was smiling!

"You didn't—you haven't—" Margie stammered.

Carlotta nodded. "I've got it. Brenda Lodge, Winiscon, Maine. Adrian Martin's up there—on a hunting trip. No 'phones or anything—it's in the wilderness—we'll have to go ourselves. I think there's a morning train to Boston that connects—it will be all right."

Margie, too, was smiling, a little trembling smile that was ashamed for its own relief and joy.

"But how—but how did you, Carlotta?"

"I don't know. I don't know how I did. All I know is I must have frightened him — no, it couldn't have been that. Anyway he gave the address to me. And it isn't a lie. He showed me a letter from Adrian Martin addressed from there."

"Carlotta—I guess, I can't tell you now—"

"Margie, this isn't anything. My dear, you've been far nicer to me than I ever could be to you. We'll do our best—I think we can win."

"You think that we can make Adrian Martin stop that thing, wire to South America?"

"Yes."

"Really sure?"

"Margie, dear, I don't want to worry you—but I can't understand why Shevlin gave me his address. Does he think we can't change Adrian Martin's mind? I wonder. It's the only thing that bothers me!"

CHAPTER XLVII.

AT BOSTON they transferred to North Station. It was a gray fall day, and the long trip was already telling on them. Carlotta looked tired, Margie under a strain. But it was as if they were both fortified by the same indomitable purpose, a purpose from which nothing could turn them aside.

The train that pulled northward into Maine carried homegoing New Englanders, and groups of hunters and sportsmen. These carried rifles in leather bags, chatted and laughed together. With all this cheerful feeling in the air, Margie wondered if she were the only miserable and frightened person alive.

She looked out of the window. She saw the pines and had glimpses of blue water. She remembered long ago, when she had first come home to her own country, how she had lived here, too, with her aunt, on the rocky coast. It seemed all so far away, the time she had lent her aunt all the money, the time she had quarreled and left. She felt as if she did not have an aunt any more. All she had was Jerry, and now Jerry might die. . . .

She gave a little shiver, and felt Carlotta's hand rest comfortingly on hers. She had Carlotta, too—she had a friend. That was certain.

Hours later, when the first thinning of light came over the sky, and the pines began to stand up somberly against a vast gloom, they got out at a lonely station.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Philip Veritzen as a Lord in His Own Realm

THERE is a crisp authority in Philip Veritzen's slightest direction to his subordinates which fascinates me because he also manage to invest each order with courtesy. But I cannot imagine anyone disobeying an order of his or delaying one. Those who do indulge their imaginations in that direction and carry out their visions concretely always find themselves promptly separated from the great organization which he heads.

So I was not surprised to see Otto, the great man's chauffeur, appear at the door of his private office in so short a time after Mr. Veritzen had sent for him as to suggest that the employe who had been given the order to summon Otto had slid down the banister in his zeal for haste.

Mr. Veritzen wasted no time in preliminaries.

"Otto," he said, "can you find room in the car for a board of these dimensions." He named its length, breadth and thickness.

Imperturbably the chauffeur took a folding ruler from a pocket of his smart uniform, and, bending down, laid it on the rug and proceeded to measure off the dimensions his employer had mentioned. Then he straightened up and gave a decision.

"Yes, it can go on the seat beside me. I can fasten it so that it will not fall nor interfere with the driving."

"Very well," Mr. Veritzen commented. "Here," gathering up the report he just had been reading and handing it to the man, "put that in my emergency bag. Then start the car. Mrs. Graham and I will be right down."

He turned to me as soon as the man had left the room.

"Perhaps I was too precipitate," he said, with a charming deprecatory smile. "But I thought you would be ready to leave immediately."

"I am," I returned, rising, and he crossed the room to my side, and, taking my coat from the chair, held it for me to slip into. I wondered if it were an accident that as he adjusted it to my shoulders, his hand touched my cheek in something so like a fugitive caress that I almost committed the gaucherie of drawing away instead of ignoring the incident entirely.

The next instant he had stepped aside for me to precede him out of the room. His manner was impeccably dignified, but I felt absurdly self-conscious as we came into the main offices, where Henderson and the three girls were busily at work. But there was not the slightest expression in any one of the four faces to indicate that they saw anything out of the ordinar in this Sunday morning conference of mine with my employer.

Mr. Veritzen paused at Henderson's desk.

"I find that I shall not need the rest of that work as early as I thought," he said. "Go home now and tell the girls to go also. And—next Saturday take the whole day in addition to Sunday."

He turned away so abruptly that he apparently did not hear Henderson's fervent "Thank you." But I realized that I had witnessed one of the many little acts which kept the people of the great producer's organization so absolutely loyal to him.

"The old man works you till you're ready to drop," one of them said, "but he never fails to hand you something as a reward that makes you want to put in another half day for him, just for luck."

I wondered if my vanity was wrong in drawing another conclusion—that the work of these four people really had not been necessary, that he had commanded their attendance simply to allay any possible qualms of mine concerning the Sunday morning appointment and to make less pointed his proposal that we continue our conference at the inn on the heights overlooking the Hudson.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, November 22

I read the constant action of celestial powers mixed into waywardness of mortal men.—GEORGE ELIOT.

A LIVELY day and one offering much opportunity and action in connection with those in public places or in secret understanding with trusts, deals or combines, that is in activities where strategem and diplomacy or subtlety are factors. Writings and new contracts as well as steady application and industry are under flourishing influence, but finances carry definite hazards.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by an important year, promising contact with those in public places, albeit these touches may partake of the subtle, secret or under cover. Good contracts may be made, but be careful as to financial aspects, as they are under hazard. There may be steady progress also through labor and application.

A child born on this day may be talented and ingenious, with originality in science or letters. It may also incline to secret research or to subtle or furtive methods of action.

STATE SQUAD ARRIVES TOMORROW

BIG RALLY OF ALUMNI CARDED HERE

THE Penn State College football squad, 45 strong, will arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow morning and establish headquarters at the Chartiers Heights Country Club, where the Nittany Lions will go through their final paces for the annual Thanksgiving Day battle with the University of Pittsburgh Panthers at the Pitt Stadium.

The Nittany Lion varsity squad will be headed by Coach Hugh Bezdek and his staff of assistants. By establishing their headquarters at the Chartiers Heights Country Club, the Nittany Lions will be kept away from the pre-game bustle and excitement that usually prevails in the city prior to the Pitt-Penn State game.

The Penn State squad will arrive in Pittsburgh early tomorrow in a special train and will be taken immediately to the Chartiers Heights Country Club, where the Lions are scheduled to go through a light workout.

Wednesday night Penn State alumni from virtually all sections of the country will gather in Kaufmann's auditorium for their annual reunion and smoker. The affair is sponsored by the Allegheny County Chapter, which includes more than 1,200 members.

Arrangements have been made to have the Penn State band of 75 pieces, headed by W. O. Thompson, bandmaster, play at the smoker.

The committee, headed by H. C. McIlveen, who will serve as master of ceremony, is making an effort to get Coach Bezdek to address the members of the alumni body. The committee is composed of R. J. Cochrane, Jr., L. E. Euwer, Paul Reick, Carl Ziegler, William Kerr and E. H. Sykes.

SOLE possession of first place in the West Penn League will be the objective of the Trinity Church passers tonight when they entertain the Webster Hall team on the Trinity floor in the only league contest scheduled tonight.

As a result of defeating Sharpsburg Y. M. C. A., Saturday night, while Kinsley House vanquished Heinz House, Trinity went into a triple tie for the lead with Kingsley House and the Knickerbockers.

Unless the Webster Hall team has improved considerably since last Friday, when it lost to the Knickers, the Oakland quintet stands little chance of defeating Max Hannum's smooth-working aggregation tonight.

THE Siano Club of the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League, composed of former stars of the J. J. Mieles and Columbus Templers, is expected to make a determined bid for the championship of that circuit.

The Sianos have been working out for the last three weeks and their showing to date indicates they will be in the thick of the running for the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League title.

Interest in the activities of the P. & O. League is high and indications point to a close fight for the championship this winter. The McKeesport Junkers, Somermans, Mieles, Sianos, Goldensons and Succops are evenly matched teams and no runaway race is likely to occur in this circuit.

THE Goldensons of the South Side will travel to Braddock tonight to meet the American Legion team representing that town on the floor this winter. The Braddock team is composed of former members of the Morry Cadets and are reported on edge for the battle with the P. & O. Leaguers tonight. The Goldenson Vanities will meet the Kiulus girls in the preliminary game. Dave Mervis of the Tristate Officials' Association, will handle the main attraction.

DRIBBLES

Joe (Hawks) Meade has been named coach of the Dairy Cottagers of the South Side, who will play preliminary games to all P. & O. League attractions at the Market House.

The Wilmerding Cubs would like to arrange games at home and abroad with midget clubs. Write Alvin Barnes, 425 Westinghouse avenue, Wilmerding, Pa.

The M. G. Leslies, after several weeks of hard training, are in fine shape for their opening Central League battle with Crafton at Crafton tomorrow night. Capt. Swede Carlson has his tossers working in a smooth manner.

The Red McMahon Club of the South Side wants games with midget teams. Write James Corcoran, 1731 Wharton street, or call Hemlock 6930-J.

The Metropolitan League will open tonight when the Allentown Turners meet the Harmony Club on the latter's floor.

never lost hope or confidence in their players.

"They'll win; they've got the OLD FIGHT!" they kept repeating.

And the Titan eleven justified this confidence by marching down the field for another tally and then staving off Tech's desperate efforts to forge ahead again in the dying moments via the forward-passing route.

THE Detroit eleven, coached by Gus Dorais, former teammate of Knute Rockne, when the latter was a player at Notre Dame, demonstrated just what can be done in the way of opening up the game and making it more spectacular for the onlookers by the manner in which it forward and lateral-passed its way up the field for long gains. When the rules committee altered the code at its last meeting to encourage lateral-passing, many of the coaches banded together and entered into a "gentlemen's agreement" to ignore the change and let the movement for more open play die a natural death. Not more than a dozen big teams around the country are taking advantage of the rule, which exempts the attacking team from liability in the event of fumbles on lateral passes. The great possibilities of the play never were better illustrated than by Detroit against Tech. True, there were some scoffers in the stands who referred to the visitors' brand of play as "basketball," but it pleased the great majority and that is what counts. And it also was effective enough to bag victory.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion, is likely to come here for a battle with Young Saylor of Charleroi at Motor Square Garden next Monday night is particularly pleasing to this writer, who had a chance to observe the Baltimore Italian at first hand in his climb up the ladder. As a sports writer in Baltimore several years ago, it was my pleasure to see Dundee, just out of the preliminary ranks, whip one good opponent after another and gradually forge to the front until he stood out as the foremost contender for the title. Then I saw him defeat Pete Latzo for the honors in New York last summer.

Dundee is a rattling good man of real championship caliber, a good boxer, a hard fighter and an effective puncher, especially to the body with his right hand. He figures to beat Ace Hudkins and all of the other contenders now in sight and those who know him best are cognizant of the fact that it was not fear of Hudkins that prompted him to refuse to enter the ring against the Ace at Los Angeles recently, for which he has been barred in California and New York. What is the loss of those states is Pennsylvania's and Pittsburgh's gain. But for his predicament, it is unlikely Pittsburgh would get a chance to see Dundee in action at this time. He is one of Tex Rickard's best Madison Square Garden cards, and this city naturally cannot afford to offer him the same terms as Tex in New York.

FOOTBALL

the Conference by losing to an embattled Bethany Bison.

In the Western Conference, Ohio State failed to stop the championship rush of Illinois, and Bob Zuppe is calmly and serenely another Big Ten crown today. Michigan was punched out of the limelight by Doc Spear's Minnesota eleven, which caused the writer much pain and Roger (Buck) Baird much pleasure—all of twelve dollars worth. Northwestern saved something from the wreck of its season by downing Iowa.

Further westward, Pop Warner dropped the University of California out of the Pacific Coast Conference running with a 13-7 licking, and U. S. C. remaining tied with Pop by taking over Washington State 27-0.

Carnegie Tech came out of the Detroit game in the worst shape of the year. Four men were badly injured, those being Moorhead, Allen, Wertenberger and Cowan. It is very doubtful if Moorhead, Cowan or Allen will be able to take the field against the Oregon Aggies Saturday. Moorhead suffered a wrenched knee and concussion of the brain, Wertenberger had his ankle cracked, Allen's knee was badly bruised and he was also kicked in the head. Cowan suffered a hip injury, tearing some ligaments.

Those who saw the game, and there were precious few willing to brave the wintry blasts, saw a well-coached, tricky eleven, with three, not just one, good backs, and a line that averaged 190 pounds. In Brazill, Maloney and Capt. Connell, the Titans presented one of the best backfield trios seen here this year, and second only to Nebraska's. I think the Detroit team would give both Wash-Jeff and Pitt plenty of trouble.

They were the first team to show here with the lateral pass developed as it was meant to be by the rule makers. Detroit played basketball with the pigskin, and had the Tartan defense running in circles part of the time.

On the defense, a pair of powerful tackles made up for the somewhat weak ends, and the center of the line was well backed by the secondary defense. Brazil turned in some fine punting, one of his boots going 62 yards before it struck the ground.

There was one thing that stood out in the game aside from the general class of the Detroit play, and that was Howard Harpster's fine quarterbacking. Harpster is probably the equal of any quarterback in the game. He is easily the best locally, and at that, he has been having an in and out sort of year. Saturday, his returning of punts, his generalship and his passing were almost perfect, in addition to his punting, which really kept Detroit from scoring more than it did.

Harpster returns punts as well as any safety man in the section, and while he lacks the speed and quick pickup of Welch, is a daring handler of the ball and a deceptively fast stepper.

Did you notice what happened to Missouri, conquerors of Nebraska, and until Saturday generally conceded the Missouri Valley Conference championship? They did just what they have done in previous years and what it was feared they would do. They blew up and lost to the weaker Kansas eleven, beaten soundly by Nebraska a couple of weeks ago. By losing, they find themselves tied for the Conference championship with Nebraska instead of champs. Those Jayhawkers are to Missouri what Tech is to Pitt.

The Conference championship, once again in the hands of Geneva, was pretty much of a cut and dried proposition all along. Geneva has a powerful eleven, and really deserves tougher opposition than has been furnished by any of the other Conference teams during the past couple years.

troit team as kin of Notre Dame.

Carnegie, once in the lead by a margin of one point, had a splendid chance to come out the victor, but Detroit was superior in stamina and the visitors wore down the Techites, who at first seemed to have little chance, then looked like a winner, only to fade out in the last quarter—victim's of Detroit's crunching line, which made pathways for Brazill, from whom much may be heard later.

There were but few things that this young visitor from Detroit did not know all about. He can hit a line, skirt an end, change his pace, throw passes, receive them, and punt. He is difficult to stop once under way, owning that particular knack which Tom Davies had down so pat, a slowing up on short notice, and a gathering of speed in a second to elude a tackler.

This is his first year on the varsity team and what he will represent in his final year, enriched by experience and constant improvement, is something that should make Detroiters ponder over as much as the new Ford, which will be out around 1930, if the latest rumor is correct.

Detroit looked superior to Carnegie throughout the game, yet if Carnegie had escaped that tired feeling which came in the last quarter, after a grueling afternoon, chances are Carnegie would have thrilled with another upset of a worthy team.

WE WERE very anxious to have Carnegie win, as there was an enthusiastic Detroit rooter in the press box, inspired by some corn liquor, who imagined that because some of the Detroit boys were Irish they were absolutely unbeatable. This natural racial pride is excellent up to a certain point and then even to an Irishman it becomes a little boresome.

Certainly, those within hearing and who were unfortunate enough to be born without Irish blood in their veins must have begun inquiring into the situation when they heard the young man's vast claims regarding his favorite team.

We hasten to add this is not criticism of the Irish, but a sort of family squabble in which an erring brother is being set straight. Very likely the Irish boys on the field, who were being knocked down by Technites and then assisted to their feet by Techites, and who were knocking Techites with everything they had, to turn around and help the local boys to their feet, would seriously object to the extravagant claims of our young friend.

Anthropology never was a favorite study here, but it does seem entirely reasonable that various races have been favored about equally with various talents. At least no race has a great monopoly.

OF COURSE, the fact that the young man came direct from the "base of supply," Detroit being fairly adjacent to Canada, might have had much to do with his enthusiasm. It is not difficult to imagine that, perhaps, after the game was all over, and the bottle finished, the young man was ready to admit that Tech boys were "regular fellows," just before going into that harmonious song, "Sweet Adeline."

If the young fellow in question had realized how the Tech team had scored on both Pitt and Wash-Jeff, and appreciated how very close Tech came to defeating Detroit, he would not have been quite so boisterous. Detroit had a good, nervy team on the field, but it is difficult for Pittsburghers to find anything but daring gameness in Carnegie Tech. And the color of the Tech jerseys is green.

SPORT COMMENT

in every game and were still battling at the finish. They have not failed to score in any their nine games to date.

THIS famous Carnegie Tech trait was in evidence again Saturday. Though beaten, 12 to 7, the Skibos, with the football that they had learned from Wally Steffen, and with the spirit that is bred in every student at the Schenley Park institution, forced Detroit to play at such a clip and gave the vistors such a battle that the game must be chronicled as one of the very best seen here in several years.

The Detroit boys won cleanly and fairly by as spectacular attack and a varied passing system in which sometimes as many as five men touched the ball, and are entitled to all the glory that belongs to a winner, but there was plenty of credit for Carnegie Tech, too, for it was only through such opposition as the Tartans offered that the game was such a thriller.

Howard Harpster again demonstrated that he is one of the best backs developed hereabouts in a long time, and Moorhead, Stauffer and the remaining members of the team, gave very creditable accounts of themselves.

BUT in praising Carnegie Tech, nothing can be taken away from the visitors. In fact it was because Detroit was so good that the Skibos' stand against them was so praiseworthy.

Coach Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, former star quarterback at Notre Dame, has constructed a real football team and has perfected it in a generally sound game, particularly in an intricate and extensive passing system, that makes it one of the best college elevens playing football anywhere in the land.

Brazil is one of the best all-around halfbacks and tripple-threat men to appear here this season, and the team is correspondingly strong throughout the remainder of its makeup.

JOHN P. EGAN, Pittsburgh's only "big-time" football official, who served as linesman in Saturday's game at Forbes Field, pronounced it equal to the best contest he has seen anywhere this year as a thriller for the spectators.

Egan did not witness the Pitt-Nebraska game here on November 12, but officiated in the Syracuse-Colgate game at Syracuse on that date, which ended in a 11-to-11 tie. The Pittsburgh official had rated the Syracuse-Colgate affair the best game he had seen this year, but he declares that the Carnegie Tech-Detroit exhibition was fully equal to it.

EGAN, after officiating in Syracuse, brings back word that Pitt has added a fine attraction to its schedule for next year in arranging to have Syracuse appear here on November 3. "The Orange has a fine team now, much better than when it played Nebraska," he said, "and as it is a young eleven it will be even greater next year. That game ought to be a big card here."

John will make a long railroad jump to officiate this week, as he is to work in the Nebraska-New York University game in Lincoln, Neb., on Thursday.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

THE reported pending trade that would send Pitcher Flint Rhem from the Cardinals to the Pirates may be safely added to the long list of rumored coming baseball trades that originated only in some one's imagination and never will become realities.

Ever since it was made evident by statements from both sides at the time of the World Series that there could be no deal between the Pittsburgh and St. Louis clubs for the services of Hazen Cuyler, the reason being that the Bucs want a second baseman in exchange for Cuyler and the Redbirds will not part with Frankie Frisch, the baseball fakers have been trying to fool the public with yarns about other imaginary deals between the Corsairs and Cards.

FOR some time it has been reported that a deal for the swapping of Rhem to Pittsburgh was pending, and when Managers Donnie Bush and Bill McKechnie announced they would attend the minor league convention in Dallas next week, the romancers told the public that the exchange would be closed at that time.

However, nothing of the sort is going to occur. Manager Donnie Bush, who came to Pittsburgh Saturday from Indianapolis, remained here for only a short time, but it was long enough for him to make it clear that he does not want Rhem and will not consider any sort of deal for him.

If McKechnie has any more appealing timber to offer, Bush will be willing to talk business with him, but if Rhem is the only man that Bill will put for trade it's a safe bet that there will be nothing doing in the trading line between the Pirates and Cards.

CARNEGIE TECH has lost four of her last six football games, and you will have to go back a few years in Plaid football history to find another season in which the Skibos suffered so many reverses in such a short period.

Nevertheless, the Tartans have come through their schedule, which ends next Saturday in Portland, Ore., with great credit to their school and to themselves.

That they lost so many games was due chiefly to the fact that they have had one of those years that come to every team occasionally, when the team has been riddled by the graduation of numerous stars and the new material is below par.

And at that the Schenley Park boys came out of their defeats without disgrace and with their heads unbowed, for they put up a real fight

Big Card To End Season

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Two intersectional struggles and ten renewals of old rivalries, including the annual Army-Navy classic, appear in the finale this week of the 1927 eastern gridiron show. Yale, regarded by many as the leading football force in this section, strutted off the stage Saturday along with its ancient foe, Harvard, whom it vanquished 14 to 0.

One of the greatest of Army elevens, defeated only by Yale, will fling its speedy formations against the Middies at the Polo Grounds on Saturday. While the Cadets lost prestige at New Haven this was partially dispelled by their decisive triumph over Notre Dame.

New York University's eleven goes to Lincoln for an encounter with the Nebraskans on Thanksgiving Day, while Carnegie Tech journeys to Portland, Ore., to engage with the Oregon Aggies on Saturday.

Among the old feuds which will break forth afresh on Thursday are those between Cornell and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Brown and Colgate at Providence, Pittsburgh and Penn State at Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson and West Virginia at Morgantown, Maryland and Johns Hopkins at Baltimore, Columbia and Syracuse at New York, Catholic University and George Washington at Washington and Bucknell and Dickinson at Lewisburg, Pa.

On Saturday Holy Cross and Boston College will meet in their yearly tussle at Boston.

Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson in their respective contests will be striving to keep a clean slate, neither having tasted defeat. They had one tie game, a scoreless deadlock against each other.

Five regulars and nine other members of the varsity squad at Yale will be lost to the team next year through graduation. The regulars include Capt. Bill Webster, Sid Quarrier, Stew Scott, Dwight Fishwick, Duncan Cox and Bill Hammersley. The Yale varsity of 1928 probably will be developed about Charlesworth, center; Green, guard; Eddy, tackle; Garvey and Decker, halfbacks, and Hoben, quarter.

Six of the Harvard eleven who started against Yale Saturday will be available next season. Simonds, Bell, Pratt, Strong and Brown will be lost through graduation, but the veterans to remain are Douglas, Clark, Parkinson, French, Guarnaccia and Potter.

While Yale is established as leading contender for eastern championship honors, victories for Pittsburgh or Washington and Jefferson on Thursday will leave the title in doubt.

CUE MATCHES TONIGHT

Players representing the same parlors meet tonight in the local three-cushion billiard league. Eichenmiller and Wainwright, both of Rudy's, play on their home table and Pitfield and Smith, both of Dimlings, clash at that establishment.

LOCAL RIVALS IN THIRD RING CLASH TONIGHT

PHIL GOLDSTEIN and Tommy Crowley answer the gong against each other again tonight in the Motor Square ring. It is their third meeting and each will be out to win by a decisive margin to put an end to their series of battles for supremacy. Crowley won the first bout last Christmas afternoon, and the second, about a month ago, resulted in a draw. For the first time, tonight, they will be battling over the 10-round route, the other bouts having been eight-rounders.

Two eight-round preliminaries and one of six rounds complete a good bill. Jack Horowitz of Los Angeles and Charleroi meets Linn Jordan, Negro middleweight of Johnstown, in the semi-final, and Patsy Gallagher, South Side featherweight, boxes U. S. Carpentier of New Kensington in the second event. The short bout will be between Mickey Hart of New Kensington and Monte Sirko of Oakland and will open the show at 8:20.

LATZO IN PHILLY BOUT

Maxie Rosenbloom of New York and Pete Latzko of Scranton, former welterweight champion, box the 10-round main bout at the Arena in Philadelphia tonight, with Ray Neuman and King Solomon appearing in another 10-round bout.

There will be no boxing show at McKeesport next Thursday night, because of Thanksgiving. Willie Davies, state flyweight champion, probably will be a headliner at the club Thursday night of next week.

Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, meets Babe Ruth in a 10-round bout in Philadelphia Wednesday night.

Scrappy Whitelaw, Negro boxer of the East End, wants to meet any of the local 145-pounders. He has boxed Nobby Joe Dane and other good ones and is anxious to get a crack at Jimmy Belmont, Young Nixon, Eddie Carver, Tug Phillips or Jackie Murray. His manager is C. L. Curry of 6212 Huntress street.

Cuddy DeMarco probably will meet Harry Kahn in a return bout at Milwaukee shortly. Kahn recently fouled Cuddy in the third round there.

U. S. Carpentier boxes Mickey Dugan at Steubenville Wednesday night.

Marco Polo, McKees Rocks heavyweight, meets Pietro Corri of New York in the main bout of a show in the Mishler Theater, Altoona, next Monday night.

The Harry Taylor-Young Rudy bout scheduled at Johnstown tonight has been called off.

Gus Dorias, a teammate of Knute Rockne's when both served Notre Dame, branches off the same stem that produce Rockne. Detroit uses the quarter back to do a lot of the passing; Detroit uses a walking shift play, and Detroit makes fair use of the air. These establish the Dorias-coached De-

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

RECENTLY I spoke before a mixed gathering of men, women and children. I had been invited to discuss the Dempsey-Tunney bout as my main topic, but as I looked over the varied assemblage I thought a tamer subject would be more in order and toned down the subject and spoke on sports in general. As I concluded, a clergyman in the gathering said he'd come to hear something about that seventh round and the alleged long count in Chicago, so I gave my impression of those interesting moments.

Later the reverend gentleman said he'd insisted on this point because he wanted to ascertain for himself the reaction of the women present to a description of a heavyweight championship boxing bout.

A woman listener answered the question for him.

"I think I can speak for the women," she said. "After having heard the bout described, I think I should like to see one!"

I do not know whether or not the reverend gentleman was shocked.

UP in the press box at Forbes Field, Saturday afternoon, two rabid University of Detroit students kept matters interesting and warm for the reporters of the Carnegie Tech-Detroit football game by pepping things up for their favorites.

"That team out there," they said, "knows nothing but fight. Even our band is full of fight. EVERYBODY at U. of D. has fight—and nothing else but."

At the time, Detroit was leading 6 to 0. Shortly, Tech went into the lead at 7-6 and for a time it appeared as if the Tartans might win by that tally. Although it was late in the game and these Detroit students had their money riding on the result, they

JONES BROTHERS IN LIMELIGHT

Howard Jones (left) and his brother, Tad, who are very much in the limelight these football days. Tad wound up a highly successful season Saturday by adding a victory over Harvard to one over Princeton the week before, while Howard brings his Southern California Trojans to Chicago for a battle with Notre Dame next Saturday. Tad wound up his career as Yale coach with the triumph over the Crimson.

Thousands View Flowers' Remains In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 21.—(United Press.)—A Southern city paid deep respect to a Negro citizen today.

As the hour for the funeral of Tiger Flowers, Negro, former middleweight boxing champion, drew near, thousands of white persons and Negroes, filed past the casket.

Flowers' body lay in state in the municipal auditorium, at the invitation of city officials, the Butler Street African Methodist Church, of which the fighter was a deacon, being too small to accommodate the throngs who wished to attend the funeral.

Hundreds of wreaths and floral tributes were piled about the bronze casket.

Flowers died in New York last week after an operation.

TECH HAS WORKOUT ON DENVER GRID

By a Special Correspondent With the Tech Team.

DENVER, Nov. 21.—Carnegie Tech's football team reached here early today headed for Portland, Ore., where it will play Oregon State College Saturday in the Multnomah Civic Stadium. The athletes immediately went to the stadium of Denver University, where they indulged in a light workout.

It was a crippled lot of athletes that pulled into the snow-bound city. Fully five inches of snow greeted the Tartans. However, the men donned their uniforms and limbered up on the snow-covered ground. Cowan and Wertenberger, injured in the Detroit game, showed a lot of improvement. They were advised, however, to take things easy, being excused from practice.

Alfred Irwin, coach of the undefeated freshman team, sent word he will meet the squad at Salt Lake City. He left Pittsburgh a week ago to make arrangements for the coming of the Plaid.

The fact that the Tartans were beaten by Detroit does not mean their chances of victory against Oregon are dim. The coast outfit also went down to defeat by the same score, 13 to 7. Paul Schissler, coach of the Oregon team, it is said, rested several of his regulars in order to have them in shape for the Carnegie battle.

Like the Skibos, the Beavers lost several of their major combats this season and naturally are anxious to wind up their campaign with a triumph.

Following a light workout the Plaid gridders went on a sight-seeing tour. A few hours later they entrained for Colorado Springs. The next stopover will be Salt Lake. Upon the arrival of the team in Salt Lake City the men will go to the Mormon Tabernacle for an organ recital. They will also hold a short workout in that city.

The team will leave Colorado Springs at midnight tonight and will arrive in Salt Lake City tomorrow morning. The practice session is scheduled for 3 in the afternoon, after which they will be guests at a dinner in their honor at the Utah Hotel. Leaving Salt Lake City at 11:15 the team will spend all the next day (Thursday) on the train and will pull into Portland at 7:13 a. m. Friday.

LOMSKI VS. SLATTERY "TITLE" BOUT SOUGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Jess McMahon, official Madison Square Garden matchmaker, today opened negotiations looking toward the untangling of the light-heavyweight controversy when he announced that he was endeavoring to sign Leo Lomski, Coast contender, and Jimmy Slattery, National Boxing Association champion, for a bout December 12. Lomski has agreed to the terms, he said.

Kerr to Select Caldwell for East Team

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 21.—Bruce Caldwell, the Yale star who was barred from the games with Princeton and Harvard, will not be ineligible for the east-west game on the coast, it became known here yesterday.

Andy Kerr, Washington and Jefferson coach, who has been assigned the task of selecting the eastern team, said that Caldwell would be invited to play on the team which will invade the coast.

DANNING IS SOLD TO PIRATES

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Ike Danning, catcher for the New Haven Baseball Club of the Eastern League, has been sold to the Pittsburgh National team, George M. Weiss, president of the local club, announced today.

Ike Danning went to the Pacific coast with the Pirates last spring and was sold to New Haven.

YALE, N. Y., PITT AND W-J IN LINE

By JESS CARVER.

YALE is claiming the Eastern gridiron championship. Well, so's Pitt, and so's Wash-Jeff and so's New York University and so's your old man. Yale probably has as good a claim to the title as does any of the others, even though there is the blot of the Georgia defeat on the Eli record. A champion, it seems, should be undefeated. Pitt is, and so is Wash-Jeff, and probably will remain so after Thursday's closing games. New York U. has been tied twice, which sort of knocks their titular aspirations into the well-known cocked hat.

Pitt and Wash-Jeff, who have tied each other, and walloped elevens of the caliber of Nebraska, Tech, West Virginia, Lafayette, Bucknell, Drake, Western Maryland and lesser lights, certainly can claim to have played as hard a schedule as the Blue, who have met Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Maryland, Georgia and the Army. You cannot count Harvard exceptionally strong.

I doubt if Princeton would stand much of a show with Nebraska, and the Army and Dartmouth would have some little trouble beating Pitt or Wash-Jeff. However, if anyone in the East is awarded the title, besides Pitt and the Presidents, let it be Yale. Tad Jones deserves it.

After last Saturday's games, in which three or four of our leading elevens were soundly slapped on the well known whiskers, the football atmosphere was slightly cleared, especially in Western regions. Locally, Geneva clinched the Conference championship by steam rolling over Thiel and Beaver Falls. Carnegie Tech was beaten by a powerful Detroit eleven. And Waynesburg dropped out of third place running in

Heidelberg Defeats Germans

By TOM BURKS.

SOME great soccer marked the playing of Sunday's games in the Western Pennsylvania district. Heidelberg showed great form, defeating the German Sport Club by 4-2 score in defense of its National Amateur title. The surprising victory of the Corinthians over McKeesport National Tube by a 3 to 1 score at McKeesport, and Donora's surprise packet of stopping the champion Mather team by a 5 to 1 score also stood out prominently in the day's events.

Then, Mustard Hollow came down to the famous Curry grounds in the American League schedule, and showing a decided change of form, defeated the Internationals by 2 goals to 1. Braddock United rolled up the biggest score of the day, stopping the East Pittsburgh Magyars by a 10 to 0 result.

The usual changing around of the National Amateur champions was evident again yesterday, for when Heidelberg took the field at West View in defense of its title, Donnelli was partner to Valliani with Joe Harbin playing goal.

The champions did not waste much time getting started, Johnny McCosky scoring early in the game, with Grilli, his partner, scoring the second. This was the score when the interval was reached.

The second half found Heidelberg at its best form of the season and Donnelli flashed the third score into the net with Koehling well beaten. This was from a penalty kick. The Germans rallied in the final minutes of the game, Barowsky and Zetel scoring. But the champions had the game well in hand. The lineup:

HEIDELBERG.		GERMAN SPORT.
Harbin	G.	Koehling
Donnelli	R. B.	[illegible]

Pair to Battle 13 Rounds In Paris

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Flaunting their defiance of the superstition attached to the "unlucky number," 13, Al Brown of the United States and Robert Sellie of Belgium, two bantamweights, have signed to "dispute a boxing contest for 13 rounds."

It is believed to be the first time in the history of the ring that a fight has been arranged over the distance.

Brown insisted on 10 rounds, while Sellie held out for 15. The American promoter, Jeff Dickson, said:

"Split the difference, boys; let's make it 13."

THAW BLACKMAILER, DEFIANT, HELD FOR COURT

NEEDED MONEY, FOR FAMILY, HE SAYS

Sullen and defiant, Frederick G. Wipf, 46, 355 North Craig street, heard Magistrate George H. England in Central Police Court order him held for court on charges of entering a building unlawfully, aggravated assault and battery, pointing of arms and attempted extortion.

Wipf was arrested Friday night while, it is alleged, he waited for a car from the home of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., to pass and leave him $5,000. This followed the entering of the Thaw home at 5427 Forbes street, and the beating of Miss Margaret Grealish, a maid. Elizabeth Miller and Margaret Hughes, also maids in the Thaw home, identified Wipf as the man who clubbed Miss Grealish.

Wipf, according to Detective Jerry Deasy, who led the squad arresting him, made a full confession, in which he declared that destitution of his wife and child in Switzerland caused him to plot the extortion. Formerly he was office manager for a local baking concern, but was released when this company was absorbed by a national baking concern last spring.

LOUNGE CAR LATEST

[illegible], Nov. 21. — Limousine lounge [illegible] the last word in observation [illegible]. The Union Pacific system has placed one of these cars on their crack Colorado train, "Columbine." The first one left Chicago on October 21.

These cars are equipped with ladies' lounge, compartment, drawing room, smoking room, buffet and a limousine observation parlor.

This observation parlor is formed by enclosing in glass the observation platform, which affords an unobstructed view and at the same time protection from the weather. It has eight green wicker chairs with cushions of red-brown Spanish leather. The parlor is finished in light yellow and gray, with Adam period decorations.

POLICE LODGER HELD AS THUG

Clarence Williams, 24, a Negro, for a week a homeless lodger in the Homestead Police Station, today is in the Munhall lockup. It is charged that he was one of a group of holdup men, and that he operated in Munhall and Homeville while enjoying the hospitality of the Homestead police. While he slept in the station at night he roamed at liberty during the day and early evening.

Two men early today were attacked and beaten by Negroes. Andrew Barker, of 1219 Ravine street, Munhall, was held up and robbed of $1. Gabor Gairsyi, of Homeville, returning home from work, had no money when held up and slugged and left unconscious. Williams is held as a suspicious person.

LONE STAR GAS ADVANCES TO NEW HIGH PRICES

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Firm prices again were in effect in the bond market today, but trading was considerably less active than last week. Ample funds at easy credit rates continued to form the groundwork for the upward movement, while the limited volume of new offerings at the start of the week accorded only nominal competition to the listed trade.

Railway liens held their place in the lead, "Soo" Line 4s rising a point to 51¾, a new peak, and such leading issues as Erie 5s and 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s and Rock Island 4½s changing hands just below their best prices of the year.

Standard Oil of New York 4½s scored a fractional gain, touching a new maximum, and there was a little buying of New Jersey Standard 5s. Other industrials and the public utility group were quiet.

Firm prices reflected a fair demand for Third and Fourth Liberty 4¼s. Treasury obligations were inactive.

The foreign group again displayed mixed tendencies. German, Japanese and French issues inclined to heaviness, while there was some bidding up of Latin-American securities.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—There was a change in the trading conditions in the curb market today. Movements became narrower in the general list and many stocks were in increased supply, causing a declining tendency in the majority of issues in the course of the day. Several stocks, however, moved independently of the rest of the list and new high records were again made in stocks in which there was concentrated buying.

Deere & Company was a special feature, advancing over 9 points and establishing a new peak at 249¾. Hygrade Food Products 6s in which the trading started today, opened at 115 and had a quick advance to 122. Bancitaly, with a fractional advance, entered new high ground at 124⅞. St. Regis Paper also registered a new maximum price but reacted from its high level, and a high record was made by U. S. Freight, which rose over 2 points.

American Rolling Mills after a decline of over a point, recovered its loss and a number of other recently active issues moved in the same way. Auburn Motor advanced 4 points to 117 and Ford Motor of Canada was without a special change, selling at 470 and 471.

Oil stocks were actively traded but generally receded after gains were made. Standard Oil of Indiana shares held around 81, the new high level, trading in that issue being accompanied by persistent reports that a new stock dividend is under consideration. Vacuum Oil rose over a point and then reacted, and Standard Oil of Kentucky dropped 2 points on a few sales.

Some of the utilities held strong. Southeastern Power was heavily traded and made a new high record and American Gas & Electric advanced about a point. There was heavy trading also in Electric Bond & Share.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

Local Issues Top Previous Records

Trading interest centered in Lone Star Gas at the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange. A sudden buying wave developed in the first hour and carried the stock to a new high record following a slightly lower opening. Buying here was stimulated by demand for the stock in New York, where its price held a little above the local figure.

Blocks of the stock changing hands in the dealings here were of varied sizes, ranging from small lots to 500 shares. There was no explanation of the strength other than the now widely disseminated rumors that a capital change favorable to stockholders will be made, after which the company's properties will be transferred to one of the big Standard Oil units. Standard of New York is the company generally mentioned in this connection. According to the street gossip, two shares of Standard of New York will be offered for one of the present Lone Star.

Dealings in the specialties were on a relatively small scale. National Fireproofing preferred quieted down and only a few transactions in Arkansas Gas were recorded. The heavy industrials were dull. Small lots of Blaw Knox Steel was off a point at 95 and Westinghouse Airbrake came in at slightly higher quotations. Standard Sanitary ranged around previous levels with a slightly downward tendency.

"MISS AMERICA" ADDS THEATERS TO BLAST AID

Checks for a total of $2,450.61, representing collections taken in the Stanley-Davis-Clark theaters of Pittsburgh and the Alvin, Pitt and Nixon were added today to the Red Cross fund for the relief of sufferers in the Equitable Gas Company's tank explosion in the North Side.

In behalf of the theaters, Miss America of 1927 (Miss Lois Delander) handed the checks to Miss Sophie Levine, roll call director of Pittsburgh chapter of the Red Cross, in a pretty ceremony in the lobby of the Davis Theater at midday.

The theater collections were taken by the Boy Scouts at the suggestion of John J. McGuirk, president of the Stanley Company of America.

The amounts collected were as follows:

Nixon, $379.61; Alvin, $428.50; Pitt, $208.16; Arsenal, $26.00; Belmar, $27.31; Colonial Wilkinsburg, $17.00; Davis, $288.33; Grand $401.50; Liberty, $177.00; Lyric, $23.11; Manor, $131.00; Plaza, $29.05; Regent, $112.12; Ritz, $29.04; Rowland, Wilkinsburg, $40.45; Schenley, $136.50; Sheridan $49.14; Blackstone, $11.74; Capitol, $42.24; Olympic, $50.00; State, $14.45; total $2,450.61.

Fred Stone and Miss Dorothy Stone made personal appeals from the stage of the Nixon and gave substantial checks themselves. Members of the "My Maryland" company at the Alvin and of "The Spider" company at the Pitt, also made personal appeals.

PITTSBURGH CO. DEEDED FIRM

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 21.—A voluminous deed was filed with the county clerk in which L. C. Crile, master commissioner of the Federal Court of this district, conveys property of the Interstate Window Glass Company to the Interstate Window Glass Corporation, Pittsburgh.

Accompanying the deed is a mortgage to secure the payment of $2,221,500 worth of bonds.

These papers are the outcome of litigation brought by the Guaranty Trust Company, New York, trustee, against the Interstate Company, whose properties in this state, Western Pennsylvania and Oklahoma were placed in the hands of Virgil L. Highland and R. L. Hall, pending a decree for their sale. The properties brought an aggregate of $350,000.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure covers the Gulf states and northward along the Atlantic coast to Maine, while low pressure of considerable intensity and of wide extent covers the western and central portions of the country with its center over Wyoming. Another high appears over Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

This pressure distribution is producing cloudy weather over the entire country except the extreme South and California, and light rain in the lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley, and snow over the Northwest.

There was a considerable rise in temperature in the Southern and Central plains, and over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region, while over the Canadian Northwest and the border states the temperature is falling again.

ALL WELL WITH MACMILLAN

By International News Service.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 21.—The Macmillan Artic expedition today is within a few degrees of its goal—the North Pole—and is suffering no hardships.

This is the substance of a radio message picked up from the expedition by George Warren, 25-year-old amateur wireless operator, of Magnolia, N. J.

The message read:

"We are within a few degrees of the pole and all is well. We have passed a cold night. We are frozen in and will not be out until next spring. At the present time the Arctic under a mantle of six months' night."

FAST FALL CUTS RIVER MENACE

FREEPORT, Pa., Nov. 21.—A rapid fall in the Allegheny River has reduced the menace of the swirling current cutting into the river bank at Schenley, opposite here, and extending the damage caused Saturday to lowlands.

This morning the guage at Dam No. 5 here showed the river was falling one-tenth of a foot an hour, and reports from up-river stations recorded a more marked decrease.

COOLIDGE'S CITY FIRE-SWEPT

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Fire early today threatened to wipe out the business district of this community, President Coolidge's home city, and caused damage estimated at $500,000, when a four-story brick block, occupied by a department store, several small stores and offices, was destroyed.

The fire spread to an adjoining building and only the timely arrival of aid from Holyoke prevented further disaster.

W. VA. PAIR, DIVORCED, MARRY AGAIN AT 75

CAMDEN-ON-GAULEY, W. Va., Nov. 21.—At 75, Mr. and Mrs. John Milam have been remarried and will try it all over again. After rearing a family, discord crept into their lives and a divorce followed. As time passed the romance of their younger days was rekindled. A few days ago they slipped over to Summerville, where they were married again.

DROP IN COTTON GINNINGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to November 14, the Census Bureau announced today, totaled 10,899,182 bales, including 461,005 round bales, counted as half bales and excluding linters.

Ginnings to November 14 last year totaled 12,956,444 bales, including 427,323 round bales, and in 1925 they totaled 12,260,352 bales including 218,288 round bales.

This year's crop as indicated by conditions November 1 had been estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 12,842,000 equivalent 500 pound bales. Last year 72.1 per cent of the crop had been ginned to November 14 while in 1925 ginnings to that date represented 76.0 per cent of the crop.

DIES OF ACCIDENTAL BULLET WOUND

Wounds suffered last Wednesday when a revolver he was cleaning was accidentally discharged resulted in the death early today in the Allegheny General Hospital of James Quinn, 69, of 208 Corry street, North Side. The bullet struck him in the right temple.

SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH DURING MENTAL LAPSE

MARTINS FERRY, O., Nov. 21.—During a mental lapse resulting from an injury suffered 13 years ago, Isaac Bennington, 61, miner, committed suicide by shooting himself at his home in Flushing.

VALUABLE ANTIQUES LOST IN $5,000 FIRE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Several valuable pieces of antique furniture, two automobiles and farming implements were destroyed when a barn of Robert Colvert, of East Rices Landing, was burned to the ground. The loss was placed at $5,000.

FIGHT FERRY ST. SPAN, TUBES

The proposed Ferry street bridge and connecting tunnels were vigorously opposed in a letter sent by the citizens committee on city plan to the County Commissioners, Mayor Charles H. Kline and others interested. The improvement, the letter declared, would mean another artery converging in the downtown triangle and would further complicate traffic problems. Other plans, it said, would be more effective and less costly.

MUDDY RUNWAY HOLDS GILES

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—A muddy runway at Mills Field today forced further postponement of Capt. Frederick Giles' flight to Hawaii, first leg of a projected air journey to Australia.

Heavy rain soaked the field and it was believed it would be several days before the runway would be hard enough to enable a plane carrying a trans-oceanic load to take off.

FAYETTE SLAYER PAYS FOR MURDER OF FOUR

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Nov. 21.—Jerry Weeks, Negro slayer of a Negress and her three children, was executed in the electric chair by the commonwealth today. Weeks was strapped in the chair at 7 a. m. and was pronounced dead by the penitentiary physician at 7:07 a. m. He was convicted last March of clubbing to death his sister-in-law, Mrs. Marie Williams, in her home at Lambert, Pa., January 15, last.

Forbes

Optimism Expands Faster Than Trade; Stocks Climb.

By B. C. FORBES

OPTIMISM is expanding. It is expanding somewhat faster than business. Wall Street succeeded in marking up quotations mildly last week. They are still, however, below the peak reached six weeks ago.

CHEERFULNESS was inspired more by words than by actualities. President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon, Chairman Rascob of the General Motors finance committee, several railway presidents and other notables contributed stimulating statements. The predicted increase of 40 per cent in motor car sales in 1928 had the greatest influence, although President Coolidge's indorsement of heavy public expenditures on flood control, road building and naval construction was also interpreted as presaging demand for steel, concrete and other heavy materials.

We can safely count upon a heavy outpouring of glowing "forecasts" between now and January 1.

MEANWHILE, activity, outside of the stock market, continues to run behind a year ago. But it must always be kept in mind that "records" were then being broken.

The weekly decrease in railway freight has become considerably heavier as compared with last fall and occasionally falls behind 1925. Week-end headlines announce "bank clearings increase 14 per cent." But careful reading revealed that the gain was wholly in New York and that the rest of the country showed an actual decrease.

Such important industries as steel and motor making also make unfavorable comparisons with 12 months ago. Concerted efforts are being made, apparently with some success, to stay the sagging tendency in steel prices and at least some slight improvement in ordering is now reported. The motor industry, on the other hand, is resigned to comparative quietness until the January "automobile show" in New York, where buyers' appetites for new models are whetted.

SEASONAL release of farm workers, building workers and others has naturally brought about some unemployment. But the number idle is still below what might be called normal.

The soft coal strike unfortunately still drags along.

MOST agricultural prices did fairly well during the week. Wheat, corn and rye all finished the week slightly higher. Cotton, on the other hand, dipped to the minimum price for the season. There are accumulating evidences that our agricultural conditions, by and large, have substantially improved, and authorities declare confidently that the corner has been definitely turned—a fact of far-reaching influence political as well as economic.

MONETARY movements during the week, though not important, were not conducive to speculative exuberance. Brokers' loans expanded more than $71,000,000, bringing the total to $3,456,000,000, contrasted with $2,609,000,000 a year ago. The Federal Reserve banks' reserve is now appreciably under the percentage of last year. Gold was sent in quantity to South America, $3,000,000 went to Canada and sterling hovered near the gold export point, with prospects of further gold shipments from this country, especially in view of the enormous quantities of loans placed here for foreign borrowers.

Money rates changed little, nor is any pronounced change likely, unless something wholly unforeseen happens.

RETAIL trade is uneven. Cold weather again helped at many points. But most of the increase in sales as compared with last year are represented by chain stores and by large mail order houses which are now acquiring their own chains of distributing establishments throughout the country. There is practically unanimous agreement, however, that Christmas trade in the great majority of places will reach unprecedented volume.

Our October export balance of $154,000,000 was the best in three years. Such a showing is hardly likely to be maintained now that we are becoming more and more of a creditor nation. The problem of how we are ultimately to collect is for the present left to the future to determine. President Coolidge's emphatic declaration against lowering the tariff was in line with expectations, but it does not help towards solving the problem just mentioned.

Politics are quiescent.

THE continued super-abundance of investable money is reflected by a rise in both government and corporate bond quotations to new peaks. Stocks were under less pressure, and if half the rosy predictions now so freely made should be fulfilled, even still higher prices would not be astonishing. For my part, I cannot see the wisdom of climbing for the classes of stocks which have been most aggressively boomed.

STOCK ACTIVITY CONTINUES ON UP SIDE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Major speculative activity in today's stock market, which was unusually broad in character, continued on the up-side. Considerable irregularity developed at times, however, on selling inspired by the belief that a "technical reaction" was in order as a result of the rapidity of the recent advance in many issues. Gains of 1 to 6 points were scattered throughout the list, with more than 25 issues breaking into new high ground for the year.

Operators for the rise were aided in their operations by favorable trade news, which included a rally of $3 a bale in cotton prices, increases in brass and export copper prices and unofficial predictions from steel centers of another increase in steel prices. Call money continued in plentiful supply at 3½ per cent.

Pivotal industrials were again in rather free supply, but scale buying held the declines to narrow limits. The fact that the ticker was 17 minutes late, at times, in printing quotations caused some selling by bear traders who apparently hoped to unsettle the market by taking advantage of the confusion which usually attends such delays.

In the copper group, Kennecott, Anaconda and Calumet and Arizona topped their previous peak prices of the year. Other issues to attain new maximums were Packard and Hupp Motors, Detroit Edison, Radio, Shubert Theaters, Fox Film, Congress Cigar, Sears-Roebuck, Transue & Williams, National Biscuit, Fleischmann and International Paper.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 37 to 66 points on active covering and fresh buying inspired by the census report showing 10,889,182 bales ginned prior to November 14 this year, compared with 12,956,444 to the same date last season. These figures were below the expectation of local traders, who had been talking ginnings of around or slightly above 11,000,000 bales, and were evidently regarded as tending to confirm the smaller estimates of the crop.

January sold up to 20c and May to 20.41c, net advances of 60 to 68 points on active months, but the higher prices seemed to attract some southern selling, as well as rather heavy realizing, and the early bulge was followed by quick reactions of 20 to 25 points. Circulation of the ginning figures, however, brought in additional buying and the market was about 35 to 40 points net higher at the end of the first hour.

The volume of business subsided later, but the market held steady on further buying promoted by the bullish interpretation of the ginning figures. At midday January was selling around 19.85c, with the general market showing net advances of 36 to 48 points.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged early today at 4.60c for spot Cuban duty paid. No sales were reported.

Raw sugar futures were firmer on covering by December shorts and some buying for European account, probably promoted by expectations of favorable developments at today's conference between Cuban and Java interests relative to restriction of the coming crops. Cuban interests appeared to be sellers, however, and after advancing 2 to 3 points, prices reacted partially and at midday were 1 to 2 points net higher.

There was a moderate inquiry for refined sugar at unchanged prices which ranged from 5.70@5.90c for fine granulated.

Optimism Replaces Pessimism.

One of the interesting features of the business situation is the psychological change that has come over Wall street as regards the business situation. The pessimism and fears of but a few weeks ago have given way, in many quarters, to optimism, engendered by statements coming from such high officials as Secretary Mellon, President Coolidge, the head of General Motors Corporation, and many others.

Rayon Dumping Probe Dropped.

The Treasury Department has dropped, without prejudice, anti-dumping proceedings in connection with rayon imported from France and Italy. Present conditions, especially demand for rayon, and the exchange position of the Italian lira, made a finding of dumping difficult. Department has reserved the right, however, to reopen its investigation should circumstances warrant.

Radio at New High.

Advance in Radio to new high ground is accompanied by talk of excellent business in the current month, apparently in anticipation of large holiday demand. New electric sets met with excellent public reception, with the result there is considerable delay in getting deliveries to ultimate customers. In addition the company is now receiving its 7½ per cent royalty on its patents from many of its competitors.

Impaired Locomotives Gain.

Locomotives in need of repair on Class 1 railroads November 1 totaled 8,775, or 14.4 per cent of the number on line, according to American Railway Association. This was an increase of 19 locomotives compared with the number October 15. Class 1 railroads November 1 had 5,126 serviceable locomotives in storage, compared with 5,401 on October 15.

Insull Defends Mergers.

Defending his consolidation policies, Samuel Insull, Chicago utility magnate, declared large corporations are the only solution to the growing problem of electric power distribution. "There is no evil in mere size," he said. "It is the reason of the size and effect of it which counts." Insull believes central power distribution is the only "economical method of selling electric energy."

Southern Pacific.

Railroad interests who have been buying Southern Pacific maintain that their purchases have not been based on rumors of an early increase in dividend which have been circulated so often in the financial district. Instead these well-informed interests point out that more new construction has been accomplished in recent years by that road than by any other, because it has been building for the future in recognition of probable potential growth of the territory it serves. While they admit that earning power of road is sufficient to permit more favorable treatment of stockholders, they insist that delay in taking such action does not detract from the road's excellent prospects.

Watching the Charts.

Students of averages have expressed the opinion on several occasions during the latest advance that the average of industrials could advance 20 points before meeting serious resistance. They based this view on the fact a similar forward movement was recorded last July and again in August. On this theory stocks could move up approximately 4 points further before meeting opposition sufficient to bring about any sharp set-back. However, these students are now advising followers to watch for indications of a withdrawal of inside support and should this be shown they insist profit-taking would be the best course to follow.

Mahoning Valley Operations.

Mahoning Valley Steel schedules show 31 or 53 independent open-hearth furnace melting, 12 of pipe mills operating, and 65 to 70 out of 127 sheet mills active. A. M. Byers Company is operating on three days a week schedule double turn, against five days recently. Carnegie Steel is averaging 55 to 60 per cent operations, Republic 55 per cent and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 60 per cent.

Higher Steel Prices Seen.

Steel producers are expecting a further advance of $1 a ton in bars, shapes and plate prices in the early part of January. The trade feels that prices should be on a somewhat higher level if suitable returns are to be had.

Big Pipe Orders Pending.

Aside from the large orders for pipe placed by various companies for gas lines during the past week, even more important orders are pending. Included in the new business is a line from Louisiana to St. Louis, one from the Louisiana field to Kansas City, two lines in Texas and one in Montana, all of which will require over 300,000 tons of pipe. These orders are expected to be placed within the next 30 days.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Higher prices for wheat resulted early today from less favorable reports on crop conditions in Argentina. A heat wave with temperatures of 112 in some places in Argentina was reported. Opening at ⅜ to ⅞c up, Chicago wheat soon scored further gains. Corn reacted from an early advance, starting at ⅛ to ½c higher, and subsequently receding to below Saturday's finish. Oats were weak. Provisions showed a little firmness.

At noon wheat was ⅞ to 1¼c net higher and corn ⅛ to ⅜c off.

Complaints that phenomenal hot winds were damaging the quality of wheat in North Argentina received quick attention here today and were emphasized by advices of poor crop prospects in South Argentina despite recent rains. Advices were also at hand telling of black rust in damaging quantities in the province of Santa Fe, Argentina.

Selling of corn against purchases of wheat had a depressing effect at times today on the corn market. Profit taking sales of corn were also much in evidence and there was aggressive selling of oats on the part of several houses. Meanwhile, however, talk was current that the weather was too damp for husking and that returns as a whole were not showing up yields as of much as had been looked for.

'Miss America,' Here, Is—Oh, So Homesick!

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Of course you want to hear all about her. For she is Miss America.

Well, starting at the feet. They are lovely. Dainty and prettily shod in sport shoes. No high crampy heels.

Her legs are perfect. Otherwise she hardly would have become Miss America. And her curves are just what you would expect, too. If her face could not launch a thousand ships as did Helen of Troy's—then ships are pretty difficult to launch.

Gray blue eyes, large and expressive. Her hair is a soft rich blonde, slightly waving, and comes to her shoulders. Her features are dainty and her mouth pretty. They make a lovely composite picture of girlish innocence, frankness and interest in the big outside world that is so new to her.

Lois Delander, Miss America 1927, has money to spend galore—for her earnings are immense. But do you know what this little girl from Joliet is going to save it for? She wants to travel around the world and admits:

"Really I have bought few clothes. I like them, but I don't think it is good taste for a 16-year-old girl to dress all up and make herself look like a sophisticated actress. I am making theater appearances because it belongs to my title. Really, I am not an actress."

LIKES MEN, BUT—

She dimpled daintily when romance was brought up. Then squeezed her hands together and gave a little happy shrug:

"Sure I like men. Big, tall, dark ones. I'm no flat tire."

"How about marriage—think you will ever marry."

The gray blue eyes of Miss America opened in surprise:

"Of course I shall marry. Mercy! What would a career be without a husband and babies. But, I'm too young to marry now—much. I don't think a girl should marry before she is 19 or 20."

HOMESICK

Lois is homesick. Like a little girl who misses her mamma and papa and all her friends—very much. Her eyes grew wistful when she thought of Joliet:

"I'd like to be home for Christmas. You see I've never been away from home on Christmas before."

This is her message to the other girls who envy her and want to leave their homes and go out and conquer the world:

"I would rather be home with my mamma and papa this Christmas—just like old times—than have a check for a million dollars handed to me."

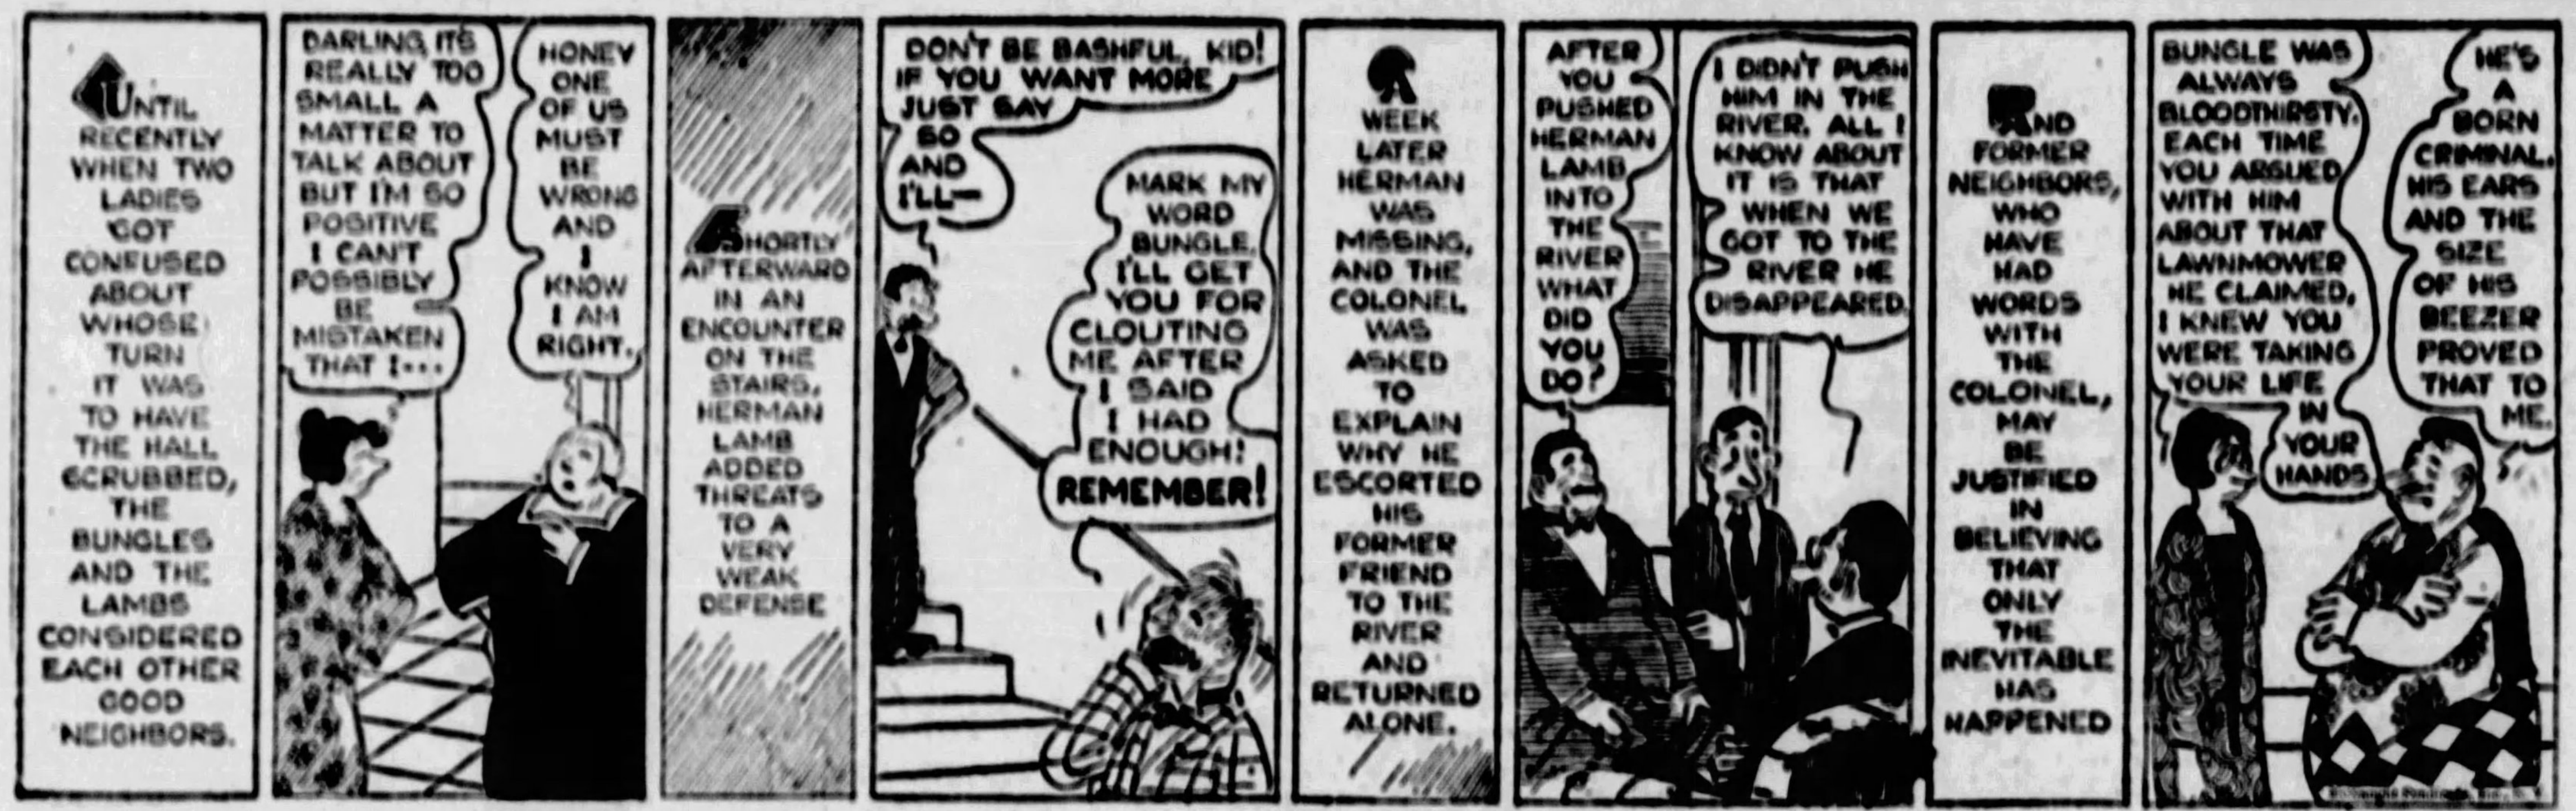
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

A Sad Story



UNTIL RECENTLY WHEN TWO LADIES GOT CONFUSED ABOUT WHOSE TURN IT WAS TO HAVE THE HALL SCRUBBED, THE BUNGLES AND THE LAMBS CONSIDERED EACH OTHER GOOD NEIGHBORS.
DARLING, IT'S REALLY TOO SMALL A MATTER TO TALK ABOUT BUT I'M SO POSITIVE I CAN'T POSSIBLY BE MISTAKEN THAT I...
HONEY ONE OF US MUST BE WRONG AND I KNOW I AM RIGHT.
SHORTLY AFTERWARD IN AN ENCOUNTER ON THE STAIRS, HERMAN LAMB ADDED THREATS TO A VERY WEAK DEFENSE
DON'T BE BASHFUL, KID! IF YOU WANT MORE JUST SAY SO AND I'LL—
MARK MY WORD BUNGLE, I'LL GET YOU FOR CLOUTING ME AFTER I SAID I HAD ENOUGH! REMEMBER!
A WEEK LATER HERMAN WAS MISSING, AND THE COLONEL WAS ASKED TO EXPLAIN WHY HE ESCORTED HIS FORMER FRIEND TO THE RIVER AND RETURNED ALONE.
AFTER YOU PUSHED HERMAN LAMB INTO THE RIVER WHAT DID YOU DO?
I DIDN'T PUSH HIM IN THE RIVER. ALL I KNOW ABOUT IT IS THAT WHEN WE GOT TO THE RIVER HE DISAPPEARED.
AND FORMER NEIGHBORS, WHO HAVE HAD WORDS WITH THE COLONEL, MAY BE JUSTIFIED IN BELIEVING THAT ONLY THE INEVITABLE HAS HAPPENED
BUNGLE WAS ALWAYS BLOODTHIRSTY, EACH TIME YOU ARGUED WITH HIM ABOUT THAT LAWNMOWER HE CLAIMED, I KNEW YOU WERE TAKING YOUR LIFE IN YOUR HANDS
HE'S A BORN CRIMINAL. HIS EARS AND THE SIZE OF HIS BEEZER PROVED THAT TO ME.

FRISBY DELIVERS HIS "MESSAGE TO [illegible]

One of many readers who endorse Frisby's daily articles. "They are very helpful," says D. Herold. "Easy to read and inspirational, clean and wholesome."

By MISTER FRISBY,
(Our Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Today I want to give my "Message to Garcia."

I want to take a few minutes of your time to make this one statement:

"It's up to you."

That is my text.

"It up to you."

What are you going to do about it?

Six months ago people would stop me on the street with long faces and whine, saying: "Frisby, that fellow Lindbergh will never make it."

When anybody would say that I would have fire in my eye.

"See here," I would say. "He will make it."

And Lindbergh has never denied that it was my attitude that made him turn the trick.

And yet how many have given me full credit for this historic accomplishment?

As I told the Y. M. C. A. boys at their vesper service: "Frisby would speak the truth till Gabriel blowed his horn."

I have no reason to change my course.

Critics who are forever sneering at America and Americans, criticizing our manners and deploring our culture simply don't understand our aspirations, our hopes and our triumphs.

This news item should enlighten them—

ATLANTIC CITY—Five and a half million dollars are spent annually for saxophones, declared Senator Beardsley of Elkhart, Ind., in his address before the convention of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association in the Ambassador Hotel.

He urged druggists to sell saxophones in their stores and declared 80 per cent of all saxophones are made in Elkhart.

But wouldn't it be annoying to rush into a drug store for a hot water bag and have some super-salesman harass you into taking a saxophone?

BUGS BAER Says

THE famous alimony club of New York is moving to bigger and better quarters.

The old building was too small to hold all the members who wanted to get out.

This is the most exclusive club in America. In order to be in good standing in the Alimony Club you must be in bad standing everywhere else.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

The members have one objection to the new building. There are too many cornerstones in it.

Qualifications for the Alimony Club are the same as other social organizations in town. All members must show a reluctance to go home.

And like all other clubs, the members hate the house committee. In order to enlighten the boys who have not yet completed their primary education, alimony is the upkeep on the initial cost of a wedding ring.

It is awarded to the wife by an extravagant judge and is the household budget of a busted-up home. If the husband refuses to kick across with the weekly assessment he is made an honorary member of the shut-in society.

Having divorced in haste he is allowed to repent at leisure. After a couple of well shaded months in the Alimony Club he generally loosens up and tells where the treasure is hidden.

It's the only club which throws you out for paying dues.

It is one lesson in your school book which you never forget. We know several knight errants who have resigned from that organization and who never give the club as reference when seeking credit.

But it's a terrific wear and tear on a husband who must donate fifty per week alimony to his wife. Especially, when he only gave her about four dollars a week when he loved her.

There are some people who claim that alimony is unjust to escaped husbands and that our courts have become the Ladies' Aid Society.

But the law holds different. When a man takes a railroad trip he must pay for his ticket.

When a man goes for an ocean voyage he must buy his passage. And when a man runs away from his wife, the alimony is the accumulated mileage at so much per loose mile.

Some rich men have been members of the Alimony Club, but they usually weaken in about 10 days and are expelled for conduct unbecoming a stingy husband. They admit that they got a lesson the judge will never forget. And every week they hand over the alimony they realize that here is one charge account they cannot quibble over.

Equitable Gas Company Will Pay Damages

The statement of the Equitable Gas Company, by its president, A. W. Robertson, that it accepts responsibility for the North Side gas tank explosion and will pay consequent damages, is an act worthy of praise.

First for public commendation is the promise that most needy sufferers, those whose homes have been damaged or destroyed, those who suffered personal injury, those into whose abodes stalked Death, will receive first consideration.

This is a humanitarian thing the Equitable Gas Company has done. It has swept aside the web of possible legal recourse and brought assurance where doubt may have existed. Sufferers are told their woes are not to be compounded but composed as speedily as may be. Promptness in relieving the situation of the small householder before anything else is done is pledged—to the honor of the gas company as a corporation and of its officers who thus show their sympathy in as practical a way as is humanly possible.

As Mr. Robertson points out, there are many legal points involved in deciding the question of responsibility. Without waiting for that decision the company has acted as if the decision had been made. It must win admiration for the promptitude and willingness with which it seeks to restore stricken families as near to their former comfort as may be possible.

Damages to industries will be redressed too, but it is properly held that their cases are not so urgent as those in which the current of home life has been so seriously and so grievously affected.

"Corporations"—it is an old saying—"have no souls." Perhaps. But they are composed of men who do have souls, and no more striking evidence of that fact has ever been given than is shown in the just act of the Equitable Gas Company. It is an evidence of the new attitude of big organizations to give fair treatment to all.

A Smiling Champion

Tunney's Talk at a Boys' School

TUNNEY TALKING TO THE BOYS AT CHOATE.

The other day Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, went to call on a young friend at the Choate school and made a speech to the boys.

Needless to say, the big champion, with his pleasant smile, interested the young gentlemen of the school.

He did not talk to them about fighting, but of mental "courage," the importance of getting up after you are knocked down, whether you are knocked down physically or mentally, with boxing gloves, or by the hard blows of circumstance and "fate."

Tunney told the boys, "You are never whipped in life's struggles until YOU make up your mind to it and ADMIT that you are whipped. Some of you have read the beautiful old ballad about the Battle of Chevy Chase, telling of the man that went on fighting 'on his stumps' after both his legs were smitten off.

"You have read of the heroic French soldier whose name is still honored everywhere in the world. He was alone, a sentry in the night. A hundred English soldiers suddenly surrounded him with long spears, told him to keep quiet, and nothing would happen. He alarmed the French camp with his shouts, repeating over and over to warm his comrades, 'A moi d'auvergne, voici l'ennemi,' warning his friends that the enemy was at hand. They killed him with the sharp points of their spears, but not until he had saved his comrades.

"That's one kind of courage.

"There are all kinds of courage, but, in the long run, courage means enduring what you MUST endure, in a cause worthy of endurance."

Mr. Tunney's address was applauded. He said nothing about fighting with the fists.

This smile of Tunney's is published to remind you that there is a great deal in SMILING at the right time.

Smile at your LEISURE, smile in FRIENDSHIP. And be in deadly earnest, as Tunney is, when you have real work to do.

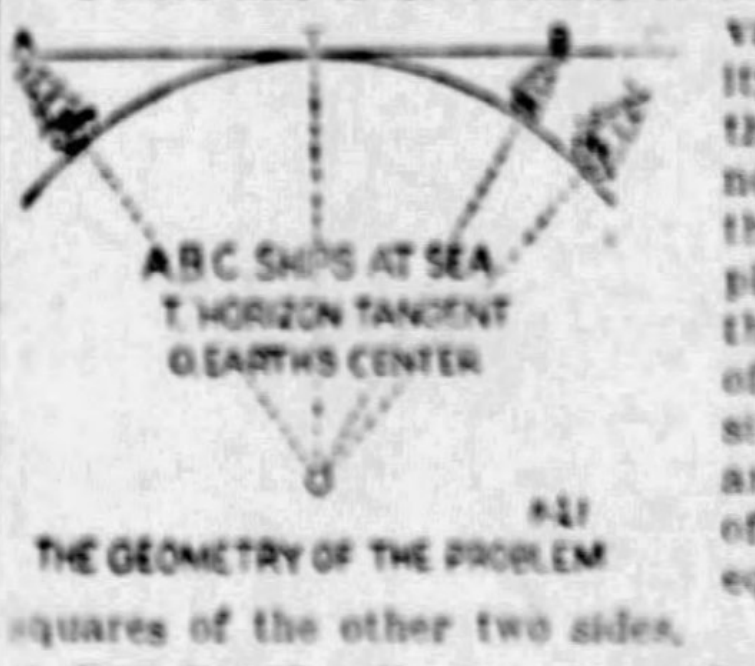
Garrett P Serviss Says:

Seeing at Sea

"Kindly inform me what the visual distance at sea is—similar to sketch?—H. W."

THAT depends upon the height of the eye above sea level. Since this is a problem of much interest to all ocean travelers, I have elaborated your sketch in order to generalize its application.

I have had to do violence to the size of the earth and vastly inflate the vanity of the ships; but that, I think, can lead to no misunderstanding of the geometrical principle. It is all based on the old "Asses' Bridge" of Euclid, viz. the proposition that in a right-angle triangle the square of the hypothenuse is equal to the sum of the squares of the other two sides.



THE GEOMETRY OF THE PROBLEM

But first I will give a specific answer to your question with the aid of a little rule, which can be memorized or noted in a pocketbook. This is, that the distance of the sea horizon in miles equals the square root of twice the height of the eye in feet (above the sea surface).

Thus, if you are looking from the deck of a ship, with your eye elevated 25 feet above the water, your line of sight will touch the horizon at a distance of about seven miles. This is derived as follows: Twice the height of the eyes is fifty; the square root of fifty is a trifle more than seven.

If you make the observation from the masthead, say 112 feet above the water, the distance of the horizon will become 15 miles, since twice 112 is 224 and the square root of 224 is about 15.

If, at the same time another observer, situated at the same elevation on another ship, looks in your direction, he will see you from an equal distance on the other side of the horizon (his side), so that the total distance between you will be 30 miles. This is shown by the ships A and B in the picture. If the observer on the ship C is twice as high as the one on B, his horizon will be about 21.2 miles distant, his line of sight touching the top of B and also of A.

These calculations have something of the rule-of-thumb element about them, since the formula is made to allow for the refraction of light in the atmosphere, which, although it always exists, is a variable quantity, and its average amount has to be estimated from repeated experiments. If we used only the geometrical data, the distance would come out less. Eccentric refraction also sometimes causes mirage effects, so that objects invisible in ordinary circumstances are optically lifted into view above the horizon.

Learn From Others

ARE you so confident that your opinions are right and your own judgments are sound that you won't listen to the opinions of others?

If you were more willing to listen you might have learned enough to make you a greater success in life.

You can think of men who have listened to you. They said very little and let you do most of the talking.

They were getting what they could out of your experience that would be of use to them and help them forward.

Too busy listening, these men of progress, to tell you much.

They would not think of relying upon themselves entirely.

They seek to get the point of view and the slant of others.

The wise man takes the best from many minds in conversation, reading and study.

The wise man is glad to have suggestions and often he finds that study of different ideas enables him to evolve something better.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Failure

HE WAS a failure, so his fellows said, for he had gained scant store of worldly goods and in adversity he bowed his head, rebelling never at life's cruel moods. He was a failure? Strange, then, how the poor in every dire distress sought him for aid, and how the needy waited at his door and brought their problems to him, unafraid. He failed to gain the busy world's esteem, to glean its rich rewards of fame and gold, but won, instead, to harbors of his dream, held health and love and simple joys untold. He was a failure, yet some men who bear the outward tokens of unmarred success would gladly give their splendors up to share the failure's lot of peace and happiness.

Something to Think About

By BRUNO LESSING

The Art of Gentleness

THE same kind of fuss that we have in this country over the question of evolution has broken out in England. The scandalous results are known to all newspaper readers. The Arch-bishop of Canterbury, a high-minded and dignified churchman, rebuked one of the disputants. "Called him down," as we put it. In his rebuke the arch-bishop used the phrase:

"The exercise of tender and fatherly carefulness in word and act."

There is much to think about in that phrase. It breathes the spirit of gentleness. If there were more gentleness in the world there would be less fuss about living.

In the case of evolutionists versus fundamentalists, in this country, it is always the latter who make the noise, who bring accusations against their opponents and who depart from the path of gentleness. Those who believe in the theory of evolution accept it as they do every other law of nature. You don't go out to yell about the sun rising every morning. You just take it for granted.

Those who are ignorant of the vast mass of proof in favor of this theory are the ones who make the disturbance. Some, perhaps, find their inspiration in some quotation from the Bible which, they feel, impels them to try to cram their belief down the throats of others. Some, perhaps, keep banging the drum and clanging the cymbals in order to hide their ignorance.

This is quite a common phenomenon. It is always the Prohibitionist who accuses those that want to drink beer and wine of being tools of the "liquor interests." Whereas those who want to drink beer and wine are content to drink in peace without bringing any charges against the Prohibitionists.

Most people are convinced that the earth is round. But they do not brag about it. It is only the person who believes the earth to be flat who goes about making a noise.

The great physicians and lawyers pursue their professions quietly and with dignity. The quacks and the shysters make all the noise.

Gentleness is a great art which can be practiced on a great scale only by great minds. No man has ever succeeded by shouting his way through life. It is only the mediocre mind which attempts it.

You will always find the side which is in the wrong making the greater noise. Doc Cook talked more about his trip to the North Pole, which he didn't make, than Admiral Peary who discovered it. Somehow or other, gentleness is a natural attribute of truth and intelligent conviction.

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says: God Made Man Free

OVER in Italy Mister Mussolini is shutting off the radios at 10 p. m. and telling the folks to go to bed.

In Chicago they've hired a nice business man who knows a lot about sports to go through the libraries and burn all the "unpatriotic" histories which tell distressing things about our American heroes—like saying they sometimes took a glass too much or looked at a lady too many.

And in Oregon, the ladies of the W. C. T. U. invoked the law in an attempt to stop the debate on Companionate Marriage between Judge Lindsey and Rabbi Newman.

All of these various people are well meaning, earnest and conscientious. They honestly believe that you can make people good by putting laws and lids on them. They sincerely think that Free Fun and Free Speech are bad medicine for the human race. I'm not going to argue the point. Maybe some of us will ravel out under the strain. And maybe we won't. Be that as it may, the point I wish to make is this—

THE WORST THING THAT CAN HAPPEN TO A MAN IS NOT TO LET THINGS HAPPEN TO HIM.

The human biped has an inalienable right to pursue happiness.

But he has an even more sacred and fundamental right—and that is THE RIGHT TO RISK UNHAPPINESS—to face danger, to commit mistakes, to make a darned fool of himself, if such be his impulse.

For some strange reason, this prerogative, which he often used disastrously, is much more essential to his growth than any amount of second hand wisdom or righteousness.

Human beings don't grow well under glass. They've got to get in and wrestle with the weather and buy a lot of miscellaneous experience before they're worth their salt. I don't know why this is, but a fairly High Authority seems responsible for it.

GOD DIDN'T MAKE A CHEMICALLY PURE GARDEN OF EDEN.

HE PLANTED A HIGHLY DANGEROUS TREE OF WISDOM IN THE MIDST OF ALL THE PRETTY FLOWERS AND HE DIDN'T PUT ANY BARBED WIRE AROUND IT EITHER. NOR DID HE CLAMP ANY HANDCUFFS ON EVE'S WRISTS.

EVE COULD GRAB, IF SHE WISHED, AND ADAM COULD BITE.

GOD LEFT THEM FREE TO MAKE THEIR OWN CHOICE, AND TAKE THEIR TUMMYACHE ALONG WITH THEIR NEW WISDOM.

Of course he could have arranged it differently. He could have issued an injunction against that serpent's debate and he could have appointed a squad of angels to go sleuthing around the garden, smelling breaths to see if anyone had been eating apples. But He didn't.

HE EVIDENTLY DECIDED THAT ANYONE WHO WAS MADE IN HIS OWN IMAGE HAD A RIGHT TO A LITTLE FREE WILL, AND THE CHANCE TO GROW A BACKBONE. SO HE LET THEM TAKE THEIR CHANCES.

Yes, I admit that was a long time ago. But I still think He knew a lot more about handling folks than some people I could mention.

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Came Tom Millard, the China correspondent, wearing a yellow-spotted tie and gray spats edged with white, and, nettled by his sartorial splendor, I sat on two favorite talking records, cracking them into pieces.

In the afternoon to a ship, where Martin Johnson and his wife showed motion pictures of explorations in Africa, where they have been four years, and Mrs. Johnson imitated many wild night cries. And when the lights went on it was odd to see them back amid civilization in modern dress.

To a dinner, and sat next to Magistrate Jean Norris, who told some of her experiences with criminals, and a sympathetic lady she is. And talked also with Bernard Baruch, Lois Long, Peter Arno, M. Cartier, the jeweler, and others. So to bed late.

The New York speakeasy of the exclusive sort is usually in a brownstoned private residence and known to the initiate by street number. Outwardly there is the breath of physical decay. Curtains are drawn and the entrance is a gloomy basement door leading into a damp, secret crypt.

Customers come furtively, are peeked at through a peep hole and seem to flip in. The atmosphere is one of ominous hush as though all were taut waiting the crash of the raider's ax. Attendants seem tight-lipped and ready to snatch off their aprons and run. Often they do, buckitty-buckitty.

These are the places serving all liquors—from draft beer to cointreau. No one sips drinks. They are gulped. Prices are sky-high and profits enormous as long as they last. A new wrinkle in bootlegging has been found among fake antique stores.

In such surroundings few revenue sniffers expect to find cached liquor for sale, but they often do.

Almost every revue these days features those simpering twins or trios who sing sour songs off key. The tunes are supposed to be agonies of blues, but to these flopping unmusical ears they have the effect of a slate pencil drawn through clenched teeth.

He is one of those old beggars with spaniel-brown pleading eyes who stands on lonely corners in the chill, whining for "just a few pennies." He was accommodated the other day with a gentleman's total supply of change—a dime and two coppers. Gazing at them for a few seconds, he snarled: "A fine hot sport you are!"

Chauffeurs have their merry joust with traffic cops in midtown when they feel they have been held up long enough. They begin a series of short toots with their horns which rise to a crashing crescendo and if not distracting to the cop is to those living and walking along the street. It has become such a nuisance six drivers were handed summonses in that many minutes last week—although I do not know what particular ordinance they violated nor do I care to find out.

Theatrical house managers have much idle time. Yet they must be on the job most [illegible]. One is a successful writer of jingles [illegible] a children's magazine. Another has perfected several mechanical toys for which he receives royalties. Still another has published a book anonymously on palmistry.

And that for no reason at all recalls the article most frequently left in theaters is eyeglasses. One patron went a little further—he left a glass eye.

In hotels the articles most frequently left behind are combs and hair brushes.

I would not care to see a better actor than Allan Jeayes in the much-talked-about play, "The Letter." But somehow the star, Katharine Cornell, last year's idol of the matinee girls, left me cold. While she was "emoting" on all cylinders I could not keep my mind off the baldhead in front of me—which was the glossiest I ever beheld.

Do Newspapers Tell the Truth

By DR. FRANK CRANE

After a man marries his sweetie boo, whom he had thought perfection in his courting days, he begins to find fault with her.

We always criticize that with which we are very familiar.

Boarding school misses find fault with their excellent lunches simply because they have them every day, and boarding house guests always criticize the food. The food is all right, only they have it too regularly.

After a man has run his automobile awhile he finds that the new machine which he thought perfection has faults, and he begins to remark them.

So it is with newspapers. They are the most common thing in the world. We all read them every day and the tendency is to magnify their faults.

It is a common thing to hear people say that newspapers are unreliable and that you can't believe what you see in the papers. They seem to think there is a competition on the part of editors to suppress the truth.

As a matter of fact, newspapers do their utmost to secure facts. As Mr. Hughes said at the New Jersey Institute the other day, "You can believe what you see in the papers to an amazing degree. The newspaper industry is spending many millions of dollars a year—more than eight millions through the Associated Press alone—to gather the unadulterated facts about everything that happens everywhere and to transmit that information to the ends of the earth with the speed of light. Eighty thousand people are working feverishly day and night, Sunday and holidays, to make possible the more than 100,000 words of the news of the Associated Press."

There never was a time when newspaper editors were putting forth such intense effort to publish the facts.

The newspaper, of course, depends for its support upon the advertiser, but its fundamental support is the reader. The advertiser doesn't get anything for his advertising unless he has a lot of readers, and circulation means advertising rates.

When the readers begin to believe that the newspaper is not telling the truth they quit reading the paper, and the advertising falls off. Therefore, it is in the interest of every newspaper, as much as possible, to publish the facts, and it tries to do it, as a rule.

It is a common saying that you can't believe the weather prognosticator, but really he is pretty nearly right all the time.

The average of truth is surprisingly high. So it is with the newspapers. The average of truth is very high and it is a good deal better to depend upon the newspapers for your information than hearsay and gossip which has a tendency to magnify the facts.

The No-Exertion Club

THIS is not fiction nor fable.

Among the financial elephants of an American city there is a society whose official name is "The No Exertion Club."

This aggregation of sloths carries out an onerous and arduous program of cards and cocktails and condiments and immobility.

I have a friend who knew two of this membership, knew them well, an elephant and his brother-in-law. Both were as fat as the bootlegger's dog and less useful to society.

They died recently, both of them, in the prime of life, if such life has a prime, and were carted away to the no-exertion club of the boulevard cemetery.

Had they belonged vitally to a More-Exertion Club they would be living yet for two decades.

No exertion is only an alias of suicide.

The scientists should be decorated for this, that they are trying indefatigably to tell the world that life is activity; that movement is the fundamental characteristic of everything from atom to oak.

Mother Nature does well in this, that she sends the scythe man along to cut down the no-exertions whispering the while, "why cumbereth it the earth."

That's why it is dangerous to "retire from business." The scythe man is apt to be the next one to bang the knocker.

Only jungle souls could find happiness in a No-Exertion Club. They must be atavists with a vengeance, going back far enough to make the cave man look like the summit of evolution.

Death always lurks in that basement. There is life abundant in the next story above, the mental; or more abundant life in the highest story, the spiritual.

If you like flowers join the No-Exertion Club.

Isn't It So?

Life is full of uncertainties. If you don't believe it, just take a tip on a sure thing.

Many a man's idea of a good time is to wake up next morning and not know what day of the week it is.

To be popular with your neighbors you must occasionally give them a little food for gossip.
